

PEAR PROBLEMS TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEETING HERE

Oregon State Horticultural Society Meeting December 2 and 3 Will Be Addressed By Experts.

Discussions involving production, handling, and marketing of pears will be the highlights of the annual meeting of the Oregon State Horticultural society which will be held at Medford, December 2 and 3, according to an announcement made by O. T. McWhorter, secretary-treasurer of the organization, who has been working with Chester Fitch, acting president of the society, Mr. Fitch has appointed as program division chairman: R. R. Reiter, marketing and allied topics, C. M. Cordy, production problems, and E. W. Carlson, entertainment.

Recent Coding Moth Spray Developments in the State of Washington, will be discussed by James Marshall, assistant entomologist of the Washington state experiment station.

To Discuss Irrigation W. W. Aldrich of the U.S.D.A. pear station at Medford will give "a summary of six years study of pear irrigation." This will be followed by "The effect of water supply to the trees on desert quality and storage life of the D'Anjou pear," by A. Lloyd Ryall, U.S.D.A., and F. C. Reimer of the Southern Oregon experiment station.

Pear handling and marketing discussions will be led by Henry Hartman of the Oregon agricultural experiment station.

Questions relating to the opening pear problem, freight rate and transportation problems, soil fertility, and other production problems are listed and discussion leaders will be announced later.

E. R. Pooley of Hood River and Raymond R. Reiter of Medford have been asked to report on the operations of the Oregon - Washington - California Pear League.

Scheduled to Speak "Current Economic Problems of Agriculture" is the subject assigned to Dr. W. A. Schoenfeld, dean and director of agriculture in Oregon.

Spider mite and apple and pear spraying problems and uses of some of the more rare elements of soil fertility are listed.

The program committee has extended an invitation to anyone interested in fruit production to attend the Medford meeting. "Bring an auto load from your community."

The annual report of the state horticultural society, combined with that of the Western Nut Growers, will be issued late in January or early February.

Obituary

John W. Cunningham John Wallace Cunningham, aged 65 years, passed away Friday evening, at a local hospital, after being in failing health for some time.

Mr. Cunningham fell and broke his hip Wednesday morning and due to his advanced age could not recover from the shock.

John Wallace Cunningham was born in Muscatine, Iowa, July 13, 1872, and was united in marriage to Mary Florence Wiley, October 21, 1874, who preceded him in death March 8, 1930 in Yreka, Calif.

Mr. Cunningham was a devoted Christian having joined the Christian church when a young man. He was gifted with a beautiful tenor voice and was devoted to evangelistic singing and church work.

He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Amy Putnam of Medford, Mrs. Gertrude Preston of Melbourne, Iowa, Mrs. Florence Dorris of Yreka, Calif., and two sons, Seth C. of Medford and A. C. Cunningham of Portland, Ore.

Funeral services will be held at the Turner and Sons funeral parlor in Yreka, Calif., Monday afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be in the Yreka Evergreen cemetery. Post funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Earl Winklebuck Funeral services for Earl Winklebuck, 30, who passed away at a local hospital early Friday morning, will be held at the Conger chapel at 4:00 p. m. Monday with the Rev. James Hamilton officiating. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Winklebuck of Kansas are expected to arrive here for the services.

Mr. Winklebuck was a member of the Knights of Pythias order.

Use Mail Tribune want ads. The rain crow really is a cuckoo.

SULFANILAMIDE SAFE IF PURE

There have been quite a number of deaths recently due to people taking an Elixir of Sulfanilamide. We understand that this product was originated and manufactured by a firm that we have consistently refused to do business with, because their products have always been priced below the products of reliable drug manufacturers.

When you shop for cheap prescriptions you take a chance of getting products manufactured by companies of this class. If you do not use the same thought and care in selecting your drug that you do in choosing your doctor you are apt to get products manufactured by a firm of the same type that put out the elixir of sulfanilamide which has killed, to date, 87 people.

Prescriptions are not sold on a price basis and one should view with caution cut prices on any product that is used to alleviate human ills.

Inulin 10 c U 40 is $1.15. We give S. & H. Green Stamps. Health's Drug Store, phone 584.

FINAL RITES FOR JUNE EARHART TO BE HELD TUESDAY

Funeral services for June Estia Earhart, 55, who died in a local hospital Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock will be held from the West funeral home Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. Father Francis W. Black officiating. Burial will take place in the family plot at Medford I.O.O.F. cemetery.

Active pall-bearers for the extremely well-liked Medford woman will be Drs. L. D. Inskip, W. O. Bishop, Walter Kress, C. I. Johnson, Charles W. Lemery and H. L. Lagson. All other doctors present, with whom Miss Earhart worked for many years, will act as honorary pallbearers.

