

Dude Chick Slated to Tame "Arm-Breaker" Britt in Main Grapple

GIRL ATHLETES TO BE FEATURED ON FANCY CARD

Two Champions, Chick and Clara Mortenson, Will Risk Titles—Sockeye and Christy in Semi-Final

Cowboy Dude Chick vs. Floyd Britt. Clara Mortenson vs. Maria Martinez.

Sockeye Jack McDonald vs. Ted Christy. Tony Morell vs. Cy Fox.

The pair of bonafide title-holders who will risk their reputations in the squared circle are Dude Chick, junior heavyweight top man, and Miss Clara Mortenson, ranking feminine exponent of the maul and mangle industry.

The match, which has all the earmarks of developing into a rough-house affair with nothing but a pair of packed houses, and who goes about her mat work for keeps. Her opponent will be Maria Martinez, a pretty Mexican girl, considered the champion's most dangerous challenger.

Local fans are especially interested in the reappearance of La Mortenson, who showed here three months ago to a pair of packed houses, and who goes about her mat work for keeps. Her opponent will be Maria Martinez, a pretty Mexican girl, considered the champion's most dangerous challenger.

According to reports, Senorita Martinez is, herself, no slouch at feminine mat wiles, and the result may be what many fans hope for—one of those knockout female brawls.

The main go, slated for an hour on the best two falls out of three, will pit the larist spin of Chick versus the arm-breaker over the ropes of Britt, one of the game's most punishing holds—and supposed to be illegal. Britt, a villain, hopes to duplicate McDonald's performance of last week by walloping the champ.

Promoter Mack Lillard said there would be no raise in prices for the all-star program, one of the finest he has ever lined up. Advance reserved ticket sales indicate the third straight capacity house, he stated.

Ericksen fanned 11 and allowed only four hits in the first seven innings, while Acheson pitched one-hit ball in the eighth and ninth and struck out three.

The Junior Craters scored five runs in the second, two in the fourth and one in the eighth. Billy Piche, centerfielder, led the attack with a double and single.

Prospect tallied once in the second, once in the sixth and twice in the seventh. Dewey Hill, Prospect catcher, celebrated his fortieth birthday, which occurred Saturday, by lacing a triple.

Elmer Barnab, tiny Medford second baseman, accepted seven hard fielding chances without an error. Score: R. H. E. Medford 8 6 2 Prospect 4 5 5

DEATH ENDS LONG POLITICAL CAREER

NORTH HAVERHILL, N. H., June 20.—(AP)—The death of Henry W. Keyes, former war governor of New Hampshire and U. S. senator for three terms, today closed the career of one of the state's veteran public servants. He was 76 years old.

He died yesterday at his farm estate here after an illness of five weeks.

The son of wealthy parents, Keyes, a native of Newburg, Vt. (May 23, 1862) selected farming as his life work after graduating from Harvard college in 1887.

He served in the New Hampshire house of representatives and senate and as chairman of the state school commission before being elected governor in 1917. He was elected to the U. S. senate in 1918, where he remained until he retired last year.

Meets Christy

Sockeye Jack McDonald (above) meets Terrible Ted Christy in the armory grappling ring tonight, determined to keep his current Medford record clear of defeat.

GOLD HILL SHUTS OUT TALENT INVADERS, 12-0

GOLD HILL, June 20.—(Sp.)—Paced by the heavy striking of Touhey Kell, their first baseman, Gold Hill lapped Talent 12 to 0 here yesterday. Kell, who poled out a homer, three banger, and two-base hit, driving in six runs, was closely pressed for batting honors by Lester Foley, Gold Hill center fielder, who connected for three hits, driving in four runs. Talent was held to four hits while the Cement Makers were chalking up an even dozen.

BOXMEN WILL INVADE GRANTS PASS TONIGHT

First inter-city softball game of the year will be played tonight, when Wooden Boxmen, one of the best clubs in Medford, travels to Grants Pass to clash with a team composed of the finest players in the Climate City league. The game starts at 7:30, and a number of Medford fans are expected to accompany the local outfit to Grants Pass.

YREKA WINS, 4 TO 3, FROM ASHLAND NINE

Yreka scored runs in the third and ninth innings yesterday at Ashland to win a Southern Oregon league baseball game from the Lithians, 4 to 3.

