District Meet of B. and P. Club Closes Sunday

The Southern Oregon district conference of the Business and Professional Women's clubs was concluded yesterday following a most interesting and successful meeting. About 100 members attended the two-day event including representatives from Salem, Portland, Roseburg, Hillsboro, Grants Pass, Eugene, Coquille, Coos Bay and Medford.

The business session opened Sunday morning with an executive council breakfast with Mrs. Zola Morgan, state president, presiding. Mrs. Winifred Weisbar was chairman for this feature.

An open forum followed at the Elks temple at which Mrs. Morgan gave a report of the national convention of the Business and Professional Women's clubs which she attended. Several talks were given by delegates on pertinent topics relating to the club's activities.

Luncheon was an afternoon event at the Medford hotel and Miss Barbara Drury was chairman of the committee in charge. The downstairs banquet room was most attractively decorated with autumn leaves and a large club emblem. The tables were especially effective and lovely with the club colors yellow and green used throughout. A huge pumpkin filled with fruits formed the centerpiece for the speakers' table while smaller pumpkins filled with marigolds were used at the other tables. A novel idea was used for the tapets with green apples as candlesticks, enclosing yellow and orange candles.

Mrs. Effie Kurtz sang two solos during the luncheon and also led in group singing. Genevieve Brown acted as accompanist. Each president of the various clubs represented told the years' plans for her individual club. Mrs. Morgan gave a good-will speech inspiring enthusiasm in her audience. Mrs. Maud Snider, president of the Medford club, gave the welcoming speech and Evangeline Philbin, state chairman of international relations, gave an interesting talk on the Pan Pacific conference at Vancouver, B. C., which she attended as an official delegate of the national federation. Her words were of unusual interest due to conditions in the Orient at the present time.

A general discussion followed Miss Philbin's talk and the affair closed with group singing. Corsages of yellow roses and golden pompons were presented to Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Snider and Miss Philbin.

The jamboree entertainment was held Saturday night at the Medford hotel with Miss Viola Sencer as chairman. Program for the event follows:

Soft-shoe tap dance by Mary Lou Ryan, accompanied by Evelyn Sweetman at the piano; two vocal numbers by Mrs. Akin of Grants Pass; accordion selections by Mrs. Harry Prentice. Grand march directed by Mrs. Marjorie Pena; games consisting of beans, corks, target, ring toss, hand-cup and pokero. High score prize was won by Alice Allen of Klamath Falls, second by Mrs. Harry Prentice and low by Lella McCoy of Albany. Mrs. L. E. Humphrey won a jar of jelly beans for guessing the nearest correct number of beans in the jar.

Fortune telling by Lu Salisbury was another attraction of the evening. About 100 members and guests were present for the entertainment. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Mrs. Rose Houston was chairman of the hospitality and reception committee for the conference and Miss Laura York was chairman for the program for the entire session. Mrs. Ethelwyn B. Hoffman had charge of the refreshments following the jamboree.

Why the P-T. A

By "Plain Jane," in The Oregon Parent Teacher
Our meeting place is the little schoolhouse up the road. It is the same little schoolhouse that has stood there for years. It can lay claim to no special distinction. Our Thursday afternoon meetings rarely number more than 20. Almost always the same 20. Once in a while when we advertise refreshments the dads come. I see many of my old friends at these Thursday meetings. I hear about little Billie's new tooth and Grandma's place quilt.

Our school is like thousands of other little schools, our meetings like thousands of other meetings. But I like them. I enjoy them. I feel I have missed something worth while if I don't go.

I go to the Parent-Teacher meetings for the same reason I go to church, to lectures, to the theater—because of what I get out of them. Something different, something I want and need and which up to the present I have been unable to find elsewhere.

Nearly every one in my small town agrees that no community should be without a Parent-Teacher association. They say, "they wouldn't live in a community where their children couldn't have hot soup, good library books at school, and a play ground for summer fun and picnics." They get excited about the radio we bought for the school last year. They talk about the "social influences" that are destroying the schools in this country. But next Thursday when I go to our meeting, only the Wright was given a ticket by city police for driving a car without an operator's permit and cited to appear in city court this afternoon.

ASK CONTINUATION IN STALEY SUIT

Continuation of the suit of H. Von Schmaltz of Burns and George Rhoten of Salem, against Corinna E. Staley, involving legal services rendered in behalf of Earl H. The motion sets forth that Fehl, who acts as legal advisor to his mother-in-law, will be detained in Portland this week and will be unable to return here. A hearing on one phase of Fehl's $840,000 damage suit against Governor Martin for alleged unlawful detention in state prison is scheduled for a Multnomah county court Tuesday.

'GLAD' BULB STORAGE BRINGS NEW INDUSTRY FOR OLD JACKSONVILLE

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 18.—(Sp)—A new business has been brought to this city with the leasing of the old Orin building for the storage of gladioli bulbs.

Three concerns have leased the building. One is headed by R. P. Rainey of Grants Pass, who employs 40 to 50 persons to harvest 24 acres of bulbs. Mr. Rainey said he expects to keep about 18 persons busy through the winter sorting and rooting the bulbs. He has 25 to 30 varieties of gladioli.

James Hendrikson & Sons of Rogue River is another firm using the Orin building. The concern is caring for bulbs from its three-acre tract.

W. J. Warner of Medford is employing 15 persons in harvesting bulbs from a 13-acre tract. He stated that he expects to employ from 12 to 15 in the sorting hours until the first of the year.

Temperature in the building must be maintained at a certain level until the bulbs are shipped next spring.
