

HUSSONG IDENTIFIES C-C FOSSIL DISPLAY AS BOVIDAE SPECIES

E. M. Hussong, biology teacher at Medford senior high school, gave the following statement today after viewing the fossil animal head bones on display at the Chamber of Commerce:

"The head consists of the supraoccipital bone, the two occipital condyles and the two horn cores of an animal belonging to the family Bovidae, which includes the bison (buffalo), cattle and musk oxen.

"It was covered by glacial and alluvial drift, which indicates that it is one of the animals of the cenozoic era, pleistocene epoch. That is, we would say, it is one of the buffaloes that ranged here some 500 thousand or more years ago, and got covered up by glacial scourings and wash from the mountain sides. Some of these cattle had a spread of horns of 6 feet. Two sorts of them have been found in California, one big one in the Mississippi valley and another one in Alaska.

"Buffalo heads four and a half feet between tip of horn-cores have been picked up in Nebraska. One of the ancient ones, dug from a hillside near the Republican river measured six feet, two inches between horn tips. This is named bison latifrons, which means wide-headed buffalo. He was certainly a gigantic bull to meet out in a cow pasture alone. The horn-cores are about two-thirds the length of the horn. A horn-core of 18 inches would carry a horn of 27 inches."

"GATHER THE ROSE AND LEAVE THE THORN BEHIND" —AN OLD PROVERB

All the thorns of life cannot be avoided, but it is entirely unnecessary for anyone to suffer the sharp disappointment that coffee of unsatisfying quality invariably brings to the taste. This was the belief of Hills Bros. when they began in the coffee business 60 years ago. So they eliminated this "thorn" in coffee drinking by gathering in, year after year, only the finest coffees for their blend. The fragrance of a cup of freshly-made Hills Bros. Coffee announces this excellence. The flavor is proof that "the thorn has been left behind."
