

He Mounts Capital Dome

This wax model of a six-ton, 34-foot bronze statue will be cast at the New York studio of Urie H. Ellerhusen and the finished creation placed on the dome of the new Oregon capitol building at Salem. The figure, a symbol of the Oregon pioneer, will survey the country from a height of 121 feet.—Associated Press Photo.

Oregon's Capitol Virtually Complete

Oregon's new marble statehouse at Salem, scheduled for occupancy by July 1 and dedication on October 1, is ready for the huge bronze pioneer statue to dignify the lofty dome. Sculptors are at work on granite groups for the main entrance. The landscaping project will start as soon as construction debris is removed from the grounds. The building will replace the one destroyed by fire more than two years ago. (AP Photo)

The number of marriages rose from 517,000 in 1932 to 620,000 in 1937, while in the last five years 460,000 more couples were married than in the five years before the Nazis came to power. Up to the end of 1937, 878,000 marriage loans were paid by the state.

78 ATTEND ANNUAL CRAFTSMAN FETE; WORK EXPLAINED

Boys and Employers Join in Get-Together Banquet — Value of Trade Training Is Emphasized in Talks

Seventy-eight persons attended the sixth annual apprentice-employer banquet of the Medford Future Craftsmen in the senior high school last night.

Cecil Michael, superintendent of the Future Craftsmen and banquet toastmaster, welcomed the employers. E. R. White responded on behalf of the employers.

In addition to the central table, there were eight smaller tables at which the following craftsmen gave short talks on their work: Warren Larimer, Clyde Troxell, Ernest Childreth, Ted Wharton, Bruce Blew, Bob Lewis and George Giffin. Franklin Jones entertained with two guitar solos.

Speak For Board

N. H. Franklin and Eugene Thorndike, representing the school board, commented on the value of trade training. W. A. Gates compared the learning of a trade to the carrying of a spare automobile tire. He said too many boys start out in life without a spare tire. While he acknowledged that many men were not doing the kind of work they were trained for in early life, he advised the boys to prepare for some definite occupation.

L. A. Mentzer, coordinator, introduced the following guests from Grants Pass: Harold Shogren, trades coordinator, J. A. Seiferstein, apprentice commissioner, and John Rhodes and Carter Duncan, officers of the Grants Pass Future Craftsmen.

Mr. Mentzer read a telegram from O. D. Adams, director of the state board for vocational education, who expressed regrets for not being able to attend the banquet and praised the work of the Medford Future Craftsmen.

Girls Prepare Dinner Place cards were craftsmen emblems attached to which were miniature wooden ladders showing the steps through which the top rung is reached: novice, apprentice, craftsman and master. The place cards were made by the craftsmen.

The banquet was prepared and served by girls of the domestic science classes under supervision of Miss Marian Luce.

After the banquet all went to the school fair where the apprentices took charge of their booths.

SAILORS MUST PAY LEVY FOR RADIOS

GDYNIA, Poland (AP)—Polish sailors have protested against paying the usual government license fee for operation of private radios in their cabins aboard ship.

When they are in the Polish seaports they claim they do not use their sets because they spend their leisure time on shore, and when they are at sea they are unable to tune in Polish programs.

Representatives of the government-controlled Polish radio company would not accept this explanation from sailors aboard the "Batory" and confiscated a dozen radio sets, fining the owners.

The "Batory" is a Polish liner plying between Gdynia and New York. Use Mail Tribune Want Ads.

ART AT CAPITOL REAPS CRITICISM

SALEM, May 6.—(AP)—Criticism of the model for the pioneer statue to be placed atop the state capitol dome resulted in a fair-sized mustache in place of a Hitler dab and a regulation ax instead of a hatchet. Now comes the protest of two anglers who object to decorations depicting the famous Oregon salmon. They wrote:

"We rubbed our eyes and gazed again. . . . Aha and slack! . . . There was no denying it! High above, deposited neatly in the center of the great west wall, we beheld three plump, full-grown salmon, noses definitely downstream . . . swimming valiantly out to sea! We are grieved that it is so."

They decided the artist was not a fisherman and did not know that only young salmon swim toward the sea. The big fellows spawn and die.