CRIPPEN TAMES CRATER HITTERS FOR 4 TO 0 WIN

Grants Pass Hurler Effectively Throughout—Victory Shoves Merchants Into Tie for League Lead

Red-headed Steve Crrippen, veteran righthander, pitched brilliant fourth hit baseball yesterday at Grants Pass to give the Merchants a 4 to 0 shutout victory over Medford's Craters, and catapult his club into a first-place deadlock with the locals and Crescent City in the terrific first half Southern Oregon league pennant race.

Crescent City defeated Glendale at Crescent City, 5 to 2, to throw the chase into a three-way tie, with the trio of leaders having five wins and two losses. The first half ends next Sunday, with Crescent City playing at Medford and Grants Pass traveling to Yreka.

The Craters never had a chance as Crrippen, an ex-Cincinnati Red hurler showed his needle-sweep hook and whistling fast one across the corners with deadly effectiveness. He fanned only three, but the Medfords were popping up or hitting in the dirt all afternoon, and managed to advance only one runner as far as third base.

Bill Rathke, Crater righthander, hurled the first six innings and was tagged for 7 safeties and three runs. Southpaw Lowell Brown worked the last two frames and was touched for three blows and one tally.

Medford's only chances to score came in the second and sixth innings when they got their four hits. In the second, Hoffard singled to right, and after McLean filed out, Calvert beat out a hit to second base. Hoffard went to third on Ager's infield out, but Bob Smith grounded out to retire the side. With two gone in the sixth, Rickert and Lewis singled, but Howerton took Hoffard's smash to force Rickert at third. In all other innings, the Craters were throttled completely by the Merchant ace.

Grants Pass got its initial run in the third when Kell, on base on a fielders choice, stole second and scored when Calvert dropped Howerton's vicious smash to center.

The Merchants unleashed a vigorous attack on Rathke in the sixth, five straight hits accounting for two runs. Howerton started it with a double to left, the only extra-base hit of the game, went to third on Drolette's single to right, and tallied on Ostrom's single to right center. Crrippen singled infield, and Blacksmith rifled a single to right counting Drolette.

Get Two at Plate

Here occurred one of the freakiest double plays seen in the circuit in years. After Blacksmith hit his liner scoring Drolette, Ostrom and Crrippen also attempted to reach the plate on the single. Calvert picked up the ball in center field and lined it off to the infield. Bob Smith cut back the throw and relayed it to Chief McLean, and the Indian catcher tagged out Ostrom and Crrippen as they came steaming into the plate about 15 feet apart.

Final Grants Pass marker came in the eighth off Brown, when Howerton singled and scored on Drolette's single, Calvert's throw-in from the outfield hitting Howerton on the leg as he went into third base, and bounding away.

Crans Catches Seen

Both clubs came up with several fielding gems. Medford especially Bob Smith made a great one-handed catch of a foul fly, McLean caught two foul balls up against the grandstand that were beautiful, and Sakraida, in left field, came up with a spectacular putout on a long drive down the foul line.

Billy Hulen says:

Stars Show Max Will Kayo Louis Or Win Decision

Fight prognosticators the country over may be thinking themselves dizzy in an attempt to put the finger on the winner of the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling heavyweight brawl in Yankee stadium next Wednesday night, but the stars and planets, absolutely, un-d-i-r-e-c-t-i-o-n-a-l-l-y, are all figured out.

Astrologically speaking, the German challenger will become the first heavyweight in modern fight history to regain his world championship, he will knock out the Brown Bomber, either the fourth or seventh heat or, failing in that, will positively win the decision in 15 rounds.

Such is the prediction of C. G. Maak, local astrologist, after carefully analyzing the respective horoscopes of Joe and Max. Maak claims to have correctly forecast the outcome of the last 15 heavyweight championship embroglios, including the upset KO Schmeling handed Louis two years ago and the Louis decision over Tonyandy Tommy Farr last summer. Maak was in Eugene at the time of the latter fight and has a copy of the Eugene Daily News in which is printed his before-hand prediction that the battle would go 15 rounds, with Louis winning the decision, which it did, and which Louis did. So, maybe the astrologer has really got something.

Anyway, whether you believe in this star business or not, Maak's prognostication should be as accurate as most of them, and more so than the majority of predictions as released by sports writers, notoriously the world's loudest picksters.

