MOTHER AND SON BELIEVED LINKED IN MURDER LIST

about another mysterious disappearance—links Mayer and his mother with it.

Fultz said he learned from Sgt. George Woodward of the Salt Lake City police a man named D. C. Bennett vanished after last being seen in the company of Mayer and Mrs. Smith at Price, Utah. Fultz said Woodward positively identified Mayer as the man who accompanied Bennett on an automobile ride after which he was never seen.

Killed For Auto

Although James Eugene Bassett did not go for an automobile ride with the mother and son, before his death, according to Mrs. Smith's confession, occurred over an automobile. He had come to sell his new machine to Mayer, as he was planning to leave for Mendocino.

"The boy needed money for a car to get a start in life with," Mrs. Smith wrote of her son.

The letters, one to a man she said she planned to marry, named "Wheeler" and the other to a "clergyman," detailed how Bassett was killed.

He had been lured to the "little brown house" where Mayer stayed with his mother on the pretense they were to buy his automobile.

Cleans Up House

She said she took no part in the actual slaying, but she boasted of the manner in which she cleaned up everything so thoroughly that, when officers searched the house soon after the crime, they could find no trace of the slaying.

"I was sitting on the couch, where I had a rod of iron hidden in a quilt, in case of a struggle," she said.

Bassett was forced to write a telegram to his sister in Brenerton, Wash., and then was straggled on the head with the hammer after Mrs. Smith left the room.

"I heard his body fall and went back into the room. He was gurgling. I stepped out again and Earl gave him one more blow and it was all over. . . He never allowed his victims to suffer."

Son Worked Hard

"The poor boy worked so hard," she said, "to keep up his strength I made him an egg nog."

The dismembered body was put into a galvanized iron tub and hidden for the night in Mayer's bedroom.

She said all the body except the hands and hands were put into four sacks which were hidden separately under bushes in the woods between Cathcart and Bothell, north of Seattle. The head and hands, she said, were thrust into a woodchuck hole in a different locality.

She displayed pride in outwitting law enforcement officers, whom she termed "smart alecs."

"They made perfect fools of themselves," she wrote. "No wonder Earl and I sat back in the old county jail in Seattle and laughed."

Methodists Ignore Secession Threats

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 5.—(AP)—In the face of "secession" threats, the judicial council of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, ruled today a conference-approved plan to unify American Methodism.

The nine-member "supreme court" of the southern denomination ruled the secessionist conference now in session was within its rights in voting the southern church into a tripartite union to create a new church of some 8,000,000 members.

WASHINGTON (UP)—People think they take good care of their biggest diamond ring.

The chances are ten to one they take less care of it than the library of congress takes with its floors.

People wash their rings in any soap, and bump them against metal objects.

OLEEN FLINGS NEW CONSPIRACY CHARGE AT OPPONENT HESS

PORTLAND, May 5.—(P)—New charges of a conspiracy against his candidacy were hurled today by O. Henry Oleen, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor.

The attack was again directed against forces which were asserted to be aligned with Henry Hess, one of Oleen's opponents. Recently Oleen claimed that the Hess group had figured in circulation of reports that he intended to withdraw.

His newest broadside asserted that the "Hess-for-Governor brigade" has spread the statement that the "Martin-for-Governor club is helping finance my campaign." Gov. Charles Martin is the third candidate for the nomination.

"When a gang of politicians resort to false statements involving opponents it is about time that they let the public in on what took place in the secret conference held on April 4 in regard to withdrawal of candidates and sponsoring of Henry Hess' candidacy for governor."

Oleen said friends who attended rallies at Eugene, Pendleton and Oregon City "told me about the above mentioned statement (on financing of his campaign) being spread."

Oleen said he had challenged Hess to a series of debates to compare their legislative records "and silence is the only reply I have received."

SHUT DAM GATES AT SAVAGE RAPIDS

GRANTS PASS, May 5.—(Spl.)—Barring accidents, the Grants Pass irrigation district will be ready to turn on its water system Friday morning by priming its ditches, thereafter raising the ditch level a little higher each day, announced E. Reed Carter, secretary-manager of the district, Wednesday.

Tuesday afternoon workmen succeeded in floating the first of the timber mats into place at Savage Rapids dam to cover the two openings where gates were torn away in the flood of 1937. Because replacing the gates would cost an estimated $8,000, the district has used the temporary stop-gaps each year instead of installing new gates.

The river is at the highest point during gate closing operations it has been since the dam was first used in 1921, Mr. Carter said. Four feet of water is flowing over the dam's crest, despite the fact that the sluice gates are open, so that six men required four days to perform the difficult task of floating the four mats into place with the aid of a row-boat. Their task was made easier Tuesday night when the river dropped a foot.

Don't Keep on Having Constipation!

If constipation's got you down—so you feel heavy, tired and dopey—it's time you do something about it. And something more than taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat only the things most people do, the chances are that a very simple fact causes your constipation—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, eat crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains the natural intestinal tonic, vitamin B<sub>1</sub>.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.
