

BUREAU IS FORMED TO RULE TRAFFIC OF PERISHABLES

Central Unit to Handle All Matters of Shipping for Major Oregon-Washington Districts, Reter Reveals

Traffic problems relating to perishables in Oregon and Washington are now to be handled through a central bureau in accordance with action adopted at a meeting of representatives from the leading fruit districts of the two states in Seattle Tuesday. It was announced here today by Raymond B. Reter.

Mr. Reter represented this district at the Seattle meeting. He returned to Medford last night. The name of the new organization is the Northwest Perishable Traffic Bureau, and is headed by Ivan L. Plette, secretary-manager of the Yakima Valley Traffic and Credit Association.

Apples, Pears Lead. While all perishables are eligible to come into the bureau, the largest single volume of any product is the 31,000,000 box apple crop from the two states, and second largest is the almost 4,000,000-box fall-and-winter pear crop, shipped in the fresh state, Mr. Reter said.

The bureau will take care of all questions relating to both foreign and domestic trafficking of fruits and vegetables, and an executive committee will set the policy and approve the procedure in all matters concerning rates, except local rates for each district. Mr. Reter explained. While at the present setup, only the four principal fruit-producing districts are represented, Yakima, Wenatchee, Medford and Hood River, the committee will decide on the scope of coordination with any other shipping districts if it is found advisable, he added.

Medford Men to Aid. Financing of the new bureau will be handled through the long-established traffic associations in each of the four districts, which in turn are supported by shippers and growers.

Other members of the executive committee in addition to Chairman Plette are Bert L. Baker, vice-chairman and secretary-manager of the Wenatchee Valley Traffic Association; R. G. Soerace, secretary-treasurer and secretary-manager of the Hood River

Traffic Association; R. G. Benz, Yakima, chairman of the apple rate committee; A. M. Groselove, Seattle, chairman of the pear rate committee; John Duckway, Hood River, chairman of the export rate committee; and W. E. Miller, Yakima, chairman of "other fruit" rate committee. Additional members of the bureau are Mr. Reter, S. M. Tuttle and F. Kramer Deuel, all of Medford.

The Grange

Gold Hill Grange
Next regular meeting of Gold Hill Grange, scheduled for June 16, has been postponed until June 23 owing to the state Grange convention at Klamath Falls.

Grange met June 2 with very good attendance. There are now 44 Pomona members in Gold Hill Grange, 23 having taken the Pomona degree in the last quarter. The member who brings in the most candidate names at next meeting will receive his choice of a crate of berries, given by the master, W. G. Howe.

Lecture program consisted of singing, talks and a game. Refreshments were served by Howes, Gays and Little. Next serving committee includes Hiltons, Norma Pree and Mr. Hearst.

Griffin Creek Grange
A large delegation of Jacksonville Grangers attended Griffin Creek Grange last Tuesday night when Mrs. Nellie Niedermeyer of Jacksonville was guest lecturer, presenting the program for the evening.

Youngsters from the Jacksonville Juvenile Grange were featured on the program. Dorothy Hanser and Virginia Thieroff appeared in a tap dance number and also played a piano duet. Little Miss Hansen is master of the Juvenile Grange.

Joyce and Barbara Niedermeyer played a duet while Charlotte Niedermeyer, the little lecturer, directed a lively game, "Do This and That," with all those present playing. Norma Jean Arnold and Joyce Mae Henspeter concluded the children's part of the program with two vocal duets. A. E. Brockway, speaking of "The Non-High School District," gave his listeners some idea of what it costs the outlying districts to send their children to high school. He also gave a comparison of the costs over a period of years.

Miss Lulu Saulsbury presented two amusing readings.

Mrs. Louise Brockway led the group in the Virginia reel while refreshments were being prepared. Besides the Jacksonville lecturer, other Grange officers present who responded with a few words were Otto Niedermeyer, Jacksonville master; Olive Floyd, Pomona lecturer; and Henry Conger of the state agricultural committee.
