HORRIBLE THOUGHT ITEM (Washington Post) "The newly organized third party will attract all the fascists, demagogues, bellyachers, political mountebanks, morons, screwballs, malcontents, ne-er-do-wells in the country," declares an editor. If so, it will have a sweeping majority."

A Southern Pacific engineer at Phoenix, Ariz., reports he saw a tramp "with a set of golf clubs, clambering aboard a Tucson bound freight train." This should be a warning to golfers homesteading on the links this summer. The story is open to skepticism. It is as unusual to note a wanderer in the railroad yards, as to find a golfer there.

HIGH SOCIETY MITTERS "In the nervous stress of such a crisis, James Wright, Washington correspondent of the Buffalo News who contributed a dinner jacket to Mr. O'Donnell, put on two right shoes. It was only when Mr. Wright himself was ready to step into his car and career to the White House that he remembered his feet hurt him, invested and rectified the mistake in the final second left to him."—(New York Post).

How About Your Vacation?

WITH summer weather at hand, most people have been thoroughly inoculated with vacation fever which always reaches epidemic proportions about this time of year.

Too frequently these joyous excursions end in tragedy; the triple threat of traffic, swimming and general over-indulgence—physical and dietary—takes its toll.

It is an ironic fact that the list of killed and maimed over the recent three-day Memorial holiday equalled that of some of the bloodiest battles of the Civil war which the holiday commemorated.

The National Safety Council has suggested ten timely, sensible rules for a safe, sane vacation which should be carefully read and REMEMBERED by those who plan a vacation this summer. Here they are:

- 1. Be moderate, whatever you do—exercise, sunburn, or eating. 2. Get plenty of sleep and rest. 3. Check your car before the trip—brakes, steering and tires especially. 4. Plan your trip so that you will have to drive only a reasonable distance each day. 5. Take it easy. Speed increases the danger of accident and the severity of accidents. See that the way is safely clear before attempting to pass other cars. When not passing, keep to the right. 6. Be generous about allowing trains to go first. 7. Driving plus alcoholic drinking spells tragedy. 8. Swim only when accompanied by another person. Wait at least one hour after eating, and cool off before swimming. 9. Make absolutely certain the water has a safe bottom and safe depth before diving. 10. Swim close to shore unless accompanied by a boat. Avoid unnecessary chances.

Often the briefness of a vacation period calls for a program crammed with action that in later years taxes the human system beyond its normal capacity. Most vacation-season tragedy is caused by too much speed; or excessive exertion. Likewise, the beneficial effects of a vacation outing are lost if moderation is not the keynote.

WHILE on the subject of vacations, this newspaper comments to those who are planning an outing, the desirability of a vacation trip NEAR HOME. Nature has bestowed a rich heritage upon those who live in Oregon... a land of great forests, sparkling lakes and rushing rivers.

An Iowa Post Mortem

A SUBSCRIBER asks how we explain the defeat of Governor Martin in this state, and the victory of Senator Gillette in Iowa, both opposed by the Roosevelt administration.

"The Roosevelt administration through Tommy Corcoran, Harry Hopkins and James Roosevelt, vigorously supported Wearin against Gillette, yet the latter won by a large plurality. There was far more justification for the Roosevelt administration working to secure a U. S. Senator, 100% loyal, than a State Governor. Yet the Democrats of Oregon, obeyed their master's voice in Washington and defeated Martin, while the Iowa Democrats refused to do so. Are Iowa Democrats different from Oregon Democrats, or what is the answer?"

Durned if we know! The defeat of Governor Martin by a man like Hess, is still a mystery to this column,—it is one of those upsets that in the botanical field would probably be called a "sport",—an exception to all the rules of man and nature!

But if we HAD to make a guess it would be something like this:

THERE were four elements in the Iowa campaign, which were not present in the campaign in Oregon:

- 1. The Democratic state organization of Iowa was 100% behind Gillette. 2. The American Federation of Labor in Iowa endorsed and supported Gillette. 3. President Roosevelt took no action whatever in the Iowa primary. There was no intimidation from the White House at any time that the President personally opposed Gillette. 4. In Iowa Republicans could vote in the Democratic primary, and vice versa.

We believe these four factors are sufficient to explain the very different results in Iowa, and in Oregon.

IN this column's opinion there is little doubt, that IF,—The Democratic state organization had been 100% behind General Martin—instead of giving him lip service and then knifing him in the back,

If the American Federation of Labor had supported him, instead of joining C.I.O. and aggressively opposing him, If President Roosevelt had said nothing directly or indirectly against Governor Martin instead of authorizing Secretary Early to repudiate the remark credited to him by the Governor, on that Bonneville trip, and if,—

Republicans in Oregon had not been prevented by law from voting in the Democratic primary,— Governor Martin would have won and won easily,—by an overwhelming majority if none of these elements had been in the picture; probably by a safe margin if any ONE of them had been absent.

