

CONTINUAL THIRST IS MIGRAINE CURE ASSERTS CHEMIST

Water Imbalance Declared Cause of Periodic Sick Headache — Profuse Perspiration Gives Relief

CORVALLIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Possibility of a simple solution for the long-sought cure for migraine or sick, nervous headaches, has been advanced by Frank K. Thompson, a graduate student in chemistry at Oregon State college.

After several years of investigation, Thompson reported at a recent meeting of the Oregon section of the American Chemical society, that he is confident that he has found in "water imbalance" the cause and prevention of this malady which causes intense suffering to an estimated one or two per cent of the people.

Less water or liquid—in amounts small enough that the sufferer is always on the border of thirst, Thompson says, will greatly reduce the frequency and intensity of attacks, if not almost entirely prevent the sick headaches. Reduction of the water ratio in the body by profuse perspiration will give almost immediate relief even during an attack, his experiments have shown.

He advises migraine victims to keep on the border of thirst, not to drink large amounts of liquids and if an impending attack is suspected to wrap up in the warmest available spot and sweat as profusely as possible.

Thompson's method of treatment sounds plausible but needs further confirmation, Dr. Roger J. Williams, discoverer of pantothenic acid and professor of biochemistry at O. S. C., remarked in connection with the new "cure."

30 CARLOADS OF PEAS SHIPPED FROM ASTORIA

ASTORIA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—G. S. Allison, sponsor of a late-pea industry, announced 30 carloads of fresh peas from the lower Columbia district were sold to eastern markets. In addition, the Chinook packing plant, Chinook, Wash., put up 50,000 cases of canned peas and the W. H. Copeland company froze 20 tons at its Warrenton plant, Allison said.

The note A is used by most orchestras in tuning. Ordinarily it is sounded by the oboe.

MEDFORD PASTOR CALLS SIN A HUMAN VIPER

Speaking Sunday night at the Church of the Nazarene, on the topic, "Sin the Asp of Human Destiny," Fred M. Weatherford, pastor, evangelist said in part as follows:

"The bite of an asp means almost instant physical death. Sin is the viper of the human race, which eventually in death, for 'the wages of sin is death.' In my sermon this evening I want to discuss three propositions—the fact of sin, the dominion of sin, and freedom from sin.

"Some have wanted to deny even the fact of sin, but let him step forward with an explanation as to the reason for our courts of justice, our penitentiaries, our asylums, and all other institutions for human correction,—if sin is not the fact, for all of these requirements.

"Sin is insubordination to divine authority. It is true that the origin of sin is veiled in more or less obscurity—however, the manner in which the human race became obsessed with sin is recorded in the third chapter of Genesis; its admittance bears a three-fold description, including deception, disobedience, and satanic strategy. His appeal was through taste, sight, and a desire to be wise. All of these temptations were presented through the lust of desire, James says that 'lust when it hath conceived bringeth forth sin.'

"While it was through disobedience that the world became infested with that terrible human blight which God called sin. It is fortunate indeed for the human race that Jesus Christ came with a remedy, a prescribed antidote for it—faith in His atoning blood. As a result man may through obedience in subscribing to the remedy find forgiveness, which pardons and blots out the blight.

"God is most specific in His indictment of the human race—Romans 3:23, we take this scripture: 'All have sinned and come short of the glory of God.' And Gal. 3:22, 'The scripture hath concluded all under sin.'

"Referring to the sinful state of man while yet unredeemed, there is a Chinese proverb tersely stated in these words: 'There are two good men, one is dead, the other is not yet born.'

"The dominion of sin is an unchallenged fact, so far as its power over man is concerned. In Romans 6:12 we take this scripture: 'Let not sin therefore reign in your immortal body, that ye should obey it in the lust thereof.' The secret of deliverance is seen in verse 13: '...but yield yourselves unto God (V.14) and sin shall not have dominion over you.'

"The forgiveness of Christ through repentance brings deliverance and freedom from sin. In Romans 6:17 are these words—'But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine (repentance) which was delivered you. Being then made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness.'

"This constitutes the act by which God pardons the guilt and suspends the penalty, thus redeeming and freeing the sinner."

MAYOR PROCLAIMS PARENT-TEACHER WEEK IN MEDFORD

In recognition of the Parent-Teacher association which this week is holding its annual membership drive, Mayor C. C. Furnas has issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas, the Parent-Teacher association is an organization devoted to child welfare and the improvement of training methods in the school and in the home;

"And, whereas the association is beginning this week its 41st year as a great, world-wide movement devoted to the interests of our children;

"And, whereas this organization depends for its success upon a large and enthusiastic group of members;

"And, whereas this week has been set aside as national Parent-Teacher Association Membership Week throughout the United States;

"I therefore proclaim this week as Parent-Teacher Association Membership Week in Medford, and urge all parents to become affiliated with the chapter organized in their school, and join its great, constructive program of child betterment."