Here is what Maak says regarding the fight, after reading the horoscopes of the fighters and setting up charts for each:

"First, I carefully analyzed each separate chart from the standpoint of native intelligence, as well as physical prowess and the staying quality of each contestant. Next, I set up a chart for the exact time of the fight which, as near as I could learn, was scheduled for 10 o'clock eastern daylight saving time. The last mentioned chart shows that the 18th Scorpio will be on the mid-heaven at the beginning with 23 47 Capricorn on the ascendant.

"Now astrologically, these two points are of the utmost importance, the midheaven, especially, since here the honors are won or lost. The winning depends, astrologically, on who has the best aspects at this point in the horoscope. Each four minutes, a new degree appears on the midheaven, which corresponds in fighting to one complete round.

"Now, watch closely. Towards the last half of the fourth round, Louis will be knocked down, and perhaps it means KO for him right then. If not, he will rally for the next three rounds, and then when the fight is seven rounds old, Schmeling will finish him. Should something happen to prevent this, and nothing is shown in the chart that it will, then Louis will have a new lease on life, for nothing of importance will take place until the sign on the midheaven changes to Sagittarius, and this will place in the 12th round. Louis has two chances to win now, if he has the strength left. Falling to make use of it here in the 14th, Max will take all the initiative from him and win the fight on points.

"The separate charts of these two men are very strong, but as study I have, from the standpoint of physical specimen, much in common, but Schmeling appears to be the stronger in almost every respect and will be fighting under much more favorable conditions, astrologically, than ever before."

So thank you, Mr. Maak, and while we don't take much stock in the ability of stars to forecast the future, we agree with them in this case. We still pick Max Schmeling to belt the colored gentleman into dreamland in 13 rounds, regardless of the 11 to 5 odds on the champion.

John McCarthy, writing in The Communicator today, says that 11,000,000 players of both sexes have taken up softball in America, and that it, rather than baseball, is now the great national game. He also claims that softball professionals pull down big money for their efforts, stating that Matt Ruppert, Chicago pitcher, is known to have made $10,000 last year hurling for various teams.

THREE TIE FOR TITLE IN UTAH OPEN TOURNEY

SALT LAKE CITY, June 20.—(AP)—Al Zimmerman of Portland, defending champion, tied with Charlie Stephens, San Francisco, and The Brans, Port Douglas, Utah, today for the Utah open golf championship.

The Oregon player and his two rivals carded a total score of 282 in the final round yesterday. The play-off will be held today.

Babe and Vander Meer Take Main Attention of Fandom

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer.

The old guy and the young one are rivals for the attention of baseball's followers today.

The old guy, of course, is Babe Ruth, back in harness again as coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers. He took the job Saturday for $15,000 for the rest of the season, appeared on the baselines yesterday and immediately regained his old spot as the main attraction on the ball field.

The young fellow is Cincinnati's remarkable Johnny Vander Meer, who couldn't make it three no-hitters in a row, but came close enough to give the Boston Bees a good scare when he let them down with four errors to win, 14-1.

It was the Babe some 29,000 Brooklyn fans went to see. But they also saw a couple of good ball games as Glenn Praisner's flinging and a stinging spurt that must have made the old Yankee cluster feel right at home, gave the Dodgers a 6-2 opening triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Vander Meer, who pitched two consecutive hitless games, finally was touched in the fourth inning yesterday when Debs Garms singled. He made a new National league record of 31 2-3 consecutive no-hit innings. Just short of Cy Young's major league mark of 23 that has stood since 1904. And he went 32 innings before he was scored upon.

RAILROAD CREWS HAVE DIFFICULTY REMOVING BODIES

lights burned eerily through much of last night.

At Glendale, 80 miles northeast of Miles City, the sheriff's office said a woman's body had been taken from the Yellowstone river into which Custer Creek flows.

Of the 65 or more injured who were taken into Miles City in a hospital train yesterday, 30 remained in a hospital today, two of them critically injured. One unidentified man's back was broken.

Tell Tragic Tales

At the hospital, and at the Miles City morgue where relatives came to claim their dead, stories of tragedy and of heroism were told by the survivors.

