Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(P)—Leading stocks rested on a shaky foundation in today's market despite occasional flurries of mild buying support. Steels, motors, coppers and specialties slanted downward from the start. Dealings, though, were listless throughout. Extreme losses running to 2 or 3 core points were reduced here and there near the close, but many issues finished around bottom levels. Aviation stocks again contested the move with moderate advances. While awaiting a cue from Washington, observers hunted unsuccessfully for definite signs of business revival.

Transfers were around 850,000 shares. Today's closing prices for 32 selected stocks follow: Al. Chem. & Dye . . . 159 1/2 Am. Can . . . 88 1/2 Am. & Fgn. Pow. . . . 4 1/2

SONG TO FEATURE PEAR BROADCAST

Composed by Jeunessie Butler, Medford musician and writer, a song will form part of a special Pear Week program to be broadcast from KMED at 12:45 Saturday by the Oregon-Washington-California Pear Bureau. The program, to last half an hour, is designed to be informative as well as entertaining. It will enable westerners to hear for the first time the type of programs being presented by the pear bureau in the east to promote consumption of pears.

Miss Butler's song will be given at the end of the program. It was written especially for Pear Week which is now being observed throughout the United States.

California Through With Hard Practice

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 18.—(AP)—California's unbeaten Golden Bears, who must conquer Stanford Saturday for the Pacific coast conference football championship, wind up practice with a light drill today. Tomorrow the Bears will move to a mountain resort a few miles from the Stanford stadium, far from the San Francisco bay area, where California supporters will whoop it up in pre-"big game" celebrations.

Katherine Hepburn and Ginger Rogers In Craterian Film

Based on the highly successful play by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman, "Stage Door," the long-awaited picture which teams for the first time Katherine Hepburn and Ginger Rogers, opened to a roar of glaudia yesterday at the Craterian theater. The two glamorous stars add new laurels to noteworthy careers by their superb performances in the remarkably compelling drama and share top honors with Adolphe Menjou, who, in the role of a Broadway producer, recalls his outstanding performance in Miss Hepburn's Academy award picture, "Morning Glory," in which he played a similar part. Other players who win distinct recognition are Gail Patrick, Constance Collier, Andrea Leeds, Samuel B. Hinds, Lucille Ball, and a score of youngsters, many of whom are newcomers to the screen.

The gripping story is laid principally in a theatrical boarding house in New York and deals with the toasty-turvy careers of a group of stage-struck young ladies who have migrated from all sections of the country. A vivid cross-section of life is reflected in the turbulent strivings of these ambitious youngsters.

Katherine Hepburn plays a society beauty aflame with the desire to be a great dramatic actress, despite parental objections, while Ginger Rogers is seen as a happy-go-lucky, wise-cracking night club entertainer with an eye on the musical comedy stage. The powerful climax of the story arises when Miss Hepburn is called upon to make her dramatic debut directly after the suicide of a frustrated girl friend, played by Andrea Leeds, an assignment which calls upon her vast emotional reserve, but which catapults her to sensational success.
