"No foe from within or without is going to destroy the great labor movement represented by the AFL." Green predicted better days for building tradesmen. "The outlook is better and brighter," he said. Many of these persons wish to leave China at various times and it is imperative that a safe route to reach one of the seaports from the Yangtze valley be agreed upon. Meanwhile, the Chinese defenders of Shanghai reported they were holding their own all along the line and, in some sectors, sharply counter-attacking. With clearing weather, Chinese flyers resumed raids on Shanghai tonight, drawing fumes from anti-aircraft batteries aboard Japanese warships on the Whangpoo. The Chinese seemed simply to be making a reconnaissance. No bombs were dropped, but fragments of the Japanese shells again littered Shanghai's foreign settlements. Invaders Retained In the vicinity of Kiangwan, the Chinese reported, their counter-attack resulted in a virtual rout of Japanese troops. The Japanese admitted Kiangwan civic center buildings had been "seized" but they contended their lines in the rear were unchanged. The Chinese told of surrounding and annihilating 500 Japanese soldiers in that sector. A Japanese army spokesman said Japanese casualties in the last five weeks of fighting on the Shanghai front totaled 7,580 men. Of this number, 1,893 were killed in action and the rest wounded. These figures did not include naval losses, which were considerable. The Japanese estimated Chinese losses in the same period at 20,000 killed and 35,000 wounded. Reports from Peiping said that Americans stranded at Pootungfu, Hopeh capital, had been unofficially reported as safe. Japanese military sources said all Americans and American property were being protected by the Japanese army.

(Continued from Page One.) and pumping units were paraded before the party. The rangers also pointed out to the president a stand of 2,000,000 young Douglas fir trees, which have been planted in a reforestation project. They cover an area eight miles long and two miles wide. CCC Parades The CCC workers stationed here, who have aided in the reforestation and fire prevention work, were lined up as the presidential party arrived. The president's motor caravan left Lake Crescent, nine miles east of here, at 9:30 a. m. The weather was clearing after last night's torrential rain-storm, but light rain fell again as the party crossed the Col Duc burn, a devastated forest area. The president was riding in a closed car. The president yesterday pledged his help to 3000 Port Angeles school children in obtaining the proposed Olympic national park. The proposed park would include the present Olympic national monument and take in several thousand additional acres, many of which are covered with one of the last stands of primeval forest in the country. Talks to Canadians Roosevelt called himself a "Canadian of 53 years standing," while speaking in an informal address at government house before Canadian officials in Victoria, B. C., on his good will visit yesterday. He said he first went to Canada at the age of 3 1/2 years on "account of my teething period." Since then, he told the group, he had visited Canada almost annually, principally at Campbellton, N. B. He toasted the king after the last toast to the king, made at Port of Spain, Trinidad, last December. "It was the day and almost the hour of the abdication of King Edward and I never was sure whether I had toasted King Edward or the new king, George VI."

20,000 See Him The president told the Canadians of his friendship with the late King George V during the world war and said they had many things in common, ranging from stamp collecting to navigation. Provincial police estimated 20,000 of Victoria's 70,000 population stood with heads bared yesterday as the president rode past. President Roosevelt would board his special train at Tacoma around 6:30 p. m. tonight, if his present schedule is carried out. This would be the exact time Associate Justice Hugo L. Black starts his radio speech presumably to reply to charges he had been and still is a member of the Ku Klux Klan. The president's special car, the Road Amundsen, is equipped with a radio but whether he would arrive in time to listen to Black's address no one would forecast.
