CHIEF WITNESS IN ROBBERY CASE TO APPEAR ON FRIDAY

E. D. Rice, Dallas, Texas, traveling jeweler salesman, chief witness in the assault and robbery case under investigation by the grand jury, and involving Richard M. Messenger, Ashland druggstore clerk, and three Oregon Normal school at Monmouth football squad members will appear before that body tomorrow, when sessions are resumed.

Rice was located in Portland Wednesday afternoon, and expressed willingness to return here and testify. Authorities granted him permission to go upstate, and it was Rice's understanding when he left that the grand jury would not be convened until next week. However, it was called Wednesday, resulting in a hurried search, by way of state police teletype for Rice.

Messenger, it was said, and a number of Ashland residents, appeared before the grand jury yesterday. The grand jury will resume tomorrow. It recessed today, a legal holiday.

El Cagle, Marshall Hearn, and Stanley Borden, accused with Messenger, waived grand jury hearing and are expected to enter pleas in circuit court tomorrow. The trio were student athletes at the Oregon Normal school. With Messenger, authorities claim, they made a signed statement admitting participation in the alleged robbery.

Rice, according to the report, met the quartet in an Ashland cafe on the night of the Southern Oregon Normal-Oregon Normal football game October 30. Rice's auto was disabled in the Siskiyou. The youths and Rice, in Messenger's auto, left to haul Rice's car to town. En route, due to mechanical trouble, the Messenger auto was stopped. All disembarked. Rice then alleged he was assaulted and robbed of $31, and left alone on the highway.

Behind Washington Headlines

It was a leaf out of the President's own book, some aptly observes, declaring, which started his present thoroughgoing examination into financial and budgetary affairs.

"Too often in recent history," said the President, "liberal governments have been wrecked on the rocks of loose fiscal policy."

That warning was sounded in his message to congress on March 10, 1933.

Today, those who have more than a nodding acquaintance with the men who have been in daily conference at the White House say that the fiscal policy of the present "liberal government" is to be tightened up.

Just what "tightening" means may be variously interpreted.

Here are a few suggestions for steadying the financial policy that may be tried:

1. Low-cost housing program.
2. Increased revenues for railroads so as to stimulate demand for steel rails and other equipment.
3. More gradual tapering off of relief expenditures to offset present business recession.

4. Closer co-operation with big business and the public utilities industry in order to expand private industrial activity.

FEHL ATTORNEY SUIT SCHEDULED MONDAY FOR CIRCUIT COURT

Trial of the civil suit of H. Von Schmalz, Burns, and George A. Rhoten, Salem, attorneys, against Corintha E. Stalley, mother-in-law of Earl H. Fehl, for $3332, assertedly due for legal services rendered in behalf of Mrs. Stalley and Fehl, will be heard in circuit court Monday. The petit jury has been called for then.

Fehl is held in the county jail on an insanity complaint filed last Saturday. He has been acting as defense counsel. Circuit Judge H. D. Norton has indicated he would appoint counsel to protect Mrs. Stalley's interests in view of the circumstances.

It has also been indicated the hearing of the insanity complaint against Fehl would not be called until completion of the civil action, which is expected to require a day.

Von Schmalz and Rhoten, as attorneys, represented Fehl and Mrs. Stalley, in a number of actions, including an appeal to the state supreme court. Von Schmalz was one of the counsel for Fehl in his trial for ballot theft in Klamath county.

Great Britain is said to have a school from which 100 instructors in gas-mask and gas-proofing practice are graduated every month.

THEATER CROWDS GIVEN DRENCHING

A heavy downpour that drenched the city during the night brought a total rainfall of 1.20 inches, the weather bureau reported today. An early evening drizzle developed into a pouring rain just as first-snow crowds emerged from the theaters.

Rainfall for the 24 hours ending at 5 a. m. today measured 1.30 inches, heaviest since last February 4 when 1.25 inches were measured in the 24-hour period.

Last night's rain brought the November precipitation to 1.75 inches, an excess above normal of 1.10 inches for the month. Rainfall for the weather bureau year, beginning September 1, measured 5.18 inches at 5 a. m., a seasonal excess of 2.69 inches.

While last night's rainfall and the November and seasonal excesses are large, they are not out of the ordinary, the weather bureau said.
