

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Here for Winter—Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Miller, owners of a cattle ranch at Port Klamath, have taken up residence in Medford for the winter.

Giving Lecture—The Rev. John W. Hoyt, Medford minister, was to give a lecture tonight, in the First Baptist church of Sacramento, on his personal experiences among the Choctaw and Cherokee Indians.

Leases Station—S. M. Wilcox, former Ashland business man, has leased the Phipps service station at North Riverside avenue and Jackson boulevard from Dr. L. D. Phipps, owner. Mr. Wilcox is now actively operating the station and is featuring the Mohawk line of gasoline and motor oils.

Civilians to Meet—Civilian employees of Medford CCC headquarters will hold a business meeting at the downtown office Friday at 4 p. m. About 50 Medford residents are employed in the CCC offices and they have formed a club for occasional social affairs. Fred Butler is president, Mary Waldon, secretary, and Jack Hartley, treasurer.

Fines Levied—E. G. Mannie, 46, a tourist from North Dakota, was fined $10 in city court this morning for being drunk in his parked car near Beck's bakery yesterday. Edward J. Bruley, 39, of Medford was fined $5 for disorderly conduct following an altercation in a local pool room yesterday. Both men were arrested by city police.

Special Thursday—The special sleeper which the Southern Pacific will run to San Francisco for the California-Stanford game Saturday will leave here Thursday evening, thus giving an extra day in the south. Reservations for berths must be made in advance with the local passenger agent to insure sleeping quarters. The return trip may be made any time within the next ten days.

To Coquille—John W. Clabaugh, state police recruit stationed here for the past 10 days, left for Coquille this morning where he will begin his permanent assignment. He will help in the enforcement of fish and game laws. Clabaugh, who recently retired from baseball and was for four years a star with the Portland Beavers, will move his family from Portland to Coquille in the near future. He was known in baseball circles as "Moose" Clabaugh.

Park Roads Open—Snow fell again last night in Crater Lake national park, eight inches being reported at Annie Spring this morning. Jackson County Chamber of Commerce announced. Total snow depth was reported as 40 inches. Park snow plow was working and it was expected the road to the lake rim would be opened by noon. Chains were advised for cars. Weather was described as cloudy with the temperature slightly above freezing this morning.

Back from Portland—Dr. W. C. Thompson, who recently opened offices in the Medford Center building, has returned from a brief business trip to Portland.

Undergoes Treatment—Mrs. Walter Rowley of 104 South Oakdale avenue is receiving treatment at Community hospital for a knee injury received in a recent fall.

Shops for Feast—Miss Velma McCredie shopped in Medford yesterday for the turkey dinner to be given by the Central Point Grange in its hall tomorrow evening. The public is invited to the dinner.

Minor Accident—Carl Watson of Route 4 and Gerald A. Barr of Fourth and Bartlett streets drove automobiles involved in a minor accident on East Main street yesterday afternoon, a city police report stated today.

Office Assistant—Miss Doris Southwick is now employed in the offices of Drs. B. R. Elliott and Charles F. Johnson, taking the place of Mrs. Harold Littrell (Maxine Ginnets) who has moved to Yreka, Cal.

Many Enrolled—Final reports have been received of the Southern Oregon Music association enrollment in Grants Pass, and that community has been active in support of the plan. Mrs. Esther Bristol acted as chairman there and was successful in enrolling a large number of members, the report showed.

Park Chief Here—Frank A. Kittredge of San Francisco, regional director of the national park service, spent yesterday in Medford conferring with E. P. Leavitt, superintendent of Crater Lake national park, and at the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Kittredge arrived by train in the morning from San Francisco and left last night for Portland. He was quoted as saying he would visit here again on his return to San Francisco, if time permitted. He was making a routine conference trip.

Forest Conditions—Rogue River national forest headquarters today described weather conditions as follows: 18 inches of snow covered the Siskiyou divide and the Ashland scenic loop drive was closed. The snow extended about three miles down the Applegate slope. All roads except the main one in the Applegate district were muddy and chains were needed. All roads in the Butte Falls area were extremely muddy, with the small roads practically closed. The road from Butte Falls to Prospect was in bad condition and chains were required. It was possible to get through to Lake of the Woods by using chains. It was raining this morning at Lake of the Woods and Fish Lake. It was raining and snowing in the Union Creek district. Union Creek roads generally were in good condition.

YOUTH COUNCIL MEET WELL ATTENDED SAYS HAMILTON ON RETURN

James M. Hamilton, pastor of the local Christian church, who served as one of the resource leaders in the recent assembly of the Oregon Christian Youth Council at Forest Grove, reports over 400 delegates representing eleven denominations of the state attended. Largest delegations came from the following churches, listed in order of delegates present: Christian, Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, Lutheran and Episcopal. Arthur Stanley, president of the Oregon council, gave a report of what he saw and heard in the inter-church meetings held across the Atlantic this summer at Oxford and Edinburgh. The two guest speakers at Forest Grove were Martin of North American Christian Youth Council, and Dr. L. Foster Wood, also from New York, representative of the federal council of churches. Donald Doris of Salem was elected president for the next annual assembly to meet in McMinnville. Of local interest, Mr. Hamilton reports the possibility of organizing a Medford council of Christian youth as a part of the greater Oregon council, and the bringing of some national leaders and state officers to southern Oregon in the spring.

Gay Romance Coming to Craterian Sunday

A gay, bantering tale of love under the "L" in Greenwich village brings comedy to the amusing plot and Mickey Rooney is cast in another of the roles he has made famous on the screen. Montgomery is cast in the lead opposite Miss Russell in the role of a Greenwich Village artist while his co-star plays the part of a society girl who gives up wealth for love in a rare and twenty-seven cents a day.

At Craterian

Ginger Rogers will prove herself a competent star at the New Craterian theater when she opens a four-day run today without the support of her famous co-star and dancing partner, Fred Astaire. Miss Rogers is starred with Katharine Hepburn and Adolphe Menjou in "Stage Door," dramatic story of life and love among the millions of girls who each year have a fling at fame on Broadway. Gail Patrick, Constance Collier and Andrea Leeds have important supporting roles.

On Rialto Bill

Richard Arlen and Fay Wray taste the joy of living in "Murder in Greenwich Village," in which they get mixed up in a killing. The film, laid in New York's notorious art center, plays at the Rialto theater today and tomorrow. Raymond Walburn assists Miss Wray and Arlen in the cast. "Portia on Trial," an exciting courtroom drama, plays as the companion feature. Walter Abel, Frieda Inescort, Heather Angel and Neil Hamilton have leading roles.
