HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxative—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest the pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or flat foods or when you are nervous, hurried or indigestion, your stomach pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you get gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel poor.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach troubles unless you are ill. It takes three little black tablets called Bell-sol for indigestion. It is the same stomach fluid harmonizer, called Bell-sol. It is 5 minutes and you feel back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25-cent package proves it. Ask for Bell-sol for indigestion.

What the Girl Scouts Are Doing

Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock leaders and troop committee members met at headquarters with Mrs. Elizabeth Price, regional nature advisor. Mrs. Price gave very useable suggestion for stimulating interest in the living out-of-doors, themes for hikes, queer and humorous behaviors of common plants and animals for children to observe.

Mrs. Price urged the leaders to instill a joy of observation in watching live things live, in finding out why resting insects, animals, etc., behave as they do, rather than in knowing the names. Then as a girl becomes familiar with the habits of living things, it will be doubly interesting to see how the name fits the plant or animal.

Following Mrs. Price's instruction for leaders, the group drove to the home of Mrs. Raymond Drivers, to discover specimens of leaf growth, and unique tree and shrub foliage development described by Mrs. Price.

WOMEN'S LEADER SEES MISNOMER IN EQUAL RIGHTS

Parity Impossible, Either Physically or Biologically Is Club President's Assertion at Meeting.

KANSAS CITY, May 11.—(AP)—The club president for approximately 2,000,000 women called equal rights for men and women "a misnomer" here today.

"It is impossible, either physically or biologically, for men and women to be labeled 'equal' in all things," said Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, of Tulsa, Okla., in her presidential address to the General Federation of Women's clubs.

"Mentally women will challenge the masculine mind to any heights. We know that in many of the industries women cannot take the place of men. However, women should receive full wage consideration for services rendered or work done."

Act Repeal Lauded

She expressed elation over her organization's work in helping repeal a section of the economy act which would have prevented married women from holding governmental positions along with their husbands.

"Women are not seeking to usurp the places occupied by men and better to let them," Mrs. Lawson said, "but rather they desire to fill a God-given privilege to be partners in the affairs of the world."

Mrs. Lawson urged the federation to press its movement for an academy, similar to West Point and Annapolis, in which to train persons for governmental careers.

"We do know such training would help to eliminate the spoils system," she said.

Hidden Taxes Irt

She also recommended increased interest in what she termed the related problems of taxation and unemployment.

"In buying a pair of shoes for my little grandson, four dollars seemed a reasonable price," she said, "but an analysis brought forth the fact that 126 taxes are hidden in that pair of shoes. This is just one of the items in the home to which we should give attention."

The 879 delegates, representing 14,000 clubs in the United States and 25 foreign countries, heard the first reading of resolutions including one asking a government embargo of munition shipments be placed on aggressor nations.

Tuesday afternoon grade school Girl Scouts and Brownies, numbering over 100, assembled in the recreation room at scout headquarters and heard say, live stories of "Petagna's" recent discoveries in close observations of common plants and insects. Happy indeed was the scout who had observed carefully her pets and was able to answer, which lid closes on the chicken, what shape the pupils of the cat, dog, goat, lion and fox were. One interesting discovery new to most of the group was that the pupil of the lion's eye is round like a dog's (yes the lion belongs to the cat family). The pupils of the fox's eye is slit, like the cat but belongs to the dog family.

WEDNESDAY

ROLLO ARRAIGNMENT ON BURGLARY COUNT SET FOR THURSDAY

Roland Rollo, alias John Zwick, 29, self-styled Chinese war aerial machine gunner, and confessor, the authorities allege, of a dozen recent burglaries in Medford homes, will be arraigned in circuit court tomorrow morning for possible sentence. If a report of his fingerprints and past record are received by that time, the district attorney reports.

Rollo has agreed to waive grand jury action, and enter a plea of guilty. District Attorney Frank J. Newman, reports.

The city police noted Rollo loitering around the residential districts at night, arrested him, and in his room found allegedly loot, estimated at $500.

WOMEN'S LEADER SEES MISNOMER IN EQUAL RIGHTS

Parity Impossible, Either Physically or Biologically Is Club President's Assertion at Meeting.

KANSAS CITY, May 11.—(AP)—The club president for approximately 2,000,000 women called equal rights for men and women "a misnomer" here today.

"It is impossible, either physically or biologically, for men and women to be labeled 'equal' in all things," said Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, of Tulsa, Okla., in her presidential address to the General Federation of Women's clubs.

"Mentally women will challenge the masculine mind to any heights. We know that in many of the industries women cannot take the place of men. However, women should receive full wage consideration for services rendered or work done."

Act Repeal Lauded

She expressed elation over her organization's work in helping repeal a section of the economy act which would have prevented married women from holding governmental positions along with their husbands.

"Women are not seeking to usurp the places occupied by men and better to let them," Mrs. Lawson said, "but rather they desire to fill a God-given privilege to be partners in the affairs of the world."

Mrs. Lawson urged the federation to press its movement for an academy, similar to West Point and Annapolis, in which to train persons for governmental careers.

"We do know such training would help to eliminate the spoils system," she said.

Hidden Taxes Irt

She also recommended increased interest in what she termed the related problems of taxation and unemployment.

"In buying a pair of shoes for my little grandson, four dollars seemed a reasonable price," she said, "but an analysis brought forth the fact that 126 taxes are hidden in that pair of shoes. This is just one of the items in the home to which we should give attention."

The 879 delegates, representing 14,000 clubs in the United States and 25 foreign countries, heard the first reading of resolutions including one asking a government embargo of munition shipments be placed on aggressor nations.

JAMES D. BELL, 73, EX-HOTEL OWNER, PASSES IN SALEM

James D. Bell, long-time resident of this city, and a former owner and operator of hotels at Fargo and Grand Forks, North Dakota, died in the state hospital at Salem Tuesday, according to word received here. He had been in failing health for the past two years. He was born at Rochester, Minn., December 25, 1865.

Before coming to Medford in 1909 Bell lived in North Dakota, where he was active in business and politics. He was a close friend of William Budge, former local orchardist, when he was a political leader of North Dakota.

Bell operated the Nash Hotel, now the Allen Hotel, when it was the social center of Medford, and the gathering place of the Rogue River valley during the "boom days." He was widely known in this city.

About ten years ago, he sold his hotel interests and led more or less of a retired life. During his long residence, he was active in civic affairs, and was instrumental in securing the opening of Central avenue, as a through street, connecting with the north and south Pacific highway.
