ARMSTRONG RIPS ROSS TO SHREDS TO WIN DECISION

Experts See Same Fate For Lou Ambers in July Go With Negro - Ross Got Able Evade Left Hooks.

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP) - Promoter Mike Jacobs today signed Henry Armstrong, the double fight champion, to a contract whereby he will have exclusive promotional rights of the sensational negro for three years. The contract is identical with the one Jacobs holds with heavyweight champion Joe Louis.

Under the terms, Armstrong cannot fight anyone anywhere except under Jacobs' promotion.

Armstrong, who wrote ring history last night at the Madison Square Garden, bowed by hitting the welterweight crown from Barney Ross and adding it to the featherweight title he took from Pety Sarron, will rest for a month and then take after Lou Ambers' lightweight championship.

Of the gross receipts of $160,860, Ross received $47,205. Armstrong's share was $27,005.

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP) - If you see a little blond man running today like his coat-tails were on fire and glancing back fearfully over his left shoulder every now and then, the odds are you are looking at Lou Ambers, the lightweight boxing champion, who agreed in a moment of avarice to fight Henry Armstrong this coming July.

Lou no doubt has heard how Armstrong beat Barney Ross into a bleeding, stricken pulp in 15 rounds last night at Madison Square Garden.

Amateurs who qualified were Don Moo, 72-74-147, and Dr. Cliff Baker, 71-76-147.

Twenty-seven players attempted to meet the requirements.

THE consensus of those who sat through the slow, agonizing destruction of Ross, one of the truly great little fighters of the decade, was that Ambers had a similar fate in store as soon as he faced the relentless Los Angeles negro.

Armstrong gave Ross such a terrific beating that Barney, the right side of his face swollen like a half-moon and his eye tightly clenched, muttered in his dressing room that he would never fight again.

It wasn't Ross' 28 years or falling legs that cost him the title. It was a left hook that for 15 rounds almost ripped his head from his shoulders. For the last half of the fight he was intent only on lasting the distance.

Ross' Time In Fifth He tried to fight back in flurries, but his blows after the fifth round had nothing behind them. Armstrong, amazingly strong, merely bore in the harder. At the finish he accepted his new championship completely unmarked and as fresh as paint.

If he whips Ambers, Armstrong will have captured championships in three different weight divisions in less than a year.

Last night the human pinwheel weighed 133 1/2 to Ross' 142. Even so, Armstrong was the stronger man every second of the way. He pulled Ross about in the clinches and never allowed Barney to take the play except for brief flurries. The only thing he lacked was a stiffening punch.

The Associated Press score sheet credited Armstrong with 11 rounds, Ross with four, and one of those went to the Jewish lad because Referee Arthur Donovan thought he had been struck low. After the eighth round it was all Armstrong.

Several times Barney's managers, Art Winch and Sam Platt, begged him to quit, and at the start of the twelfth round the referee added his plea, but Barney shook his head and went out to take his medicine.

Left Hooks Tell The most surprising thing about the fight was Ross' inability to escape Armstrong's left hooks to the head. Those who had established Ross a 7 to 6 favorite in the betting had banked on his defensive skill to thwart Henry's attack. But gradually these lefts wrenched Ross' face out of shape and left him all but helpless.

For the first half, Armstrong mostly pumped his right into Barney's ribs. Slowly Barney's guard came down to protect his side, and then the dark destroyer blazed away at Barney's left jaw.

"I wasn't going to go out lying down," Ross said later. "Armstrong is a hell of a fighter, but I would have got up if he had knocked me down a dozen times."

Far from finding Ross tough, Armstrong told newsmen it was one of his easiest fights. He said Barney's blows never bothered him, even in the opening rounds when the heavier man was landing with everything he had.

There was considerable talk immediately after the scrap that Ross had been handicapped by injured hands, but Barney denied it.
