

RE-ELECT MARTIN DISTRICT LEADER NAZARENE CHURCH

Rev. L. W. Collar of Salem and Rev. Weatherford of Medford Church Elected to Board of Regents

The Rev. E. E. Martin was re-elected superintendent of the North Pacific district of the Nazarene church in annual conference here today.

As the conference neared its close, this afternoon's agenda included election of delegates to the national Sunday school convention in Bethany, Okla., the latter part of June.

Dr. J. O. Morrison, general superintendent, addressed the assembly this morning on "The Holy Side of Holiness."

Many Nazarene guests Dr. Henry B. Wallin, guest evangelist, delivered the sermon last night.

Dr. Russell V. DeLong, president of the Northwest Nazarene college, gave an address in which he said that today there are about 300 graduates of the college's normal school who are teaching in grade or high schools.

Ninety-eight graduates, he stated, are either pastors or evangelists. The college, he pointed out, will celebrate its 25th anniversary in 1939.

The district assembly yesterday elected the Rev. L. W. Collar of Salem and the Rev. Fred M. Weatherford, host pastor, to the board of regents.

Baptism Saturday A baptismal service will be held at 7 p. m. tomorrow when the new baptismal will be formally dedicated.

After the baptismal service, Dr. Henry B. Wallin will preach an evangelistic message. He will speak also at the school hour Sunday morning at 9:45.

Dr. J. G. Morrison, general superintendent, will speak over the radio at 7:15 tomorrow morning. He will also be heard in the major message of the assembly at 10:45 a. m. Sunday.

He will lead the assembly again in the afternoon at 2:30 following an organ recital by Mrs. Lilla M. Purucker and 2. At 3 p. m. he will ordain a group of ministers and then address the assembly in the interest of worldwide missions, having himself returned from a missionary tour of the West Indies and the British Isles.

Dr. Wallin will deliver the closing evangelistic message Sunday night. Prior to his sermon a young people's rally will be conducted at 6:30 by the Rev. Mr. Gandy.

The services are being held in the new Nazarene church at Holly and First streets.

BANWELL CHOSEN CHIEF OF EAGLES FOR FOURTH TIME

A. H. Banwell was elected president of Crater Lake aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles at its meeting in the Medford armory last night.

This will be Mr. Banwell's fourth term as president in the past five years. He did not seek the office this year but said he was motivated in accepting the position by the thought he could be of help to the aerie.

Mrs. Libbie Root was elected president of the auxiliary, succeeding Mrs. La Villa Banwell.

Other aerie officers elected were Fred Johnston, vice president, Henry Mapston, chaplain, O. H. Bengtson, secretary, Ora Meyers, treasurer, Morse Haley, conductor, Ray Norval, inside guard, Ray Ahart, outside guard, Ralph Baker, trustee, and Dr. George S. Jennings, doctor.

Other auxiliary officers elected were Mrs. Olga Bowditch, vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth Meyers, chaplain, Mrs. Mildred Mapston, secretary, Mrs. Vada Davidson, treasurer, Mrs. Anna Norval, inside guard, Mrs. Ethel Terrill, outside guard, and Mrs. Susan Offord, trustee.

As in past years the aerie and auxiliary will unite in observing Mother's Day. A committee will call on Gold Star mothers and fathers and convey them to the armory where a brief ceremony will be held at 10 a. m. Sunday. A corsage bouquet will be presented to the mothers and a boutonniere to the fathers.

All aerie and auxiliary members were requested to meet at the Presbyterian church at 10:45 a. m. Sunday to attend the special Mother's Day service at 11 in a group.

TONES OF MUSIC ARE MADE VISIBLE BY NEW INVENTION

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—An entirely new field for scientifically writing music has been opened by the latest invention of Ivan Eremeeff, associate of Dr. Leopold Stokowski, orchestra leader.

Instead of the conventional symbols used in writing music, drawn wave patterns of musical tones are employed when using Eremeeff's invention.

Constructed of specially built radio and television equipment, Eremeeff's invention can reproduce a drawn tone pattern, or projected tone pattern, into sound and vision simultaneously.

According to the inventor, each musical tone has its own pattern and virtually every known pattern has been recorded by scientists. By reproducing a tone pattern with his invention it is projected on a screen and heard through a loudspeaker at the same time.

Because of this, Eremeeff explained, a man like Stokowski, with his knowledge of tone patterns, could change the course of the pattern to suit his needs.

