

Champion Chick and Black Secret Tangle in Main Match Tonight

HOLLIS, KENASTON DUE FOR BATTLE IN MIDDLE EVENT

Bobby Chick Will Clash With Swedish Villain in Curtain Raiser On Weekly Armory Mat Program

Cowboy Dude Chick makes his last appearance in the Medford armory before putting his world's junior heavyweight title on the block in Hollywood Legion stadium May 9, when he faces the Black Secret tonight in the main event of Promoter Mack Lillard's weekly wrestling presentation. The card starts at 8:30.

Bulldog Ken Hollis, Arkansas bad man, faces Sgt. Bob Kenaston of Gold Hill in the center engagement, and Bobby Chick, brother of Dude, clashes with Fritz Hansen, villainous Swede, in the opener.

Tonight will mark the first showing here of the Black Secret, a 165-pound bundle of grappling dynamite, who has been plying his trade in Montana and Washington. Since the Black Dragon was in the vicinity last year, local mat fans have not seen a masked grappler, and a capacity crowd is expected for the Secret's debut.

While the main event figures to be a nice exhibition of grappling as displayed in the best circles, such is not the case in the middle attraction. With Hollis and Kenaston as principals, the match has all the earmarks of developing into a brutal brawl, with the ex-marine officer from Gold Hill pitting his devastating crab hold against the hair-pulling, eye-gouging and punching ability of Hollis.

Fritz Hansen will undoubtedly turn the opener into another rough and tumble. Bobby Chick likes the going to be clean, but when his foe turns dirty and resorts to unorthodox maneuvers, Chick is far from helpless.

First two matches will be under the Australian system of six 10-minute rounds, with the main event going one hour, or the best two out of three falls.

WHEN BILL JURGES SAW RED (not meaning the baseball players, either) over what he thought was an "out" decision of Umpire Beardon on this slide to third, he squawked—then found he'd been mistaken. He was safe and helped Cubs beat the Reds, 10 to 4, at Cincinnati.

Billy Hulén says:
Long Trail Leads To Derby Post; Not All Velvet

Its almost Kentucky Derby time, next Saturday afternoon at Louisville, Ky., some dozen or so men will pound their heels for a mile and a quarter in the world's most famous race for three-year-olds, and some owner will be considerably enriched when his bobtail nopes under the wire in first place.

The annual American classic is officially worth $50,000 to the citizen owning the winning horse, but actually, the prize amounts to much less when you subtract the expense of getting an entrant ready for the event. It's a long, tough trail to a Derby victory, with many a disappointment and plenty of purse-snapping.

According to Roscoe Goose, veteran trainer and former jockey who booted Donerail home in 1913, it costs approximately $2500 to prepare a horse for the Derby. This figure includes a training period of four months, from January 7 to May 7. He breaks down the figures like this: Trainer at $300 per month; $1200; exercise boy at $60 a month; $360; rubber at $90 a month; $240; feed at $1 a day; $120; stall rent at Churchill Downs, $12; drugs and veterinary care, $7 a month; $28; plates at $5 a month; $20. It costs $25 to nominate a thoroughbred for the Derby and $500 more to start him.

In addition, there are many more liabilities, such as the original cost of the horse, if he was purchased at an auction for several thousand dollars; caring for him for two years before he starts prepping for the race; traveling expense and equipment cost. And, not to mention the retaining fee of approximately $500 to engage a jockey, the 10 per cent bonus each to the trainer and jockey if the horse comes in, and additional monetary presents to other members of the stable.

plans for this season's campaign, and discuss rules and regulations to be in effect when they get out there under the stadium lights and cut loose. The get-together starts at 7:30, and all are urged to be present.

The boys are really enthusiastic regarding the summer's play, and figure the game will enjoy an even more successful season than last. Just what teams will be in which of two leagues to be organized will be determined tomorrow night. Many clubs have been working out for two weeks and are ready to go.

The Medford Craters may clash with last year's Oregon semi-pro champions—Reliable Shoe of Portland—if negotiations are completed. The game will be staged in Medford Decoration Day, May 30, and would give local fans a chance to see just what brand of baseball is played in the northern end of the state, bush variety.

Arba Ager and Lowell Brown both got their first baselists of the season yesterday, and are now fully relaxed and anxious to start tearing down the fences, now that the ice is broken. For the second straight Sunday, Cliff "Chief" McLean went hitless, but don't worry. The Chief never was an early-season stickler, and he'll come out of it, maybe next Sunday at Ashland, where there is a beautiful, short left field wall.