Ten-year-old Anne Lada, whose mother was dead and whose father was missing, related how she tried desperately to keep her mother's head above the swirling water.

When the mother, Mrs. Thomas Lada, fainted from shock, the small girl grabbed her hair and held her head above water for several minutes.

Another poster on the train, Lew Williams, was credited by survivors with possibly saving several lives by calmly directing passengers out of his car.

One of the cars teetered on the creek bank several minutes before it slid into the water with the others.

Seven Milwaukee railroad employees who knew Custer creek as a ravine that usually carried no more than "a bucket of water," were riding the Olympian as passengers. They joined regular trainmen in helping out the survivors, and two of them telephoned first news of the tragedy to Miles City.

Mike Cain and Ed Hamm, broken men, crawled over the twisted pile of steel cars, made their way to Saugus, a small station, and telephoned for help.

William Shearer, veteran Milwaukee engineer, said the railroad men were "checking the fat" in the first day coach when the crash occurred.

Never Floated Before

"I thought we were just on the ground at first," Shearer said. "Then I realized we were in water and I said, 'Boys, we're in the old Yellowstone.'"

"It was a few minutes before I found out it was Custer creek. Why, I've put a train over these tracks thousands of times, and I never saw more than a bucket of water in that creek at once," Shearer said.

"Well, we all crawled out of our coach. It was hard to see much. The mail, express, and baggage cars, which were between us and the locomotive, were piled up every which way.

"We crawled along the pile like monkeys, wondering how anyone could be alive.

"Cain and Hamm were the first to get out on the bank. They went to Saugus and telephoned for help. Then Chris McGee—he was the conductor of the train—and I got out.

"We all crawled back over the wreckage again—I know the boys in the engine must be dead. We saw a woman jump out of a window after she smashed. She floated down against the pile of wreckage and I think she must have drowned.

Husband Yelled for Help

"Her husband yelled for us to help her, but it was no use.

"The other men in our group—there were Henry Shipley, fireman; Chauncey Tarbox, conductor; Jerry Clifford, engineer; and John Umhoefer, retired conductor—were all 'deadheading' it to their homes in Miles City.

"They helped the people get out of the cars, but it was bad going," Shearer said.

Shearer said Frank Merrifield, engineer of the train, was "one of the best men that ever handled a locomotive.

The locomotive leaped the bridge gap with such speed that it landed on the west bank of the creek, carrying Engineer Merrifield and Fireman H. E. McCoy with it.

Ellis Lund and Thomas Thoreson of Dawson, Minn., together helped "18 to 20" persons from another car.

"It was like a dream. I hardly know how I got out," Lund said later. He and Thoreson were in the smoking car, one end of which was crushed between two coaches in the creek bed.

"The first I knew it was as if we were going through air," Thoreson related.

"Then there was a terrible bump. I didn't know what happened. The water started pouring in. People in the other part of the car screamed and fought to get out," Thoreson said.

Recovery Hampered

Two wreckers sent to the scene were unable last night to drag out the submerged tourist sleeper because of the depth of the flood water.

Most of the survivors and some of the less seriously injured continued westward yesterday on trains leaving Miles City.

The Holy Rosary hospital at Miles City, to which the injured were taken, is an 85-bed hospital and doctors reported adequate facilities for caring for the victims. Approximately half the 63 brought in on the hospital train were released after emergency treatment.

The wreck was the first on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul lines in 20 years that cost a passenger's death.

H. H. Kester, advertising manager of the Miles City, Mont., Star, said the cloudburst that swept away the steel and concrete bridge was of "unprecedented proportions."

Kester went to the scene by airplane as soon as he heard the first report of the tragedy early yesterday.

"Viewed from the air it was as though some great force had set about to scramble effectively the train and create every possible hazard for its load of humanity, and at the same time select a spot where aid was almost entirely impossible," Kester said.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, June 20.—(AP) Stock market industrials, under the leadership of steels, put on the sharpest rally in nearly six weeks today and gains running to 5 or more points were widely distributed at the close.

Brokers attributed the upswing to no particular news event, but rather to an assortment of optimistic signs that led many observers to conclude the backbone of the lengthy recession may have been broken and a forward push in business and industry likely to get under way much sooner than anticipated.

Transfers approximated 1,150,000 shares, the best day's turnover since early in April.