Miss Mildred Carlton, president of the Jackson County Public Health association, endorses the parent-teacher organization with these words:

"Speaking as a public health worker, and for 18 years working for the health of the children in Jackson county, I cannot be too extravagant in my praise of the Parent-Teacher association, its members, workers and organization. When we might have failed, they have stepped in and assisted, with interest, time and money.

"There are two things which always have impressed me. The type of women who work in the Parent-Teacher association, showing their interest in their schools, their children and their community. Busy women, and have you not always noticed that the busy person has the most time, who lay aside their daily tasks to meet other interested women for the betterment of all. The other type, who stand looking on, leaving their neighbors or friends to do the planning, and go to the meetings, perhaps paying dues, but do not work. The latter I cannot understand. Is it lack of interest in their children and their school?"

"Only in unity comes strength, and only in all joining together can the necessary achievements be accomplished. Let us all help these parents and teachers, and do our share in giving this generation a chance for a normal, happy, healthy life."

Among the many others who endorse the P-T.A. is James A. Mullins, principal of the junior high school. He says, "I believe in the soundness of the aims and objectives of the Parent-Teacher association. Membership in this organization should make for a more thorough parent-teacher understanding and enable teachers and parents to work jointly for the benefit of the child and the betterment of the school."

"P-T.A. membership and attendance at its meetings are indications of interest in the child and the school."

George Henselman of the Aetna Life Insurance company: "The fact that our children spend several hours each day under the teacher's supervision makes cooperation with the parent proper and necessary—for best results. The Parent-Teacher association makes the cooperation easy."

Harley H. Miller, Lincoln National Life Insurance company: "A harmonious development of the moral, intellectual and physical life of the child requires the constant cooperation of all institutions contributing to the training of that child. The P-T.A. is that link which seeks to combine the efforts of the home and the school and is operative for purely constructive purposes; fostering a more sympathetic understanding between parent and teacher."

"Membership to me is an opportunity and moreover an obligation which I owe both school and child."

STIFF SENTENCES METED BY COURT IN LIQUOR CASES

17 Get Terms in Prison Or Road Camp for Sale of Hooch to Indians — Two Given Maximum Penalty

Seventeen men were today under sentences ranging upward to the maximum of two years in federal prison for selling liquor to Klamath reservation Indians.

They had all entered pleas of guilty and were sentenced in United States district court here yesterday by Judge James Alger Fee. One of the defendants pleaded for leniency so that he would not lose his seniority rating with the Southern Pacific company from whose employ he said he was on a leave of absence. Judge Fee, however, said he had no sympathy with selling liquor to Indians.

Fourteen of the 17 sentenced were from Klamath Falls. They were Roy E. Sullivan, 54, eight months in a federal road camp; Charles J. Shelton, 65, 18 months in a federal prison; Omer A. Hughes, 34, ten months in a road camp and $100 fine; Jack Arkwood, 46, eight months in a road camp and $100 fine; James Kaye, 37, 18 months in prison; Michael J. Heaney, 65, ten months in a road camp and $100; James Howard, 22, ten months in a road camp and $100; Hope Mosker, 51, two years in the penitentiary and $100; Clyde Barnes, 32, year and a day in prison and $100; Fred Buster, 49, eight months in a road camp and $100; Lee Purdin, 40, ten months in a road camp and $100; Joe Navarro, 40, 18 months in a penitentiary and $100; Stuart H. Walker, 57, eight months in a road camp; and Harold Russell McDonald, 29, a year in a road camp.

Others sentenced were James Johnson, 59, of Bly, two years in a penitentiary; Yndalisto Lopez, 30, of Beatty, 12 months in a penitentiary; and Joseph Hubbard, 56, of Shady Pine, eight months in a road camp and $100.

The prison and camp are to be designated by the attorney-general. Usually convicts from this jurisdiction serve at the prison on McNeil island and the road camp at Stella-coom, Wash.

Eldon H. Smith, Klamath Indian, was sentenced to 60 days in county jail for contempt of court. He pleaded guilty to an information accusing him of failure to respond to a subpoena to the grand jury.

POTATO CONTROL VOTED FOR 1938

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Farm administration officials announced today that commercial potato growers have approved limitation of acreage next year under the present farm benefit payment program.

Preliminary results from a nationwide referendum showed 24,195 votes in favor of a stabilization program and 5,425 against.

As a result, the AAA will split up a national acreage limit or goal of between 3,100,000 and 3,300,000 acres among the states, counties and individual farmers. The average potato harvest from 1928 to 1937 was 3,340,000 acres.

Farmers who stay within these goals will receive a benefit payment. The program will not apply to farms growing potatoes for home or local use or in areas where potatoes are not commercially important. Goals will be set for farms with three acres or more in potatoes in commercial areas.

WHEAT CROP OVER 5 YEAR AVERAGE SEEN IN COUNTRY

Corn Prospect Near Average — Oats Slightly Under — Pear Crop of 29,822,000 Bushels Is Indication

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The agriculture department estimated the year's wheat production at 889,895,000 bushels.

A month ago the indicated wheat crop was 893,950,000 bushels. Last year's production was 626,461,000 bushels, and the 1928-32 five-year average, 646,532,000.
