

HIGH COURT NIPS RELIEF SESSION CALL OF MEYERS

Dramatic Move Of Washington Official To Convene Legislature Held Illegal.

OLYMPIA, April 23.—(AP)—A five-day dramatic attempt by L. Gov. Victor A. Meyers to convene the state legislature in extraordinary session next Monday ended in failure here today, when the supreme court unanimously ruled against him.

The eight justices differed somewhat in their method of arriving at their conclusion, but a study of their decision leaves no doubt they are agreed the former jazz-band leader was not within his rights when he sent out a call for the law-makers to convene.

High state officials, even members of the supreme court, and Mrs. Belle Reeves, the secretary of state against whom Meyers brought his action, praised the lieutenant governor for efforts yesterday to convince the high tribunal his call was legal, but there was a general feeling of relief in the capital city today that no meeting of the legislature faces them in the immediate future.

The way was opened for the special session call, when the governor went to Washington City on April 14, to use his offices in obtaining a reduction of the acreage proposed for the Olympic national park.

At that time, Meyers, was in California on a fishing trip. He said he learned of the governor's absence from the state on April 16, after extended efforts by special session advocates to locate him.

By train, and Oregon and Washington state police cars, he made his way, through Olympia, to Seattle, where he said he learned an emergency existed, and called the special session, "to provide social security for the people, and enabling act for housing and slum clearance, and financial aid for poor school districts."

Mrs. Reeves was acting governor, when Meyers presented his proclamation to her assistant secretary of state, Charles B. Reed. He refused to accept it on the contention Governor Martin had arrived back in the state before it was presented. He chartered a special plane for the trip when he learned of Meyers' intended actions, and then issued a proclamation re-voicing Meyers' "purported call."

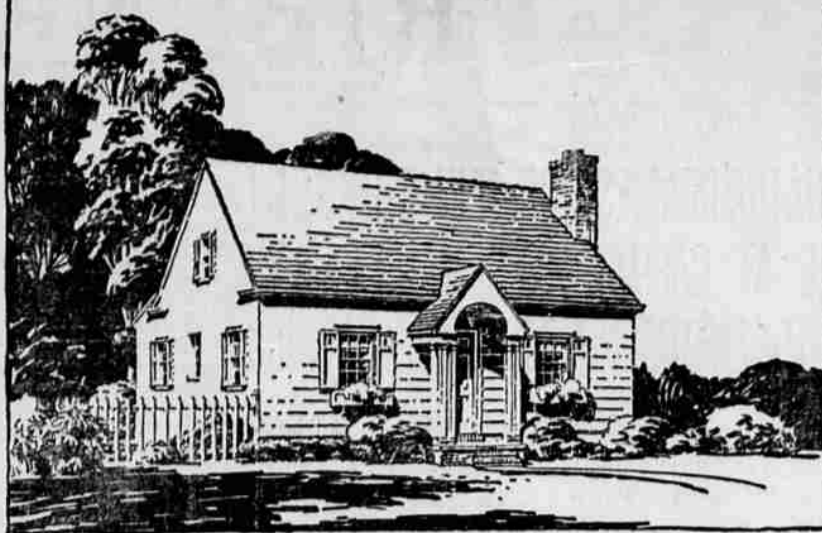

Refused legal counsel by the attorney general Hamilton, who said he must defend the secretary of state and could not "straddle the fence" on the question, and without funds which he could devote to other legal services, the lieutenant governor made a spirited plea of his own case before the supreme court.

U.S. CHAMBER HITS PUMP PRIMING AS BUSINESS CHECK

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce today criticized public spending as a method of stimulating recovery.

"Business sentiment to the extent that it is measurable, becomes more and more skeptical of the new 'pump priming' program," the chamber said in a formal statement.

The organization also suggested that revision of the labor relations act should be included in any legislative program to combat the recession.

The chamber declared its skepticism of spending was "born of experience." "Earlier boot-strap spending," the statement said, "has produced no lasting benefits. The temporary, artificial lift it gave to business was at a fearfully high cost. The bill remains unpaid.

"The decision to try another large dose of deficit spending is disappointing to that element of the business community which had hoped for a more fundamental approach to the underlying causes of the depression."

"More public spending, this group contends, is not the proper cure because it does not go to the roots of existing difficulties.

"Business, as represented by the chamber, has consistently advocated a recovery formula which, it believes, reached toward the heart of the trouble."

INFLATION LOOMS COL. KNOX CLAIMS NO IMPROVEMENT FOR CHETCO COVE

WICHITA, Kan., April 23.—(AP)—Col. Frank Knox called President Roosevelt's new recovery program a "deliberate invitation to inflation," and suggested suspension of social security payments as a means of helping private re-employment in a speech here last night.

Knox, 1936 Republican vice-presidential nominee, told the Sedgwick County Lincoln club suspension of social security taxes would release $1,500,000,000 immediately through private channels for re-employment. He said employers and employees are being compelled to save that sum "in the very depths of a depression to provide protection against some future depression."

He said the president's new program was "tied up politically with this year's congressional races and offered nothing private capital was not prepared to do."
