Conception Of God Topic of Nazarene Evangel's Sermon

Before an attentive congregation, the post-evangelist, Lon Woodrum, preached last night at the Church of the Nazarene on "God Sitting on the Curbstone."

"A persons conception of God colors his whole religious life," Mr. Woodrum said. "However one writes his creed, his actual life will correspond with his mental idea of deity. The ancient pagans who gave their children to the fiery clutch of Moloch, worshipped a sadistic god, mentally. The fanatics who lashed the Quakers across the Boston commons served a god, who, in their minds, was an unspeakable tyrant."

"The true Christian conception of God is given in the first chapter of Isaiah's poetry. First, God is mighty, lifted up higher than the heavens above the earth. Again, He is holy. But God is more. He is condescending in mercy. He is like a father. The noblest character ever seen on earth, Jesus Christ, said, 'He hath seen me hath seen the Father.' Through the Gospels, we discover God."

"Figuratively speaking, God in the person of Jesus, came and sat on the curbstone of life, putting out a hand to smothered humanity. That was religion at its best. May that idea and ideal of religion never die."

Christmas Sale, Dinner, Thursday St. Peters Church

A short program will be given following the dinner. After the program all booths will be opened, fancy work, country store, candy booth, fish pond, etc. The public is cordially invited.

'The Beacon Light' Evangelist's Theme Methodist Church

Last evening the Rev. Perry Arthur, pastor-evangelist at the Main Street Methodist church used for his subject, "The Beacon Light." He showed importance of a Christian letting his Christian life be a beacon to those not so fortunate as those who enjoy the presence and blessing of the spirit of Christ.

The evangelist stated that "if a Christian man does not keep his light shine for the Kingdom of God, that some one who has been looking to this man with a high degree of confidence in his spiritual integrity, will become discouraged and suffer a severe disappointment at the failure of such a character. That instead of turning to God in his hour of need and distress he may turn to the longings of the heart."

Mr. McArthur illustrated the necessity for shining to guide some lost one by telling of being lost at night in his own plane out of Oklahoma City and wandering around over the hilly terrain with hope almost gone, with a slightly missing engine and no compass nor stars to guide. Finally the beacon light 60 miles away was picked up and by the aid of this beacon managed to reach port safely.

A goodly number of people heard the 6:45 p. m. accordion concert with great pleasure and appreciation. This is a nightly feature of the service.

DECEMBER SPURT IN SPENDING SEEN BY PLANET GAZER

This is an astrologer's bill of fare for December:

Stimulation for business in all common commodities; severe storms with snow and sleet; spending of much money for jewelry and the finest of silks and furs, the spending to become reckless in the last few days before Christmas.

New outbreaks of mob violence; increase in gambling in all its aspects; necessity of parents guarding their children more closely against kidnapping; difficulty in government financially; the looming of something pertaining to labor trouble among white collar employes; some large deals in mining and real estate.

These predictions were made by Claudius Maack, an astrologer now in Medford, after a devout scanning of the natal chart. Mr. Maack made the predictions about December fogs, the possible coming of Santa Claus, a probable influx of bills immediately after Christmas, a possible drop in temperature or the need of wearing heavier clothes.

Mr. Maack made no rash predictions. He carefully measured the angles of the planets before making his forecasts. Here is a sample of how an astrologer attains his astonishing foresight:

"December brings a slightly good aspect of the moon to its own place in the natal chart. This is a favorable indication for the good of the general public. This will tend to stimulate business in all common commodities. The planet Mercury transits to an adverse aspect to Saturn in the natal chart. This aspect is completed about the middle of the month when Mercury becomes retrograde. This suggests very severe storms, with snow and sleet."

GRIBBLE ACQUAINTED WITH TYPE OF WHEAT WHICH BROUGHT TITLE

Commenting on a story appearing in The Mail Tribune Monday regarding the world's wheat championship won by Gordon Gibson of Ladner, B. C., John E. Gribble of 139 Kenwood avenue remarked that he had taken a trip through Canada's wheat belt last year and had seen many acres of the grain.

Mr. Gribble also brought back a picture of the crested wheat grass, which was published in the Free Press Prairie Farmer of Winnipeg. The picture may be seen in The Mail Tribune window.

Mr. Gribble said that a single seed of crested wheat grass grew 317 miles of roots in three years. There were 1865 main roots with a total length of 42,270 inches, and 1106 tillers above ground with grass 24 inches long, he said. Total length of grass and roots was calculated at 19,891,270 inches, Mr. Gribble stated.

JUNIOR SYMPHONY IS WELL RECEIVED

The Medford Junior Symphony concert conducted by Mr. John R. Knight was heartily received by the audience when presented by the Medford Club of Zonta International Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium.

The orchestra includes about seventy members from Jackson and adjacent counties.

The program given by George Maddox, tenor, as guest artist, was most enjoyable. Mr. Maddox possesses a voice of rare quality and a personality which completely won his audience from the beginning. He was accompanied by Eileen Crawford Maddox.

The next in the series of concerts is scheduled for February 10.

CHRISTMAS SEAL STORY IN 'LIFE'

A vivid, photographic story of the work of the Christmas seal, which finances the battle against tuberculosis throughout the land, appears in the November 29th issue of Life magazine. Mrs. Robert Hart, chairman of the Jackson county drive, announced yesterday.

Eight pages of the magazine are devoted to the subject of tuberculosis, development of its cure and the history of the cheerful little stamp, which is gaining ground each Yuletide in its battle. "Thirty years ago in the United States, one person in every 60 had tuberculosis. Today the figure is one in 200," article reminds.

The purchase of Christmas seals is urged to continue this splendid progress, for "physicians hope eventually to relegate tuberculosis to the list of plagues that no longer ravage mankind."

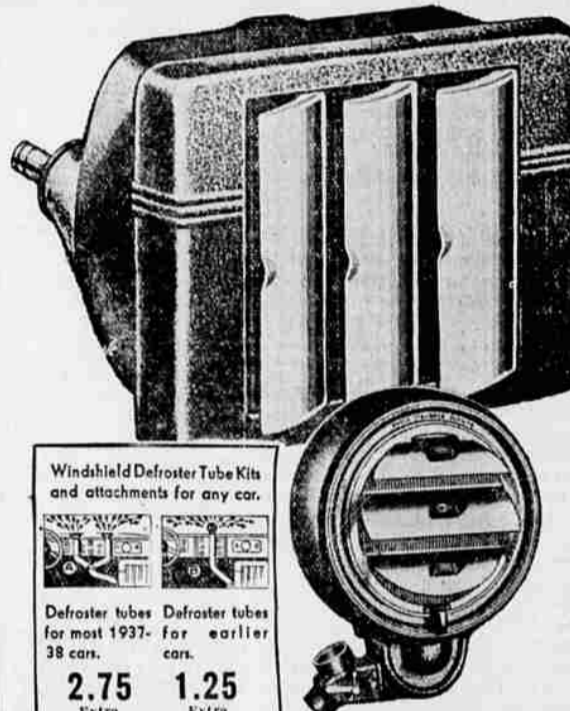

TALENT, Dec. 1.—(Sp1)—The meeting of Talent Rebekah club which was scheduled at the home of Mrs.

John Robinson on December 3, has been changed to the home of Mrs. Edith Hayman, on the same date.
