HOPE HIGH LOST RUSSIANS ALIVE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.-(AP)-Voicing the conviction that Sigismund Levaneffsky, missing Soviet Arctic flyer, and his five companions still are alive, Constantine Umansky, Soviet charge d'affaires, announced today that the search for them would be continued indefinitely. Levaneffsky and his fellow aviators were lost early in August while enroute on a flight across the north pole from Moscow to the United States. Umansky's announcement was made at a luncheon at the Soviet embassy in honor of Sir Hubert Wilkins, the Australian polar explorer, who has just completed a fruitless search for Levaneffsky in a Soviet-owned flying boat. Accompanied by his crew of four men, Wilkins flew here to report to Russian officials on the results of their hunt, which involved five long distance flights covering 19,000 miles of Arctic waste. The explorer and his men also expressed the belief there was a good chance that the missing fliers survived their forced landing.
