Wall St. Report NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Prices of leading stocks plunged into new low territory for the past 18 months or longer in today's market. Losses of 1 to 3 points at the worst, however, were substantially reduced or cancelled in many instances in the final hour as some "bargaining hunting" buying and selling covering made its appearance.

Brokers could point to no outstanding news development as responsible for resumption of the slide. Motors stiffened, after a morning relapse, on forecasts from automobile centers that sales and production in 1938 will equal if not exceed those of the present year.

DEAF CHILDREN ABANDON SIGNS; USE VIBRATIONS

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Children enrolled at St. Joseph's Institute for the Deaf here are taught to speak and hear through sound waves and vibrations. The method has proved so successful, according to Mother Sylvania, director of the institute, that the sign language, ancient means of communication among the deaf, is no longer taught.

Children as young as three years are accepted at the institute on the theory that the earlier training is begun the easier they can learn to speak and develop an awareness of sound conveyed by vibrations through the nerves. The first step in the process of teaching the pupils is done before a mirror. They are shown the various positions of the lips, tongue and cheeks during the production of individual sounds. The teacher pronounces the sound while the child places his finger tips on her face to feel the voice vibrations.

After intense application to this fundamental step, the pupil watches himself in the mirror and tries to imitate the teacher. Unable to hear the sound he produces, the pupil depends entirely upon the mirror and the feel of the vibrations in his fingertips to receive and identify the sound. After he has mastered the basic letter sounds, the pupil then begins to construct them into words and sentences.

The strange child coming into the institute, according to Mother Sylvania, is surprised and fascinated by the knowledge that he has a name and that common objects which he has previously known only by sight and touch also have names.

Each morning the children begin the day by marching to music. Assembled around a huge grand piano, the children place their hands on the sounding board while a teacher plays a song with a marked rhythm. Then they leave the piano and march around the room, clapping and keeping step with the music's rhythm. Observers seeing the children for the first time are amazed at the ability to maintain their almost perfect rhythm.

In addition to learning to hear through sound vibrations the pupils also become adept at reading lips.

EVACUATE BEFORE JAPANESE THREAT OF BOMBARDMENT

The Japanese had warned that foreigners would face danger of death from the air beginning at noon Tuesday. Japanese officials declared Japan would not be responsible for loss of foreign life after that hour.

Chinese Disappointed Johnson's decision to withdraw roused bitter disappointment among Nanking officials, some of whom felt that the ambassador should remain as a gesture of loyalty and sympathy with China's cause in the conflict with Japan.

The British, Russian, German and Italian embassies decided to remain, at least for the moment, and British and French naval commanders warned Japanese that they would be held strictly responsible for any loss of life or damage to property of their nationals.

The American commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, Admiral Harry Yarnell, likewise declared that the Luzon and her sister ship, the Guam, would protect American nationals. Withdrawal of the embassy staff, however, paved the way for withdrawal of the war craft—as requested by the Japanese.

British and French naval commanders asserted their warships would be maintained in the Yangtze off Nanking, so long as their embassies were open. The Japanese planes, in relays of six to a squadron, subjected Nanking to terrific bombardment for three hours during the morning, aiming at Nanking government buildings but striking residences instead.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Chinese fliers launched new night air raids tonight, swooping in death-defying dives over the Japanese military airfield in the Yangtzeport sector. Japanese anti-aircraft batteries on the fringe of the international settlement sprayed shrapnel fragments over a wide area but apparently failed to bring down any of the Chinese planes.

Cholera in the foreign area, already at epidemic proportions, has spread alarmingly. Health officials, battling against spread of the dread disease from the fifth of jammed Chinese refugee camps, reported 1,015 known cases and 120 deaths. There have been 19 cases among foreign residents and nine deaths.

Japanese announced that they had lost approximately 4,000 dead and wounded in the Shanghai sector since August 25 when they first began landing troops. The statement was made, they said, to refute Chinese claims that fighting had pulled around Shanghai because the Japanese had suffered such heavy casualties they had to wait for more reinforcements.
