Men Are Offered
Smartest Apparel
For Fall, Winter

For the past 16 years Mann's through the men's department, has offered the smartest wearing apparel known for men. With the change each season giving them accurate ideas of what well-dressed men were wearing, Mann's men's department has earnestly tried to give the best for the money throughout the department, and they now have an outstanding and complete stock of smart apparel in readiness for fall and winter.

For the past year the men's and boys' departments, under the management of Howard Hamilton, who came to Mann's with ten years' clothing experience in California, has taken on exclusively for southern Oregon, many fine nationally-advertised lines, and they offer names well known in men's wear circles.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Club and Samuel Spitz clothing is featured in the department, along with Stetson hats, Wilson Brothers furnishings, Botany wool ties, Fruit of the Loom shirts, Royal robes, Can't Bust 'Em work clothing, Kaysee boys' wear, Lee Wald garments for boys, Cohn Gold-water slacks and sport outfits, Paris pants and suspenders, Holeproof hosiery, Jantzen swimming suits and trunks and Medlicott wool sweaters. Plaids figure strongly in men's suits, with the double-breasted plain back being the more popular. Blue and grey are considered more correct for the fall wardrobe, while few browns are being sold more for business wear.

Hats in metal tone shades come to the front for fall. Smart copper and bronze shades lead the fall parade, in snap brim, raw edge styles.

Fancy pattern shirts in checks and stripes continue to be popular and the highlight of fall shirts appears in the famous Wilson "Obon," the shirt with the seamless one-piece collar.

Mann's men's department is your department. It is dedicated to the people it may serve. Let this department help you solve your clothing problems.
