"Sorry, but we're fresh out of gas!"

DID YOU EVER stop to realize that in years of motoring, over tens of thousands of miles, in city and backwoods corners, you have never—except possibly in circumstances too unusual to count—come upon a Standard filling station which was out of "gas"?

You're not shocked if your grocer is temporarily without your favorite coffee—your bookseller lacks the book you want—your cigar-counter is short for the moment of your brand of cigarette. But you would be appalled if the filling station attendant said "Sorry, sir..."

The distribution system of an oil company like Standard of California is truly a marvel. It's something which functions with the unsurpassed steadiness—and the unseen complexity—of that other marvel, Old Faithful.

Pipelines, tankers, trains, trucks—and men—combine to make your gasoline the most trustworthy supply as well as the most easily procurable commodity in the world.

No matter whether he is headed for the next corner or across the continent, your motorist sets forth nowadays unconcerned—certain that wherever he may go, whether in blizzard, storm or fair weather, convenient gasoline pumps will flow and roadside service will be at hand all along the way. And that is the real measure of the oil industry's service to the public.

TIGER WOMAN SEEKS PERMIT TO REMARRY

ANAEHEIM, Calif., May 16.—(AP)—Clara Phillips, who killed Alberta Meadows with a hammer in one of California's most sensational criminal episodes, has applied to the board of directors of the California institution for women for permission to divorce Armour Phillips so that she may remarry.

Lotus H. Loudon, chairman of the board, said Mrs. Phillips made her application from Pittsburgh, Pa., where she is now living. He said the board would grant her permission to file for divorce, but that she would have to apply again for authority to remarry.

The name of the man she intends to marry was not learned.

REPUBLICANS CAN WRITE MARTIN IN PRIMARY BALLOT

Republicans desiring the re-election of Gov. Charles H. Martin may write in his name on the Republican ballot in the primary election Friday, it was pointed out today by the Republican Magin - for - Governor committee.

Some fear has arisen that Governor Martin might suffer in the Democratic primary through an organized opposition and the committee has called for Republican support for his re-nomination and re-election.

Republicans who did not change their registration to vote for the governor in the primary because they were reluctant to switch their party designation, may legitimately write in his name on the Republican ballot, the committee emphasized. Such a write-in, it was stressed, may be effective.

Blaine Hallock of Baker is president of the committee and C. E. Buppe of Portland is secretary. A statement issued by the committee said:

"All good citizens of Oregon, regardless of party affiliation, want Gov. Charles H. Martin re-nominated and re-elected as their governor. His party label is not important to us, only his achievements. Insidious interests are attempting to defeat Governor Martin for re-nomination on his own party ticket. This would be a lasting disgrace to the people of Oregon and must not happen."

An evidence of their appreciation of Governor Martin's fine service to the state, thousands of Republican voters throughout the state have signified their intention of writing in his name on their own ballots. In view of the fact that eight candidates will appear on the Republican ballot for governor, such a write-in for Governor Martin can be effective."

AN injury sustained May 9th and complications thereafter, have confined me to my home since that date. As a result, it has been impossible for me to finish out my campaign and personally visit and become acquainted with as many of the voters as I had anticipated.

May I urge those who have not already made up their minds to consider favorably my candidacy for County Commissioner at the Republican Primaries May 20th.

Henry Picard

LOOKS THE SITUATION OVER!

"I've never favored one particular cigarette, Mr. Picard. I can see you do though. Do you find Camels different?"

Picard's game seems effortless. He's a long driver—in a tight spot, a heady strategist. "A cigarette, too, has to be sized up from a lot of angles," he says.

FAMOUS GOLFERS—men who need iron nerves and steady hands for that winning stroke—and millions of other people under the strain of everyday life—all appreciate this fact: Camels suit your cigarette taste from every angle. Naturally, CAMELS SET YOU RIGHT! There's a world of enjoyment in a cigarette like that. Smoke Camels yourself. See why they are so different. And note particularly the greater pleasure and contentment you experience from Camel's costlier tobacco!

"LOADING SHIP" in a 60-hour stretch," says Captain Francis Dolan, "a man can't be fussy about food. I like a few Camels during and after meals 'for digestion's sake.' I sure like the comfort and contentment of Camels at mealtimes."

HELEN STANSBURY, Director of Women's Traffic for United Air Lines, says on the subject of cigarettes: "I choose Camels for their mildness and good rich taste. They're never harsh. When the pace I go fatigues me, a Camel gives me a 'lift.'"

TOBACCO PLANTERS SAY:

"We smoke Camels because we know tobacco"

At auctions, Marvin Holloman, well-known planter, sees Camel buyers pay top prices for the finer grades of his crops. Mr. Holloman says: "At auctions the Camel buyers pay more and take the real choice lots of tobacco. That's why we tobacco planters, who know tobacco quality inside and out, make Camel our cigarette. Then we're sure we're smoking finer, COSTLIER tobaccos, and they sure make a big difference!"

"I'm a tobacco planter," says Mr. T. Strickland, who sold his highest grade tobacco to Camels. "Last year those Camel buyers bought up the finest lots of my tobacco. And they sure bid up to get them. There's a big difference in those expensive Camel tobaccos—so I smoke Camels myself. And there's your reason why most planters I know smoke Camels."

John T. Bone, who cultivates some of North Carolina's choicest leaf tobacco, remarks on the sale of his last crop: "Yes sir! I saw my best lots go for Camel cigarettes, and you can bet those Camel buyers paid top prices for them. It's no wonder I smoke the cigarette made of finer, more expensive tobacco—Camels! Most planters smoke Camels too, for smokers who grow tobacco know tobacco."
