Intellectual Session

"What I want is an intellectual session of the party."

The former president told his party that if it "has not learned the lesson that it must produce principles and program besides being against and joy-riding on mistakes it has not need history."

"You do not long hold the goal and devotion of men and women without definite purpose and principle," he said. "The whig party tried all that."

Early in his speech Hoover brought a still from the audience when he said "I do not want any public office," followed by applause when he added "I shall keep on fighting for those things vital to the American people."

Issues Stressed

"I am not concerned over details. I am deeply concerned that people who are losing their way shall be given a banner of moral and intellectual leadership around which they can rally as the inevitable day of disillusionment comes to them," he said.

He divided national issues into five categories.

"The first," he said, "are issues of moral integrity in government. The second are the vital issues of personal liberty and its safeguards. The third are those financial and economic policies which affect the standards of living of the people. The fourth are the human issues of security and aid for the less fortunate. The fifth are our relations to other nations."

He declared "the time has come when the Republican party should be reoriented to these fundamental issues."

ADVENTIST PROGRAM CELEBRATES MAKING OF U. S. CONSTITUTION

A fitting celebration of the anniversary of the making of the Constitution of the United States was observed by the Seventh Day Adventists, October 23, at the church, corner of Edwards and Beatty streets.

An interesting and educational program included: Song, Faith of Our Fathers, by congregation; scripture reading, Rev. 13:9-18, by C. G. Clymer; prayer, J. B. Meehan; duet, Mr. and Mrs. W. McKinnis; talk by Prof. Johnson, "Why Was the Constitution Formed?" The reason, he pointed out, is given in the preamble of the document.

Talk by Elder Curtis, "The Constitution, What Is It?" He stated, in part, that the constitution is the foundation law of the United States, approved by congress, the president or the supreme court. It defines the limitations of the govern-

INDIAN SENTENCED ON GIRL'S CHARGE

Midon Miller of Clatsop, Klamath tribesman, found guilty late yesterday by a circuit court jury of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl, a member of his own household, was sentenced to serve an indeterminate sentence of not to exceed two and one-half years in state prison, by Circuit Judge H. D. Norton, this morning. The offense occurred in Ashland.

A plea for a suspended sentence and that time served in the county jail awaiting trial be allowed was denied by the court.

In passing sentence, the court observed: "There are intimations that the defendant added perjury to the crime charged, in the course of the trial."

During the closing argument for the defense, the use of a profane word by counsel, brought admonishment from the bench to refrain.

At the first trial of Miller, a mistrial was ordered by the court, after the jury had reported, as both defense counsel and Miller, failed to appear until about an hour later.

Testimony in the trial showed the complaining witness was now in a delicate condition.
