

MULTNOMAH FAILS IN PLEA FOR MORE STATE RELIEF AID

Governor Martin Says Will Not Penalize Other Counties Which Have Kept Their Houses in Order

SALEM, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The Multnomah county commissioners failed today to obtain assistance from the state in the county's 1938 relief budget when Governor Martin said he would not penalize the other 35 counties in the state which have kept their houses in order.

The commissioners said they need $180,000 more to provide for direct relief, but the governor told them they could cut down other budget items.

"Multnomah county is the only county in the state which has not taken care of its relief load for next year," the governor said, "so I cannot see how I can give additional money to that county and not to the others."

"Taking care of human needs is the most mandatory situation we have, but in 1938 you have taken care of everything else and gave what was left to social security. You approached the problem from the wrong angle."

The governor's answer came at the end of a three-hour hearing with the commissioners.

He said the attorney-general advised that the counties must provide for relief, and that the state could not provide more than the ratio provided by law. The state now pays half the cost of direct relief, the counties paying the remainder.

"I take my hat off to the other 35 counties which have taken care of their relief needs. They have had the same problems as you, but they met them."

The commissioners pointed out that Multnomah county has more relief cases than any other, but the governor said the county also has the wealthiest, but gets 45 percent of all state funds allocated to direct relief.

EXHIBIT OF CORN WILL BE CLIMAX IN 4-H CONTEST

The United States National Bank corn improvement contest sponsored for the first time this year in Jackson county for 4-H Club members, will come to a close Thursday and Friday of this week when the sixteen club members will have their corn exhibit in the vacant building next to Brophy's jewelry store. This project as sponsored by the bank, is for the purpose of encouraging the boys in the improvement of seed corn and improving growing conditions.

Selected seed was furnished last spring by the bank for those boys who wanted to use it and the boys receiving this corn are returning a like amount to the bank this fall for future use in the contest. Membership in this project is divided among the Lake Creek, Central Point, Ashland and Applegate districts. The greatest number of exhibits, however, come from the Lake Creek community where the boys are growing corn in addition to their beef project. More than thirty-five acres of corn were raised by club members for this contest. A 1938 summer school scholarship is provided by the bank for the best exhibit of twenty-five ears and other prizes in relation to the place won. Special prizes will also be given to the club members having the highest yielding corn providing the boy raised at least half an acre.

Exhibits will be in place at ten o'clock Thursday morning, November 4th, and will remain open to the public until Friday evening at 4:30 p. m.

VIOLA SWEET TO GIVE LAST FREE LECTURE TONIGHT

An unusual feat of memory was performed last night by Viola Sweet, to a large audience in the fourth of her series of free lectures. The interesting memory demonstration at the beginning of her talk of "The Subconscious Mind," consisted of memorizing a list of 15 words suggested by the audience. After one minute of concentration, Mrs. Sweet repeated the list, both forward and backward and at random, without error.

The story of the subconscious mind written by her daughter, Roberts, when she was 10 years of age, was an interesting part of her talk.

Tonight at the St. Mark's Guild Hall she will deliver her last free lecture on "The Shortest Road to Success." Mrs. Sweet believes that to get anywhere it is first necessary to decide where one wishes to go.

A long-range vision with a definite goal and purpose, a keen interest in the work we are undertaking—because we believe in it and consider it worthy of a life effort—means ultimate success. Often, however, we come into dense fogs along the road and at these times it is difficult to keep in mind the vision and purpose. Then it is necessary to use the faith that we have in our ideals and go as far as we can see, and it always happens that when we have gone that far we can see still a little farther until the situation clears up.

Most of us lose out in traveling the road to success because we let many other interests sidetrack us from our own particular job. We divide our interests and scatter our activities. One writer has very concretely summed up business success in two sentences: "Give to get,"—give the best that is in you and then only will you be in position to receive the best from others; and "This one thing I do"—eliminating that which would detract or deter from reaching the ultimate goal.

Such in brief, is the theme of this evening's free lecture at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock Mrs. Sweet will deliver a paid lecture for women only on the subject of "Sex, the Part It Plays in Life."

Through her messages Mrs. Sweet has made many friends here and expressions of appreciation have been extended commending her work here.