June Earhart, an anesthetist in Medford for years, died after suffering a paralytic stroke caused by a cerebral hemorrhage the night of October 19. She never regained consciousness, being in a coma for 11 days, and all attempts to save her life proved futile. Dr. L. D. Inskip, her attending physician, said her right side was paralyzed for nine days. Two days before her death she lost control of her entire body, he stated.

June Earhart was born in Blarville, Pa., June 3, 1879. With her family she moved to Medford in 1886. She was educated in local schools and was graduated from Medford high school. In 1901, she entered St. Vincent's hospital training school for nurses in Portland and was graduated in 1904. She returned to Medford and, when there were no hospitals and few nurses here, practiced her profession as a graduate nurse.

In 1910 she went to Chicago and took a special course in anesthesia at the Presbyterian hospital for a period of six months under Dr. Isabel Herb, nationally known anesthetist. Following this she gave up general nursing and continued her service as an anesthetist.

March 15, 1918, Miss Earhart was assigned to active service in the United States army in base hospital 46, a unit which was assembled at Portland and consisted of physicians and nurses from Portland and the state of Oregon. She sailed for France July 16, 1918, and was placed in active duty; she left France April 18, 1919, and was released from active service June 4, 1919.

She was a member of the Oregon State Nurses' association, district 4, a member of the American Nurses' association and charter member of Medford post 15, American Legion, department of Oregon.

She leaves three sisters, Mrs. May Patching of Glendale, Cal., Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce of Los Angeles, Cal., Miss Mary F. Stevenson of Willamette, Ore., and three brothers, William C. and Frank L. Earhart of Medford and Dr. S. D. Earhart of Klamath Falls.

Probably no other one in the community was more universally known or will be more kindly remembered than June Earhart. She was charitable without show or ostentation; she had a happy, cheerful, congenial nature which endeared her to all. The good that she has done for others will live and be long remembered. She was beloved by a host of genuine friends who are deeply grieved.

BIRTHS

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles White of Butte Falls, Saturday, October 30, 1937, a daughter, weighing 7 pounds 13 1/2 ounces at Sacred Heart hospital.

Egrets Seen in Ohio. NORWALK, O.—(UP)—Large white birds seen wading in flooded fields near here were identified as American egrets. The egret is a semi-tropical bird.

MOVING After November 1, DR. JUD RICKETT, Optometrist, will occupy Suite 217, New Fluhrer Bldg., Main and Central. Elevator South Central St.

For Sale by Owner 17-ACRE PROPERTY 3 miles Medford. Fenced, cross-fenced, city water. Large house, 2 bathrooms. Good out buildings. P. O. Box 547, Medford.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Address Artisans—Guest speaker at the Active club's weekly dinner-meeting in the Hotel Medford at 6:30 Tuesday evening will be A. H. Banwell, manager of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Banwell will talk on aviation.

Church in Group—Townsend club members and those in accord with their aims are to gather at the Jackson county courthouse at 10:45 this morning and repair in a body to attend services at the Methodist church.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

COL. PAINE NAMED CHAIRMAN LOCAL JOBLESS CENSUS

Plans were being made here yesterday for the voluntary unemployment census to be conducted by the United States government throughout the nation November 16 to 20.

With Col. W. H. Paine, appointed chairman, a local committee was organized to assist in conducting the census, its principal purpose being to acquaint the public with the necessity of procuring as complete returns as possible.

Major purpose of the census is to determine accurately the number of unemployed and partially employed persons in the country. It was recently emphasized by John D. Biggers, national administrator, that success of the census depends entirely upon every person assisting the government as a patriotic duty.

With accurate knowledge of the number of persons not employed or employed only part-time, the government will be in a better position to deal intelligently with the unemployment problem, officials have pointed out.

On Sunday, November 14 clergymen in all the churches will talk on the unemployment census, explaining its purpose and emphasizing the need of a thorough response.

The report cards will be distributed through the postoffices on Tuesday, November 15, mail carriers delivering them to every family. The cards must be filled out and returned not later than midnight on November 20.

In discussing the census, Mr. Biggers stated in Washington, D. C., recently that no information given on the report cards will be used for investigation, taxation, checking on citizenship or for any other purpose to the disadvantage of the unemployed person making the return. The information will be held in strict confidence and not even the names of signers will be revealed, Mr. Biggers asserted.

The local committee was named by Mayor C. C. Furnas as the request of the national administrator to assist Postmaster Frank DeSouza in conducting the census here.

The committee is composed of Col. W. H. Paine, United States army, retired, chairman; William F. Rector of the Mail Tribune typographical department and Milton Ottoman of the Southern Pacific ticket office, representing labor; Al Littrell, merchant and chairman of the retail merchants committee of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce, and Seth Bullis, division manager of the California Oregon Power company, representing business.

