Ashland Chapter Fetes Medford D.A.R. Members

In celebration of Flag Day, Mt. Ashland chapter was hostess to Medford D.A.R. members, Friday, at an unusually interesting joint meeting which closed the activities of the organization for the summer. About 50 women attended. Mrs. J. W. McCoy, Ashland, newly elected regent, presided.

Mrs. Gordon MacCracken, honorary state regent, Mrs. B. J. Harding, past state regent, and Mrs. R. M. Evans, of Washington, D. C., were guests of honor at the delicious picnic luncheon originally planned for Lithia park but, due to the inclement weather, served in the Ashland Civic Club house. The table was decorated with a profusion of lovely flowers and set with gay pottery dishes.

Immediately following the luncheon, Mrs. Evans, a member of Crater Lake chapter and the official delegate to the 47th Continental Congress, D.A.R., held in the national capital city last April, gave a comprehensive report on that meeting. Mrs. Evans particularly emphasized the never ceasing efforts of the society to preserve and maintain our traditional democratic form of government, called attention to the successful D.A.R. program for the inspiration and patriotic education of our youth, and urged the members of both chapters to obtain copies of and to pass on to the many splendid addresses given at the congress by speakers of national and international importance. In grateful acknowledgement of the loyal service rendered by the honorary state regent, Mt. Ashland chapter presented a gift box of beautiful stationery to Mrs. Gordon MacCracken; and Mrs. Louis Dodge, retiring regent of the chapter, received a handsome silver dish. Both made gracious speeches of acceptance.

Mrs. Dodge was further honored when all members adjourned to Lithia Park where a tree was planted and dedicated to her. More rare and costly than any memorial previously planted, this tree is a tiny, delicate exotic imported from China. Mrs. MacCracken explained that it was named "David's" for a French missionary but is also called the "Dove" tree, because the blossoms resemble flying doves and for that reason it is also called the "Peace" tree. One other tree of this species grows in Oregon—on the state house grounds in Salem.

Mrs. H. E. Armstrong, regent of Crater Lake chapter, ably expressed the thanks of the Medford members for one of the most enjoyable occasions of the entire D.A.R. season.

Net and Tulle Materials Used In Summer Fashions

United Press Staff Correspondent. PARIS — (UP) — Short informal dresses of net and tulle, printed or plain, not only have the advantage of being cool and correct but they are among the most flattering of the summer's dress suggestions. Add to these recommendations the fact that most of the nets do not wrinkle; that a change of slip color will transform the dress, and that the light material takes up less room in a trunk or suitcase than any other fabric.

A purplish-blue tulle makes the almost knee-length informal dress in Lucien Lelong's mid-season collection. The sleeves are set in with only slight fullness and extend to just below the elbow—a length being featured in many of the new summer and early fall creations. A charming black coarse silk net dress and jacket is made by Patou for all sorts of informal occasions. The dress skirt is accordion pleated and attached to a bodice whose tiny vertical tucks simulate accordion pleats. A short loose jacket is of matching black net so that the dress belt of embroidered ribbon shows through. To complete the outfit Patou suggests a broad-brimmed black straw hat worn off-the-face and banded with the same embroidered ribbon that is used on the dress.

Mainbocher is one of the biggest exploiters of the short net dress. He makes a youthful afternoon dress of rainbow-striped black fine net. From a very tight waist come a bouffant skirt topped by an exceedingly blousy blouse. A sash-belt is of the same net. Sleeves are elbow length. Another of the refreshing afternoon dresses is of fine black net with an all-over printed design of large white polka-dots. Again featuring the full blouse and skirt, the dress this time has a grosgrain ribbon belt embroidered with dashes of red.

The tulle or net jacket—ideal for informal summer wear—is most often made in black whether it be coarse or fine net, silk or cotton. Mainbocher uses silk net in black for a long jacket (a short coat) which is double breasted and fastens with six black bow buttons. Patch pockets are set low on each side of the front.

Major Andrew Loney

Calif. at the age of 18. The major says that he was not at first interested in the Army's religion, but attended its meetings, because he usually found plenty of opportunity to fight, a diversion dear to his Irish heart, and he appointed himself doorkeeper because as such it was his privilege to throw trouble makers out. Christian Flag To Be Given Church At Service Today Mr. and Mrs. E. Christenson, who celebrated their golden wedding last Wednesday, will present the First Methodist Episcopal church a handsome silk Christian flag this morning as a counter-part to the beautiful silk American flag presented to the church a few years ago by Mr. W. Lyman, deceased. The new flag adds beauty and dignity to the sanctuary, and the pastor and congregation are more than delighted with the splendid gift. This Sunday happens to mark the end of the fifth year of the pastorate of Rev. Joseph Knotts. Rev. J. R. Sannett, who was pastor when the church was built, is the only other pastor the local church has ever had who served the congregation for five years. Rev. Knotts leaves for the annual conference Monday evening. The past year has been good and the reports show all departments have done well.

CHURCH OF NAZARENE TO BE DEDICATED AT TUESDAY NIGHT RITES

Medford Church of the Nazarene will dedicate their new church at Holly and First streets at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday, Doctor R. T. Williams, general superintendent, who will deliver the dedicatory sermon, is rated one of the most dynamic and masterful orators of the denomination, and one of the ranking churchmen in Christendom today.

The church of the Nazarene was organized here April 2, 1922, with a charter membership of 13. Rev. C. M. King was first pastor and served for six years. Under his ministry their old house of worship at the corner of Central and Jackson was erected. Reverend King did a thorough foundational piece of work for the church. He was succeeded by Revs. O. O. and Bertha Crow, who served two years, when the church experienced some gains. Rev. J. T. LaRose next served for four years. Under his administration the church reached a membership of 100. The site for the new church was purchased through him.

For the past four years Rev. Fred M. Weatherford has been pastor, during which time the membership has gone considerably over the 200 mark, and the new $40,000 edifice erected. Building of the new church over a period of three years is looked upon by the congregation as a modern miracle of faith. The balance due on the structure at the time of dedication is between seven and ten thousand dollars. The public is cordially invited to attend the dedicatory service which will be the climax to the heroic efforts of the denomination in the city, to which the citizens of Medford have manifested a contributory and spirited interest.

OREGON VETERAN INDIAN WARS, 100

PORTLAND, June 18.—(AP)—Captain John W. Cullen celebrated his 100th birthday today with entertainment by the sons and daughters of Indian war veterans of the North Pacific coast.

When Cullen was born in a log cabin on Stillwell Prairie, Laporte county, Ind., Martin Van Buren was president and Abraham Lincoln was a struggling bachelor lawyer in Springfield, Ill. Asked how it felt to be 100, the resilient veteran of Indian campaigns reported, "It feels all right—when a man behaves himself he feels just as well at 100 as he does at 50."

Cullen was the youngest member of Captain Goudy's company, raised at Olympia, Wash., in 1855, which distinguished itself in the Indian wars. During the Civil war, Cullen joined the first Oregon volunteer infantry and commanded a small camp midway between Boise, Idaho, and Salt Lake City, Utah.
