EUREKA BRINGING BIG AND COLORFUL GRID COMBINATION

Visitors Line Will Outweigh Tigers Average of 12 Pounds—Plenty of Overhead Action Predicted

A powerful Eureka high football machine, packing tremendous weight in the forward wall and a quartet of pass-slinging, ground-gaining back-field rambles, moved in upon the Medford high Black Tornado tomorrow night at the stadium determined to wipe out the 19-0 defeat suffered here last season. Kickoff time is 8 p. m.

Coach Jay Willard's Loggers, boasting four veteran linemen and one letterman ball-carrier, have seen action in but one important ball game this year. Last week they defeated a strong Red Bluff aggregation, 6-0. Reports from northern California are to the effect that Coach Willard this year has developed a team that figures to go clear through without a blemish to its record.

Boast Giant Line.
Leading the Red and Green team into Oregon territory for the first time this year will be Chet Allen, six foot six inch center, weighing 190 pounds. Kiener Starovich, 215-pound tackle and considered the greatest lineman in Eureka history; Albright, 200-pound tackle; Rodney Coffron, 160-pound right guard and captain; "Scrapiron" Tomanovich, 172-pound left guard, and Don Duran, fullback, the boy who ran and ran and ran against the Tigers last season.

Average weight of the forward wall which will oppose that of the Tornado is 187 pounds, not bad for a high school outfit. It will outweigh the local line by about 12 pounds per man. The Logger backfield will be around 160 pounds, practically the same as Medford's.

Use Air often.
Employing both the single and double wingback from a backfield shift behind a balanced line and featuring reverses, double reverses, and all varieties of forward and lateral passes, the Loggers each year come up with a highly colorful aggregation. Jay Willard, veteran coach, believes in plenty of overhead stuff, and his football teams reveal his thoughts.

In last year's 19-0 Medford victory over the Californians, it was Bob Wilson, Tiger end, taking two forward passes from the good right arm of Bob Olson to score a pair of touchdowns and Olson, himself, streaking through a gaping hole for 26 yards and the goal line. This year, there will be no Olson throwing touchdown passes. He is a member of the Oregon State Book outfit. Bob Wilson, hero of last season's thrilling battle, is a member of Coach Bowerman's squad now, but has apparently been ousted from his flank post by the great performance of Don Monteth, who will undoubtedly start the game. He may, however, see action.

Tigers Drill Lightly.
In the Tiger lair, Coach Bowerman sent his charges through a medium stiff workout yesterday against Eureka passes. Today will see the Tornado merely limber up and polish off slightly ragged offensive maneuvers. Minor injuries struck two ends yesterday when Eugene Miller got a tooth broken and Monteth came down with a mild attack of intestinal flu. Both will probably be able to go tomorrow night, however. Bobby Ettinger, out Tuesday with intestinal flu, was back in harness yesterday, completely recovered.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Harold J. (Pie) Traynor, an old Buccaneer himself, will guide the Pirate brig again next year.

President William E. Benswanger of the steel city's baseball club announced today that Traynor had signed a contract to manage the National league entry in 1938.

HANKINSON LOOMS AS OREGON FROSH STAR

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 14.—(AP) Duke Hankinson, 185-pounder from Seattle, looked as another potential Jay Graybeak as key man in the University of Oregon frosh passing attack, as the duckling grid squad trained for its game with Southern Oregon Normal Friday night.

The ball carrier is recovering from an injured hip suffered in the U. of O.-O. S. C. freshman game at Portland.

PLENTY OF BIRDS WAITING HUNTERS IN VALLEY FIELDS

Upland game bird season opens at dawn tomorrow, and according to reports from the game division of the state police and other hunting sources, Chinese pheasants and quail are plentiful in all parts of southern Oregon.

Hundreds of valley hunters are planning to take advantage of the first day of the open season, which will end October 31.

With one exception, hunting laws in Jackson and Josephine counties are the same as last year. Instead of four male pheasants allowed last season, bag limit this year will be two male birds in any one day but not more than four male birds in any seven consecutive days. Open season on quail is the same, with bag limit being 10 California or valley and bobwhite quail only in any seven consecutive days.

For local hunters who plan to move to Klamath county for the season's opening, the bag limit on Chinese pheasants is four male birds in any one day but not more than eight male birds in any seven consecutive days. Open season on quail in Klamath county was October 1.

REQUEST HUNTERS TO RETURN BANDS

CORVALLIS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Game officials, who last year banded and released more than 20,000 Chinese pheasants in the state, called on hunters today to help them get the bands back.

Game commission members, A. S. Elmarson, associate biologist of the Oregon research unit of the U. S. Biological Survey, Oregon State college and the American Wildlife Institute and cooperating in a study of the fate of the birds released by the game commission.

Records of several hundred bands already returned showed the hunters' shotguns are only one of many causes of death. Many are killed by automobiles, and others fly into telephone lines and other obstacles. Some are starved, a few frozen, and cats, dogs, wild animals and other birds take their toll.

BELCASTRO AND CHICK HEAD MONDAY'S CARD

Pete Belcastro and Bobby Chick, former light heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, will headline next Monday night's mat program at the Medford armory. Promoter Mack Lillard announced today.

Frankie Murreck and Frankie Clemens, two cleanies, will meet in the middle event and Gorilla Post will face Glen Stone in the opener. The latter pair are villains. Referee will be Earl Yaskley.

Billy Kullen Says:
Ashland Tussle With Pelicans Will Be Tip-Off

All hot-stove gossip concerning the possibility of this team or that outfit copping the Southern Oregon conference championship will be squelched Friday night when Skeet O'Connell takes his Ashland high Grizzlies to Klamath Falls.

