Unemployed Men Accept City Offer After 27-Hour Demonstration in Lobby of Vancouver Hostelry.

VANCOUVER, May 21.—(CP)—Three hundred single unemployed tonight accepted a city offer of $500 to quit their sit-down demonstration in the lobby of Vancouver's second largest hotel and filed quietly from the building where they had held out for 27 hours.

Approximately 700 other members of the unemployed project workers' union, holding similar demonstrations in the Federal Building post office and Vancouver art gallery, remained sprawled on the lobby floors of those buildings, determined to hold out until a public works project is arranged to give them employment.

Mayor Disapproves.

The offer of $500 to the demonstrators in the Georgia hotel was made after a meeting of city aldermen before the arrival in Vancouver of Mayor George C. Miller from a nearby resort.

Mayor Miller disapproved of the arrangement. He said:

"We didn't show weakness when this thing started. . . . Now we've shown weakness."

The mayor described the arrangement as an effort to "kid" the men for a few days.

The agreement was reached between officers of the U.P.W.U. and five city aldermen. Under its terms $500 would be paid over to the union to be distributed at the rate of 50 cents per man per day until Monday when a permanent solution of the problem will be sought by the social service committee of the city council.

May Renew Siege.

Any money remaining after the hotel sit-downs have been paid would be used to obtain provisions for the demonstrators in the art gallery and post office.

The men made no undertaking that they would not resume their demonstration Monday if no permanent solution was found by the city council committee.

At 5:55 p. m., P.S.T., the men left the places where they had squatted under ported palms in the hotel lobby for a day and a night.

Mayor Miller, who hurried back to Vancouver from a week-end holiday, said of the aldermen's actions:

"I think, myself, that you're only playing with the situation."

NEW CLUE SOUGHT IN DISAPPEARANCE OF JOHN HECKNER

The search for John H. Heckner, 62-year-old Jacksonville resident missing from his home since Tuesday night, settled down today to a watchful waiting policy on the part of state police, sheriff's deputies and friends of the aged prospector. With all surrounding countryside thoroughly scrutinized since his disappearance, searchers were attempting to discover some new clue that might give them an idea as to which direction he took when he left his home Tuesday night after spending several hours at the grave of his wife.

Fear is felt for his life, as he was despondent and grieving and had reportedly talked of suicide following the death of his wife May 10. A revolver he was known to own was not found in a pile of personal belongings discovered on a table in his home, and state police believe he has crawled deep into one of the many old abandoned mine shafts near Jacksonville and ended his life.

The initiatory degree will be conferred by the state officials of La Zouche of Oregon, headed by Bert Haffenden, grand chef de gare.

The entire Oregon Caves chateau and all of the cabins have been reserved for the Oregon and California voyagers and their wives in order to take care of the large attendance which is anticipated. Reservations will be cared for in order of their receipt, York said, and should be forwarded to Neil B. Allen, P. O. Box 378, Grants Pass at once. JUNGLE MAYOR WILL FACE GRAND JURY IN FIGHT INVESTIGATION

Jack Barnes, 62, mayor of the south Medford hobo camp, will be taken before the grand jury Monday and all facts of the "jungle" fight between him and Anton Scuka, 52, will be presented to that body. Deputy District Attorney George Nelson said yesterday.

In the battle which took place late in the afternoon of May 14, Barnes allegedly slashed Scuka's face and nose with an ax and Scuka countered by whacking Barnes over the head with a four-foot length of galvanized iron drainage pipe. Barnes has been confined in Sacred Heart hospital, although not seriously injured, and Scuka has been detained in county jail pending the outcome of Barnes' injuries.

According to the statement allegedly made by Scuka to Deputy District Attorney Nelson, Barnes was the aggressor in the "jungle camp" brawl, welding the ax when Scuka interfered with a fight between Barnes and another camp "resident."

Gerald McGullicuddy, a witness to the clash, has also been held in county jail as a material witness. In his statement to authorities, he bore out Scuka's story almost entirely.
