

MARITAL CLINIC HELPS COUPLES IGNORE LAWYERS

BY SAM JACKSON
(AP Feature Writer)

SAN FRANCISCO—There are about 150,000 lawyers in the United States to help you get a divorce, but how many agencies can give you expert help in staying married?

The latest official count is 32. That is the number of the "family relations centers" that have sprung up to get Mr. and Mrs. to talk to a consultant instead of a judge.

The San Francisco center, founded in 1928 and claiming to be the first out-and-out marriage counsel institution, handled 161 cases last year.

"It was the woman who brought in her problems in well over half the cases," said Henry M. Grant, director. "This conforms with sociological research findings, that the wife is quicker to admit both to herself and others that a marriage is not a success."

People have been observed to walk up and down before the building for two hours before getting up courage to bring their emotional troubles to a stranger.

The interview is held across a desk in a pleasant, simply furnished room. "The atmosphere is entirely objective," the director explains. "I show them I don't consider any part of their behavior wrong and encourage them to give me the facts."

The ideal procedure, he believes, is to have two interviews with the wife, two with the husband, and then talk with them together.

And what about Grant finds that sex problems are the chief cause of marital unhappiness, with finances and the question of who's boss also important. For a statistical report on the subject, he refers you to opinions of 100 men and 100 women gathered by G. V. Hamilton, psychologist.

The men complained of temperamental dissatisfaction, physical dissatisfaction, lack of personal freedom, illness, and of troubles over children, money and relatives—in that order.

The women went along with them in complaining of temperamental and physical dissatisfaction and lack of personal freedom as first three on the list. From then on they set down in order finances, lack of affection on their husbands' part, jealousy and "everything wrong."

After study of the returns, the conclusion was that only 51 of the 100 men and 48 of the same number of women had "reasonably satisfactory mates."

The San Francisco institution is an independent agency governed by a board of directors of which prominent physicians form a substantial part.

In addition to the consultations, information is spread by lectures, extension courses, occasional large conventions and by circulating libraries.

JAPAN EXPRESSES BOMBING REGRETS

HONGKONG, June 14.—(AP)—Japan today expressed regret that the lives of American members of the staff of American-owned Lingsan university had been endangered and a Chinese employe of the university had been killed in Japanese air raids on Canton.
This was contained in a note transmitted to Addison E. Southard, United States consul-general here, by the Japanese consul-general, replying to Southard's protest against the raid of June 8, during which three bombs fell on the university campus.
The reply repeated previous requests that American property be identified by flags prominently displayed on the roofs.
Similar notes handed British authorities and the French consul-general here said their complaints against Japanese planes flying over the British and French concessions on Shamen Island, Canton, were being investigated.
These replies said Japanese fliers were being instructed again to avoid such flights.

HOW A WORLD TRAVELER GETS THE NEWS

Zane Grey who has spent most of his time in far away deserts and mountains says:
"Most of my time has been spent far from the haunts of men... naturally I lost touch, failed to keep abreast of the times. Upon my return from the desert or the sea, I would try to remedy the lack by glutting myself with daily news. Then one day The Reader's Digest fell into my hands. Here was condensed the most important and vital thought of the day. Instead of wading through thousands of words, I could open a Reader's Digest on an island off the coast of far-away New Zealand, and find out what was going on in the civilized world."
Our readers will find a world of information in The Reader's Digest, too. It seems as though it is becoming almost a mental necessity to read it. Adv.