CRATERS WIN, 8-3, IN RAIN-MARRED GAME WITH HILT

Locals Make it Two in Row in Pre-League Season Tune-up Tilts—Visitors' Errors Cause Downfall

Medford's Southern Oregon league Craters made it two straight over Northern California circuit baseball clubs yesterday at the high school park by drubbing the Hilt Lumberjacks, 8 to 3, on a slick field dampened by a chilly drizzle that fell for five innings. Only a handful of the faithful turned out for the Craters' final tuneup game prior to the league inaugural next Sunday at Ashland.

Although outfit, 8 to 6, the Craters won rather easily as Hilt booted the slippery aspe seven times. Ray Erickson, Larry Pepper, Bill Rathke and Lowell Brown tolled on the Medford mound, and did a pretty good job of scattering Hilt's eight blows.

Erickson was nipped for five in the first five frames, Pepper for three in the sixth, and Cliff and Rathke and Brown came through unscathed in the last two heats. Brown, the big southpaw first sacker, hurled the ninth inning and whiffed the only three batters to face him on 10 pitched balls. His first throw was a ball, then he fired nine straight strikes past the bewildered Hilt stickers.

Four in First
The Craters clinched the ball game in the first round, when they tallied four times on two singles, two walks, an error and a wild pitch. With two gone, Dick Lewis drew a base on balls, Hofferf was safe when Brown dropped his towering drive into right field, and Lewis scored when Marshall Morgan, Hilt pitcher, cut loose with a wild pitch. Hofferf went to third and, after Clift walked, Lowell Brown rifled a single to right, scoring Hofferf and McLean. Brown stole second and scored on Arba Ager's single to right.

Hilt had tallied once in their half on Coleman's single to left, Robinson's sacrifice, a long fly to right which put Coleman on third, and Erickson's wild pitch. They kept pecking away and picked up another run in the fifth when Morgan singled, stole second and scored on Lange's single to center. They scored their first run in the sixth off Pepper. Robinson got hit by one of Pepper's fast balls and Blanchard ran for him. G. Trince hit one down to Ager on third, and when Arba heaved it over Brown's head on first, Blanchard completed the circuit.

With the score 4 to 3, the Craters led the encounter in the seventh with a two-run burst. Sakrinda walked, but was forced at second by Rickert. Lewis smashed a two-bagger into left and Rickert pulled up at third. Hooser Hofferf then came through with a bounding single into center field, and Lewis and Rickert tallied. It was Hooser's only blow, but again it came in the pinch.

Just to make sure, Medford got two more runs in the eighth, and without the aid of a baselists. Ager reached first on an error at shortstop, Bill Piche batting for Rathke, jockeyed himself into free transportation, and they both crossed the plate when R. Trince, Hilt short-patcher, picked deliras as Sakrinda's mound buzzed between his legs. Trince made it 8 to 3, and Lowell Brown personally saw to it that Hilt didn't do anything in the ninth.

Morgan, the big right-handed Hilt chucker, was effective enough to win most ball games, but his teammates' errors nullified his good work. Erickson also worked nicely in his five innings on the Crater rubber.

The Craters will this week gallop through intensive workouts in preparation for the league opening next Sunday. Manager Rickert has named Bill Rathke as the starting pitcher against Ashland, while Manager Jack Baulding of the Lithians said Alvin Merritt, former Medford hurler, would start for the neighboring club.

BEAVER TRIPLE PLAY FIRST TO GRACE NEW COAST LEAGUE BOOKS

By the Associated Press
Portland's bustling Beavers not only held on to first place in the Pacific Coast baseball league today, but they added the distinction of completing the first triple play in the circuit this season.

The Beavers shared a pair with the last place Oakland Aacorns yesterday. They were blanked, 7 to 0, in the first game and won the seven-inning nightcap, 5 to 4.

It was in the first game that the Beavers completed their triple play. The Oaks' Earl Robinson was on second base and Joe Abreu at first on two successive singles Bill Raymond smashed a lone line drive over Pitcher Ad Liska's head. Second baseman Joe Morrissey came in fast grabbed the ball for the putout on Raymond, took a couple of steps to get second before Raymond could get back and then shot the ball to Johnny Frederick at first base to catch Abreu.

All other six flights reached their final round, and title matches will be played before Sunday night. Prizes to all flight winners and runners-up will be awarded immediately after the Watson-Jackson match.

Harry Rosenberg furnished most of the excitement in semi-final tournament action when he held his tee shot on the 100-yard tenth green Friday afternoon. He was playing with Bill Walker in the fourth flight, and the ace helped him chalk up a 3 and 2 victory. He used a No. 7 iron.