Also Robert W. Ruhl, editor of the Mail Tribune, and Moore Hamilton, editor of the News, representing newspapers; E. H. Hedrick, city school superintendent, the Rev. E. S. Bartlam, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, the Rev. Father P. W. Black, pastor of the Sacred Heart Catholic church, Mrs. Maud M. Snider, head of the Snider Dairy and Produce company and president of the Medford Business and Professional Women's club.

Also Mrs. Ethelwyn B. Hoffmann, owner of the apparel shop bearing her name and vice president of the Zonta club, George W. Newberry, owner of the Medford Business college and member of the Lions club, George T. Frey, Medford manager of the United States National bank of Portland and chairman of the Jackson county chapter of the American Red Cross, Adjutant G. R. Durham of the Salvation Army, Dr. A. E. Merkel, Jackson county health officer, and Carol J. Parker, Medford manufacturer who will represent veteran organizations.

Back from Parley—Irving P. Boesley, Boy Scout executive, returned yesterday morning by United airliner from Portland where he attended a scouter regional conference Friday. He went to Portland by plane early Friday morning.

Daughter Born—Medford friends have received word of the birth of a daughter, Carolyn Mae, to Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Clogston in Klamath Falls last Wednesday. Mrs. Clogston was formerly Miss Ruth Clement of this city.

To Address Artisans—Guest speaker at the Active club's weekly dinner-meeting in the Hotel Medford at 6:30 Tuesday evening will be A. H. Banwell, manager of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Banwell will talk on aviation.

Church in Group—Townsend club members and those in accord with their aims are to gather at the Jackson county courthouse at 10:45 this morning and repair in a body to attend services at the Methodist church.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Address Artisans—Guest speaker at the Active club's weekly dinner-meeting in the Hotel Medford at 6:30 Tuesday evening will be A. H. Banwell, manager of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Banwell will talk on aviation.

Church in Group—Townsend club members and those in accord with their aims are to gather at the Jackson county courthouse at 10:45 this morning and repair in a body to attend services at the Methodist church.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Clow in Hospital—E. L. Clow, Jackson county jailer, entered Sacred Heart hospital yesterday morning for medical treatment.

Planes Delayed—Unfavorable weather in the north and south delayed several United airliners scheduled for Medford stops Friday night and yesterday morning.

Here on Ashland—Jean Eberhart of Southern Oregon Normal school and Frank J. VanDyke, Ashland city attorney, were in Medford Friday evening.

Here on Business—Charles H. Tisdale of Portland, special agent of the Central Manufacturers Mutual Fire Insurance company, arrived Friday to transact business here.

Recuperating—Mrs. F. C. Becheider of 13 Kenwood avenue was reported yesterday as recuperating splendidly. She underwent a major operation last Tuesday in Community hospital.

Here on Visit—Glen Bown of Eugene, state examiner of motorcar operators and chauffeurs, visited in Medford yesterday with his brother, Capt. Lee Bown of the state police.

To Open Office—Mrs. Vivian N. Barro, representative of the Strout Realty company, has moved from Gold Hill to the west slope of Blackwell hill where she has purchased a home and will open a real estate office.

Back from Parley—Irving P. Boesley, Boy Scout executive, returned yesterday morning by United airliner from Portland where he attended a scouter regional conference Friday. He went to Portland by plane early Friday morning.

Daughter Born—Medford friends have received word of the birth of a daughter, Carolyn Mae, to Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Clogston in Klamath Falls last Wednesday. Mrs. Clogston was formerly Miss Ruth Clement of this city.

To Address Artisans—Guest speaker at the Active club's weekly dinner-meeting in the Hotel Medford at 6:30 Tuesday evening will be A. H. Banwell, manager of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Banwell will talk on aviation.

Church in Group—Townsend club members and those in accord with their aims are to gather at the Jackson county courthouse at 10:45 this morning and repair in a body to attend services at the Methodist church.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Address Artisans—Guest speaker at the Active club's weekly dinner-meeting in the Hotel Medford at 6:30 Tuesday evening will be A. H. Banwell, manager of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Banwell will talk on aviation.

Church in Group—Townsend club members and those in accord with their aims are to gather at the Jackson county courthouse at 10:45 this morning and repair in a body to attend services at the Methodist church.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake national park where he has been employed on a construction project. Work at the lake has been completed for the year.

Janouch Returns—Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, returned by motorcar yesterday afternoon from the Hemlock ranger station at Carson, Wash., where he has been an instructor for the past month at a training school for young forest rangers. Mr. Janouch conducted classes in organization, management, work plans, inspection and regulations. The ranger school is held every fall, one year for experienced rangers and the next for the younger rangers. The instructors are chosen among forest service executives rated as outstanding authorities on the subjects they teach.

Back from Crater—J. D. Boudiah, Medford builder, has returned to his home here at 1260 Sunset avenue from Crater Lake