LABOR LEADERS MEET TO DRAFT PEACE PROGRAM

Rival Groups Spend Morning Hours In Discussing Procedure—Size Of Conference Is Stumbling Block.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Labor leaders caucused at noon today to map strategy for resumption at 2 p. m. of the peace conference between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

As an indication that some progress might be expected, Geo. M. Harrison, chairman of the A. F. of L. committee, said at the close of this morning's session: "Maybe we will have some news this afternoon."

Harrison said the rival groups had spent the morning "talking about the procedure to be followed in the conference."

As Harrison talked to reporters, Philip Murray, chairman of the C. I. O. group, stood at his side and nodded assent.

The size of the conference was understood to be the first obstacle in the way of peace between the warring labor factions.

The A. F. of L. sent a three-man committee, the C. I. O. sent 10. The C. I. O. insisted that the committee be enlarged. The A. F. of L. contended the conference could accomplish more with a smaller group around the table.

With Harrison at the opening session were Matthew Wolf, vice-president of the photo engravers' union, and G. M. Bugniet, secretary of the electrical workers. Murray headed a 10-man C. I. O. committee.

DRESS DESIGNERS BRING OUT STYLES FOR GRIDIRON FAN

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The fashion world has scored a touchdown in clothes for football games. Outfits this year are smart in line and spiked with color. They are comfortable and warm as well.

Since most women expect to wear their football clothes for a good many other occasions, the fashion mart has evolved a wealth of costumes which are equally good campus and country clothes or which are ready for cocktail parties after stadium struggles.

Leading the campus-country set is a host of slim wool frocks in warm harvest and autumn-leaf colors fastened with football buttons or marked with horizontal bodice bars in the colors of your favorite team.

Next come a series of trim wool suits (green, rust and black) on whose lapels little twin gold metal goal posts can make smart accents.

To top these, there is a series of smart tweed sports coats—sometimes slim and tubular, some swinging in swaggy lines. A wool scarf is supposed to be worn with them as a bit of color cheer.

For girls who are going on to cocktails and dinner after the game, the fashion world decrees "crepe frocks, simple in cut, accented with gold or glitter."

Most of these are worn with fur coats—beaver, lapin, squirrel or Australian opossum over colored crepe or squirrel with sleek black frocks. A new square-cut, box swaggar model is the favorite.

Hate for the game are invariably small, made of suede or felt and given this fall's smart splash of color.

As a final bit of fashion advice to football fans, a New York fashion expert says: "Make sure you are warm enough before you start, for a red nose is neither comfortable nor chic. If your frock is not heavy, wear a pair of gauze-thin angora wool pants under it and a suede jacket over it. Add a pair of wool sport socks and good heavy gloves which can come off for the party after the game."

CHRISTIAN CAUSE LACKS AGGRESSION

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Rev. Bishop Henry St. George Tucker, newly elected primate of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States, issued a frank warning today that unless the Christian church developed "an enthusiasm for its work comparable to that of Soviet Russia or warring Japan the Christian cause may fall and pass out of existence."

A student of history, the bishop of Virginia pointed to the downfall of religion in the past as part of his warning to the Christian church today. These dead religions, he said, have died because they lacked enthusiasm and aggressive programs of expansion; because they did not meet the emergencies of ages just such as the present.

Hilarious Comedy Brings Laughs To Craterian Crowds

Of all the comedies that have been shown in motion picture theaters during the past, none has been more laugh-provoking than the current "Woman Chases Man" at the Craterian theatre. Admittedly made for "laughing purposes only," it has accomplished just that—as witness the continuous round of giggles, roars and guffaws, that greeted each new piece of tomfoolery yesterday at the opening of the picture's run.

The story is by Occasionality. It becomes so funny that the sudden bursts of laughter drown out the following bit of comedy.

Once Charles Wintinger and Miriam Hopkins, both of whom have grandiose real estate ideas but no money to develop them, understand each other, they make things interesting for Wintinger's son, Joel McCrea. With Miriam as the spearhead, they combine brain power to wheedle the tight-fisted McCrea into accepting financial aid. The action has complications that add to the gaiety.

To effect the illusion Wintinger is rolling in wealth, Miriam mans the mansion with a maid and butler (both friends of hers) and serves the home-coming Joel and his chattering guests, Erik Rhodes and Leona Marie, with a backyard barbecue. Not dense by any means, McCrea becomes aware that some funny business is being practiced on him. But when Cupid stings him, and the ensuing action has the cast hung in a tree like Xmas tree ornaments, the chattering guests are entertained and the real estate dreamers are assured of success. Incidentally, this final scene in the tree is probably one of the funniest bits of the entire picture—which has been incorporated every possible means of extracting laughter from the audience.

An added laugh feature on the program is Robert Benchley's "How To Start the Day," which takes its place along with "How To Sleep" as a classic of human behavior.

Bobby Breen Sings In Rialto Picture To judge by the manifest reactions of the audience at the opening performance of Bobby Breen's new musical starring vehicle "Make a Wish" at the Rialto theatre yesterday, this tuneful screenplay has already registered a most resounding hit.

In the principal role, Bobby is altogether delightful. His songs, written for the most part by the famous Viennese composer, Oscar Straus, are melodious and beautifully sung, and his acting leaves nothing to be desired. One wonders why Basil Rathbone has for so long been content to a succession of villainous roles, since he emerges here as one of the most engaging romantic actors of recent years, in the leading feminine role opposite him, definite promise of future screen greatness is seen in the performance of Marion Claire, who makes her film debut in this picture.

"Over The Goal," a delightfully fresh comedy hit based on modern football, plays as the companion hit with "Make a Wish." Johnny Davis, June Travis and William Hopper have the leading roles. The complete program will remain at the Rialto through Tuesday.

HUSBAND WOUNDS WIFE IN HOSPITAL

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Leonard Compton, 23, pleaded innocent today in municipal court on a shooting-to-kill charge resulting from the wounding of his wife, Louise, 20, in the City hospital maternity ward.

Accused of shooting at his wife Saturday night in the hospital where she gave birth to a son six days before, Compton waived preliminary hearing and was held in $2,500 bail.

"I'm only sorry I didn't kill her," Police Lieut. Harry Shuman had quoted Compton earlier.

Mrs. Compton said he was the baby's father. She said they were married May 2, 1936, in Covington, Ky., but had not lived together since last June 13.