After that ball game, everyone will know just where everyone else stands.

Last there be a misunderstanding, it is not being stated that the Ashland-Klamath squabble will determine the conference championship. Far from it. There is still a highly potential Medford club to consider; a team that hasn't even played a league game yet. What we mean is that when the Pelicans and Grizzlies get through pecking and clawing at each other, some semblance of order will be gained in the conference race, a fairly reliable form sheet drawn up.

Grants, Pass, because of 12-0 and 18-0 beatings at the hands of Ashland and Klamath Falls, respectively, is mathematically eliminated from the pennant scramble. The teams play but three conference games. At present, Ashland and Klamath are tied at the top of the rung with one win and no loss, while Medford's slate is still clean on both sides.

The winner at Klamath Falls-Friday will hold a commanding lead and, while not sewing up the championship, will practically clinch at least a tie for the hunting. For example, should Ashland knock off the Pelicans, they would then boast a record of two victories and no defeats. To beat them out for the title, Medford would have to sweep its three games, including the one with the Grizzlies, or Klamath Falls would be forced to beat Medford for a tie. In case Klamath did that, and Ashland lost to Medford, then the three teams would be in a triple deadlock for first place providing, of course, that the Tigers whip Grants Pass, which is expected.

Because of arrangements between C. O. Smith and B. C. Forsythe, Medford and Ashland high school principals, the traditional Grizzly-Tiger battle has been shifted to the local stadium instead of being played in Ashland. Probably the most important reason for the desire of local officials to change the location of the game is because of the annual American Legion celebration of Armistice day here. For years, the local post has staged festivities on November 11, and always it has been a football game that featured the program.

Dog Hero's Bones Placed In Humane Society Plot

The shepherd dog which ten days ago perished in the fire that destroyed the home of A. R. Mansfield, Butter Falls district homesteader, after the dog had rescued Shirley, 2½-year-old daughter, from her flame menaced crib, was buried Wednesday afternoon in the pet cemetery of the Jackson County Humane society in the presence of the tiny tot and her mother. Shirley, who sustained burned feet, due to the blankets of her bed catching fire, has recovered sufficiently to enable her to stand for short periods.

Bones of the dog hero were brought from the isolated timber claim, where they had been buried by the Mansfield family, after the total destruction of the home and contents. Within the next ten days, the Humane society plans memorial services and the dedication of a bronze plaque on a granite base, in honor of the faithful dog.

Humane society officials were told by the mother the dog's rescue of Shirley from a fiery death was not the first time "Shep," called "Stubby" by his mistress, had played a heroic role. Last summer the dog dragged the tot to her mother, by her clothing, and then led the parrot to a rattlesnake coiled near where the child had been playing. The snake was killed. The pet kept constant watch over the little girl, her mother said.

The dog perished after he had dragged Shirley from her cot to a window, where she could be reached by the mother. The Mansfields were working in a clearing when the dog's bark apprised them the house was ablaze. When the heat and smoke repelled the parents' efforts to enter the house where the child was taking her afternoon nap, "Shep," with the command, "Go get Shirley," plunged in. The dog, pain maddened, rushed back and was trapped when a window fell, cutting off the last escape.

Humane society aides said the dog hero was a "stray shepherd," with no pedigree, born in this city and about 18 months old. Letters extolling the nobility of "Shep" have been received from scores of Pacific coast dog lovers.

BASKETBALL STAR TO DEMONSTRATE

A free demonstration of the art of basketball will be given in the Medford high school gym next Monday night at 7:30 o'clock by Chuck Taylor, considered one of the cleverest ball handlers, passers and dribblers ever to tread the maple floor.

A member of several professional quintets for over ten years, Taylor will show fans and players how it's done. Bill Bowerman, Tiger coach, said that he would have several members of last year's team on the floor to act as stooges for the brilliant Taylor.

Two years ago the ex-professional star exhibited his talents at Southern Oregon Normal and Bowerman was so impressed that he put in a bid for Taylor's appearance here. Yesterday he received definite word that Taylor would be on hand.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Bob Feller, 18-year-old strikeout king, started a winter pitching vacation today after dazzling 8000 Los Angeles fans in an exhibition game last night.

The farm boy from Van Meter, Ia., worked five innings and fanned ten batters as his American league mates defeated a National league team, 7 to 2.

TWO-TIME LOSER SOON RECAPTURED

EUGENE, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Joseph Kinman, 23, a "two-time loser," made a daring daylight escape from the Lane county jail late yesterday afternoon, but after a few hours' freedom and wrecking an automobile, he was back behind the bars today.

Kinman, indicted yesterday by the grand jury for burglary, was facing the state law which gives persons convicted of two crimes a maximum ten-year sentence. Officers believed he had help in making his break.

The prisoner apparently escaped through a small window near the ceiling of the cell, officers said. Leaving the jailyard, he took a car owned by Raymond Hulbert of Tonsilla and headed north on the Pacific highway, after first obtaining a bottle of wine. He wrecked the car north of the city and was seen by Ray Berney, auto camp proprietor who, thinking him merely a drunken driver, gave chase and caught him, holding him for the officers.

To the Man Who Is Thinking Of GOING TO TOWN —

DEAR SIR:

The big city newspapers sound good and we know that far fields are green... but why not do this... why not shop the town before you leave town... why not see what your friends can show you in a Fall suit before you stand in front of a stranger's mirror?

All the clothiers in Medford will welcome this comparison and when you are thru', we think you'll welcome our suggestion.

Speaking of our own styles and values... they speak louder than linotypes... and all it takes is one look before you leave to make you glad you stayed home.