For example, Eremeeff said, Stokowski could draw a known tone pattern on a blackboard, set up the instrument and reproduce it visually and musically. As he listens to the course of the pattern he also sees it flash across the screen. Thus if a part of the pattern does not satisfy his needs he could note exactly what part of the pattern is unsuitable.

Then he can redraw the pattern to his liking, reproduce it again, and get exactly what is wanted.

A whole orchestra could be reproduced synthetically, Eremeeff said. Slides, each with a different tone pattern of the instruments, could be projected on a board and with his device, transmit the picture of the projected tone patterns into the speaker and onto the screen.

Eremeeff, with the aid of Dr. Bothezat, built the first successful helicopter—an airship which uses whirling blades in place of conventional wings for its vertical lifting power. He also built the first successful electric organ on a commercial scale. The first organ is now at the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia.

'EAGLE' BOATS OF WORLD WAR DAYS PUT IN DISCARD

By Otto Janssen (United Press Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON (UP)—The navy's "Eagle" boats, heralded during the World War as valuable aids in the campaign against German U-boats, will go into the discard soon.

Two boats of this type, now at the Philadelphia navy yard, will be sold to the highest bidder. Eight others are now in commission as patrol and training boats.

The "Eagle" boats when built represented a departure in American naval construction, but the armistice occurred before their production was on a mass scale. Navy experts commented on the sale announcement with the observation that all types of warcraft must undergo a long period of experimentation in order to be successful.

The "Eagle" boats were developed during the World War, when large numbers of fast vessels were urgently needed to combat the German submarine menace.

To meet this need, Henry Ford proposed the construction of a 200-foot, 600-ton submarine chaser for a mass production basis. Plans for the boat were studied, believed feasible and the navy placed an order for 100 of the craft. Twelve others were ordered later for the Italian navy.

Besides being produced on a quantity basis, the "Eagle" boats were constructed of steel. Previous ships of this type had been built of wood. Specifications called for a fast ship, capable of a speed of 18 knots and a cruising range of 3,800 miles. They were to be armed with two 4-inch guns, discharge projectors and machine guns. Each ship was equipped to carry 12 depth charges.

Ford built a special plant on the River Rouge near Detroit to turn out the "seagoing floaters." Production was soon under way and during one month, 23 of the ships were produced.

A total of 60 "Eagle" boats were built, but only a few saw service before the armistice was signed. Some of the ships went from New York to Inverness, Scotland, over a 4,000-mile course, while a few went to the Arctic through the ice fields. In several instances, the ships were used as dispatch vessels between northern Russian ports.

Although the "Eagle" boats proved useful at a time when every ship counted, naval experts now feel that the vessels did not fulfill expectations and would not be practicable as a permanent adjunct to the fleet. They point out that the vessels were produced under great stress to meet an emergency, and hence little research or experimentation could be devoted to their operation.

One of the chief shortcomings of the "Eagle" boats, experts said, was their shallow draft. Although this gave them greater speed, it made the ships difficult to handle in rough weather.

GAS MASK SUPPLY IS LARGE ENOUGH FOR ALL ENGLAND

LONDON (UP)—The British government soon will be able to provide every man, woman and child in England with a gas mask within eight hours in an emergency.

The government now has more than 30,000,000 masks ready for distribution to local authorities, who will keep them under proper conditions until it is thought necessary to distribute them to the public. The production of masks is continuing at the rate of 500,000 a week.

After every raid wardens have visited every house and, as far as possible, actually tried on the various sizes of masks, it is anticipated that the distribution of masks to the whole population could be accomplished in eight hours.

A memorandum from the home office has been sent to all local authorities setting out the position of the moment and the steps it will be necessary to take in the various localities.

Local authorities are asked to supply particulars of the numbers of men and women and of children between the ages of 4 and 16 years, 2 and 4 years, and under 2 years in their areas.

The government, however, does not intend to wait for this detailed information, but will supply respirators for local storage on a rough estimate of the requirements. Children under two will be fitted with a protective device which will totally enclose them.

It is possible that in at least one area the government will arrange a test distribution to everybody living there.

Experiments are also going forward for provision of means of protection for livestock. Household pets will have to be kept in rooms which are sealed against gas.

It is said that England is far ahead of any other country in arrangements for safeguarding the civilian population.

The storage places to be provided by local authorities will be known as "local respirator stores." From experiments conducted it is considered that the local stores should accommodate 30,000 respirators. Trials have demonstrated that the maximum number of respirators which can satisfactorily be dealt with at any one distributing depot is about 4,000.