In fact when a proper perspective is gained, it will probably be generally admitted the wonder was NOT that Governor Martin was defeated, but under the circumstances that he came as near as he did,—within 7000 votes—of victory.

VITAMIN B FOR CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

Having noticed an inquiry from one of your readers in reference to the use of vitamin B for the relief of deafness, I want to report the excellent results I have had, writes a reader. I have had a catarrhal condition for many years, with constant mucous discharge from nose and throat and impairment of hearing. I underwent a good deal of treatment by physicians and specialists. Also I seemed to be one of those unfortunate who have a new misery every few weeks.

Then the doctor suggested trying vitamin B and prescribed a preparation of it to supplement my diet. I had taken this only a week when the nose and ear trouble cleared up so much that I might have used one handkerchief all week if it were not for wrinkling it. For years I had been in the habit of carrying four handkerchiefs with me all the time—three blowers and one shower. Now I do not sell my handkerchief at all. I think I'll take vitamin B till I die.

All my life I have steered clear of people with crabs because as I came within a mile of it, I caught it. Recently all my friends remark about my freedom from the crabs.

One thing about the vitamin B treatment of deafness, catarrhal deafness or other progressive deafness, is the certainty that it can do no harm in any case and the likelihood that it may improve the general health or vito in many cases.

What the optimal or most favorable daily intake of vitamin B would be depends upon the individual circumstances. The more work, exercise, play or activity, the greater the requirement; the more active the metabolism the greater the requirement; but nutrition authorities estimate that 300 Chase and Sherman units of vitamin B for each 100 calories of food is a fair dietary standard.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK.—From time to time this correspondent has detailed the activities of Billy Rose and his ceaseless quest for new ideas in entertainment. We have drawn chiding letters from others by setting this lad up as perhaps the most ingenious and cleverest of the most unpredictable of the Manhattan producers. And there was no dearth of fact to build these stories on.

For Billy not only sat up nights thinking... he got real ideas. Take "Crazy Quill"... No musical ever made the money "the quilt" drew at the box offices in tank towns and in major cities all over the country...

Well, there were imitators, as there naturally would be, for nothing is new and nothing is wholly original... But things can be different, and when somebody asked him what he would do next, he said: "I'll do a musical comedy of circus life", which he did, with animals and clowns, and it was called "Jumbo."

After that one came along I was talking to him and, not knowing what to expect, I inquired, "What next, Billy?" "I'm going to do a musical comedy on water," was the astonishing reply...

Meanwhile, down in Texas, he was handling the midway for the Texas exposition at Fort Worth... They asked Billy back the second year to put on his fiesta.

And about that time all the New York producers were going "Billy Rose"... The night clubs, I mean... They were striving for the unusual, the bizarre... They wanted to startle people... The French Casino was a great hit... Then came the International Casino... There were all sorts of innovations and new twists to after dark entertainment until, finally, everybody wondered where the thing had ended and, in particular, what Billy Rose would do next.

Did he fox 'em! Yes, honey, he did. A trail-blazer in new-fangled ideas, with his Jumbos and fiestas and Casa Mananas, Billy took one look at the streamlined entertainment with a through-a-looking-glass complex, and pulled the next-best trick of his career. He did the very last thing anybody ever thought he would do. He simply dipped back 30 years and put on a straight vaudeville show.

Net result: Box office take, $120,000 in two weeks. All the old three-a-day names when vaudeville was in bloom and the Palace was heaven are trouping on his stage... It is to me, something of a phenomenon having never fancied vaudeville very much myself... At least, I thought I didn't fancy it.

And what next, Mr. Rose?... He probably doesn't know himself... But whatever it is, top dollars will get you five that it's the last thing in the world you expect!

The Capital Parade

Incidentally, one of the now well recognized effects of moderate shortage of vitamin B is weak heart muscle. This accounts for the poor circulation and dilated heart that brings many poorly nourished working men into the hospital wards nowadays.

Plain wheat contains 50 or 60 units of vitamin B in the ounce. Wheat germ meal contains approximately 350 units of vitamin B in the ounce. Wheat bran contains nearly 300 units in the ounce; rolled oats 80 units in the ounce; white flour practically none; rye flour 62 units in the ounce; egg yolk 50 units in the ounce; banana 9 units in the ounce.

Such stories as these, such stories as the ransom of the great Freud should teach a lesson. Wherever prejudice shows itself, it must be stamped out, whether it be anti-Semitism, anti-Catholic or anti-Protestantism. There can be no compromise with intolerance, for once prejudice gains a foothold, the Dillingers will soon prevail.
