COURSE IN FLYING IS OFFERED WITH PLANE PURCHASE

A free pilot's training course for purchasers of Cub airplanes and a special, low-priced course for others were announced today by Thomas A. Culbertson, Jr., head of the Medford Air Service. Both courses are complete, leading to a private pilot's license. Culbertson is local representative of the Piper Aircraft corporation, manufacturer of the Cub planes which he uses in his flying classes. The Cub, he said, is economical to operate and is about as fool-proof as any plane yet made. The training Cubs are equipped with dual controls.

The pilot training course, Culbertson pointed out, is conducted under supervision of the federal bureau of air commerce. When qualified, the student pilot is examined by government inspectors. "This is a real opportunity to learn to fly," Culbertson said. "It is an opportunity for both those who want to fly for pleasure and those who want to enter aviation as a profession. The courses are sanctioned by the National Aeronautic association which, in addition to promoting aviation development in general, is interested in building up a reserve list of pilots for national defense in case of emergencies." There is already a group of private pilots operating out of Medford municipal airport, Culbertson pointed out. Included in the group are Max Peirce, Chet Hubbard, Lee Smith, Ezra Payton, Silas King, W. H. Muirhead, W. H. Fluhrer, Dan Howard, Floyd Hart and Maurice Spatz. Student pilots now in the solo flying stage of their instruction include Al Bliton, Denton Clark, Bob Forbes, Fred LaDue, John Day and Charles Barnes. Student pilots in the dual stage

At last week's meeting it was voted to send the drill and ritualistic teams to the convention.

SECOND QUARTER TAX PAYMENT SEEN LIGHT

THREE CHILDREN SLAIN BY MOTHER

PORTLAND, June 20.—(AP)—Sheriff's deputies found the bodies of a mother and three children, the oldest 3 years, last night in a blood-spattered, gas-filled cabin at an automobile camp. An 8-month-old boy and a 3-year-old girl had bled to death from deep slashes on the throat and wrist. The mother, Mrs. Gladys E. Dahlstrom, 38, and a 2-year-old boy had suffocated from gas from an open jet. Chief Criminal Deputy Holgar Christoffersen said the mother apparently took her own life and those of her children Friday night. Neighbors missed the children and smelled the escaping gas yesterday. The father, Arvid L. Dahlstrom, had been away for several days looking for work. The family arrived from Minnesota, although the name of the town was unknown, about a month ago.

FIRE RAZES MILL AT SPRAGUE RIVER

KLAMATH FALLS, June 20.—(AP)—For the second time in a year fire razed the planing mill and box factory of the Crater Lake Lumber company at Sprague River Saturday night. Presumably set by sparks from the burner the fire was fanned by high winds. Fire fighters fought it four hours before controlling it. The loss was estimated at $100,000, partially covered by insurance. G. C. Lorenz, company officer, said it was doubtful whether the destroyed plants, which also included the warehouse, would be rebuilt this year. The fire put 75 box factory employees out of work and may cause mill and camp curtailments that will displace 200.

SEEK CHAIRMAN FOR ARBITRATION

PORTLAND, June 20.—(AP)—The arbitration board of the Portland Restaurant association and the culinary unions will meet this afternoon and attempt to select a neutral chairman, preliminary to start of arbitration on renewal of contract. Paul Ryan, chairman of the operators' committee, said the unions had made no concession on principal issues, namely wages, hours and the five vs. six-day week for chefs. The arbitration board contains three operators and three unions. The Portland Hotel strike continued without event save for the arrest Sunday of a woman in the culinary workers' picket line at one hotel. She slapped a policeman's face
