STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY

Comedy Pair

A thousand dollar bill and Joyce Compton got Stuart Erwin into the most laugh-provoking mess that has ever befallen the comedy star. In his latest starring picture, "Small Town Boy," which plays at the Rialto Theater today and tomorrow as the added feature with "Outside of Paradise."

"Outside of Paradise" has Phil Regan, popular singer of Irish songs, and Penny Singleton in the leading roles. Bert Gordon, the Mad Russian, is in support.

Return Home — Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Purrell and family of 1131 Court street and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hooper of 729 South Peach street returned recently from Lakeview where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Purrell's brother, Pat Parks, who passed away suddenly May 11, of a heart attack.

Joan Blondell Has Role In Craterian Comedy Showing

"There's Always a Woman," the new laugh hit opening a four-day run at the Craterian theater today, with Joan Blondell and Melvyn Douglas in the leading roles and Mary Astor, Frances Drake and Jerome Cowan in the supporting cast, has become known as the "surprise comedy of the year."

Given a fast-moving story of a private detective who finds his business going to the dogs, resulting in his turning over the agency to his wife. "There's Always a Woman" turned out to be the sort of film play that actors and actresses find a lot of fun in making. And, just as it is true in other walks of life, when there's fun in doing a job, the job is invariably well done. The players discovered they had a plot that allowed them much room for ad-libbing and general cutting-up. The job became a party. The result, judging from the reviews from other cities, has made "There's Always a Woman" light-hearted, gay entertainment, much on the order of "Thin Man" and "The Awful Truth."
