What the Girl Scouts Are Doing

The second in a series of study classes covering the Girl Scout program will be held Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. at scout headquarters and a review of the talk given by Mrs. Maude Morse on "The Teen Age Girl" will precede the study of mechanics of troop organization.

Topics under this heading include: Patrols, court of honor, patrol leaders, troop committees and record of finance. Much of the success of Girl Scout progress depends upon a thorough knowledge of these fundamentals.

Each troop of girls is divided into smaller divisions called patrols. Each patrol elects a representative or patrol leader who meets with the captain and lieutenant (adult leaders). These elective leaders form the "court of honor." This court is usually held at the close of every troop meeting to discuss the meeting just held and to plan for the next week's session.

This group holds a social meeting once or twice a year and plans the big events for the scout year. Through this organization, representative democratic experience in leadership is given each Girl Scout.

Closing time for Too Late to Classify Ads is 1:30 p. m.

Ann Cooper Hewitt Weds

Ann Cooper Hewitt, 23-year-old San Francisco resident who was the central figure in a stratification suit in 1936, is shown with her husband, William McMillan Gay, 32, Oakland, Calif., garage foreman, to whom she was wed in a surprise ceremony at Grants Pass, Ore.

FEDERAL BUILDING DATA TO BE GIVEN JAMES A. FARLEY

Building, an addition to the present structure is being sought.

An estimate of $70,000 has been made by congress for repairs and additions to the building, but the allotment is subject to actual appropriation for that purpose by the treasury department. The recommendation, Mr. DeSouza pointed out, would be guided by the recommendation of the postoffice department.

It is to impress upon Mr. Farley and Mr. Purdum the pressing need of additional space that the conference has been arranged for the DeSouza.

KMED BROADCASTING CHEST DRIVE FACTS

In order that Medford citizens may become more familiar with the organization, aims and purposes of the Medford Community Chest and the agencies which are supported thereby, the executive committee has arranged with KMED for a series of broadcasts throughout the present week.

The schedule follows: Wednesday, 12:45; Thursday, 12:15; Friday, 5:15; and Saturday, 1:00.

Irving F. Beesley, Boy Scout executive, is master of ceremonies for the programs and is arranging for each of the six participating organizations to appear in turn to explain the work of its respective group. Speakers from the Medford Toastmasters' club will also be heard and general information will be disseminated. Mr. Beesley said the question of any citizen will be gladly answered.

Pioneers Gather Again at Old Jacksonville Church For Anniversary Service

Pioneers of southern Oregon and their families gathered Sunday afternoon at the old Methodist church in Jacksonville to celebrate the 84th anniversary of the founding of the church. The church, which is the oldest Protestant edifice west of the Rocky mountains, was filled to overflowing and many observed the service from cars parked outside the yard. Efforts for its erection were started the year after Jacksonville was founded in 1851.

The church grounds had been put in order by Boy Scouts for the occasion and the interior was cleaned and beautifully decorated with ferns, gladioli, evergreens and autumn vines. Miss Alice Hoofs was in charge, assisted by Boy Scouts.

Rev. Malloy Presides.
Rev. E. N. Malloy presided at the service, which was sponsored by the business men's association. He was ably assisted by three pastors from Medford, Rev. Sherman L. Divine, Rev. James Hamilton and Rev. L. F. Belknap. Mrs. Gertrude Martin presided at the piano and old organ.

Several anthems by the Phoenix choir were greatly enjoyed, as was also the bass solo by Henry Frame. An old French Bible and the first communion set used in the church were displayed for the celebration. These were loaned by Mrs. Mamie Nelson.

An amplifier, furnished by Vera Walker, of Medford, enabled those who could not gain entrance to the crowded church to hear the services perfectly.

Vining Is Speaker.
Professor Irving Vining, of Ashland, as the principal speaker of the day, gave an eloquent and inspiring address. Beginning with the founding of Jacksonville in 1851 due to the discovery of gold, he told how James Clugage and Mr. Poole donated the three lots on which the church was built, how two ladies canvassed every mining camp, saloon and gambling den for funds with which to build the church, how generous was the response from every quarter, how the people experienced many tragedies as well as joys, but undaunted kept on and on in spite of the many difficulties and discouragements.

Mr. Vining also read an article describing the saddle bags of Father Royal, who was a circuit rider and the second pastor of this church.

At the close of the service, Rev. Malloy thanked everyone who had so generously helped in making the rally a success and a contribution amounting to $56.28 was received. This will be used to make necessary repairs on the old church.

A letter was received, too late to be read at the meeting, from the daughter of the late Rev. Royal as follows:
"Mrs. Arthur S. Kleinhammer, 'Chairman of Anniversary program. My Dear Mrs. Kleinhammer: 'The Oregon Journal has announced the residents of Jacksonville are observing the 84th anniversary of the local Methodist church October 10.

"This is to bring you greetings from a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Royal, who were so closely associated with pioneer history in southern Oregon.

"Eighty-four years ago, this month of October, my parents with their three children arrived in the charming Rogue River valley, weary from a six months long trip across 'the plains' by ox teams.

"Mother, having passed away, my father spent the last five years of his earthly life in our home. At the age of 90 years 'the Boatman' carried father safely over to the evergreen shores, March, 1911.

"Among his papers are records of those early days and his account of the building of the Jacksonville Methodist church is without doubt the only authentic story in existence of the beginnings of Protestant work in southern Oregon.

"It was my own father, Rev. T. F. Royal, who collected the subscriptions and superintended the construction of this first church in Jacksonville and in that part of the state. J. H. Wilbur, I believe, preached the dedication sermon—a man highly esteemed by our family, as well as by all good people who knew him.

"Thank you, kind people of Jacksonville, for the observance of this occasion.

"How glad I would be if I could be with you today and participate in the interest of this anniversary. Hope some day I may again return to the beautiful country you are living in. Once more my greetings and kindest regards.

"AEOLIA ROYAL OBERG (Mrs. Harold Oberg) 'R.R. 7, Box 1290, Portland, Oregon."

AIR MAIL WASTED BY USE OF TRAINS

The value of air mail service is being nullified by large dispatches of mail who enclose airmail letters with packets of correspondence delivered directly to trains. It was stated today by Postmaster Frank DeSouza.

Not a few Medford firms make last-minute deliveries of mail bundles to the trains and frequently the packets contain airmail correspondence. Mr. DeSouza said. When this happens, he emphasized, there is nothing to do but carry the airmail by train to the next airport center, San Francisco or Oakland to the south and Portland to the north.

Much valuable time is thus lost and if the airmail letters are destined for the Bay cities or Portland the value of airmail service is completely nullified. Mr. DeSouza pointed out.

Dancing Club Formed—The Jewel Dancer dance studio, which recently formed the Gay-Time dancing club for high school and junior high school students, will form an adult dancing club, to be known as the Gay-Time Seniors. Anyone interested in learning how to dance or improving his dancing, is invited to join the club.
