

McNAUGHTON SEES COMPLACENCY AS GREATEST DANGER

Portland Banker Urges Business Men to Seek Answers to Problems Confronting Modern World

EGGERS, June 22.—(AP)—E. B. McNaughton, president of the First National Bank of Portland, who described himself as "a conservative on the move," made a talk to the Rotary club of Eugene today in which he urged business men and others, here and everywhere, to "stretch the brain cells" to find the answers for the human engineering problems which confront the modern world.

McNaughton assailed "complacency in error" as the gravest danger of the times. Though expressing little faith in the temporary relative prosperity which may come next fall or winter as the result of pump priming and other nostrums, he declared his impatience with those who have no better plan of action than to moan and blame the Roosevelt administration for all the woes of the times.

Different Republican. "I am a Republican, but I believe I am a different Republican than I was a year ago," said Mr. McNaughton, "describing some of his experiences on the five-week trip about the United States during which he and Mrs. McNaughton "avoided banks and first class hotels and made an effort to find out what the people are really thinking."

"It is not necessary to agree with all that has been attempted to understand the pressures to which those in office have been subjected," said Mr. McNaughton, "and I doubt if a Republican administration would have avoided all mistakes."

Mr. McNaughton described himself as "worried but optimistic" as to the future of the United States and Oregon. Oregon, where 86 per cent of industry centers in agriculture and forestry products cannot hope to be very happy if those two basic industries are afflicted as they are at present, he said.

Should See Benefits. He deplored the penalties which have come upon the northwest lumber industry as a result of reciprocal tariff making, yet he declared that the northwest should acknowledge the probably long range benefits which will accrue from the efforts to lift international trade above the level of "taking in the other's washing."

"The industry centers are mainly in the great eastern centers, he pointed out, and the cure for these, in his opinion, will depend upon the application of human relationships of the intelligence which has brought about scientific and engineering advances.

"It is in my bank and am visited daily by young people trying to find some place for their talents. Some I can help. For most, no present opportunity is possible and I often go home at night discouraged with the thought that unless some answer is found for these people they will be the Bridges and the Pritchetts of the future."

Must Acknowledge Errors. "Industry must acknowledge the mistakes of the past. You can read the reports of the senate inquiry into the marine industry and find the explanation of the attitudes of a Harry Bridges. If you recall the attitude of the present of the Reading railroad of long ago who declared that the great coal industry had been given by God into the hands of the rich, you can explain the bitter attitude of a John L. Lewis."

Nevertheless, Mr. McNaughton commended heartily the refusal of John L. Lewis to permit his brother to serve on the commission which President Roosevelt has endeavored to form to study advanced labor practices in England. Ways must be found, he declared, to break through unionism on both sides and find the formula for fair dealing between capital and labor.

"The Wagner act must be amended," said Mr. McNaughton, "but I believe we must accept it as basic and here to stay and adjust ourselves to working under it." He declared the demands to repeal it and those to leave it unchanged equally impossible.

Tells What's New

Miss Edith Nichols, (above) has arrived from New York to tell fashion alert women of our city what is new in slips, gowns and pajamas. Miss Nichols has many friends here having visited on previous occasions, and her fashion information is always welcome news.

Miss Nichols says that zippers on panties and petticoats are being featured by Barbizon. Other innovations are satin gowns, styled like evening dresses and pretty enough to wear to a ball, pajamas that are designed for double duty, for sleeping and for lounging at home on lazy summer days.

Miss Nichols will be at Mann's Thursday, June 23.

McLeod pointed out that an independent dealer is directly responsible to the motoring public for success of his business and that he must accept the dictates and desires of the buying public as a guiding factor toward this end. He discussed at length the dealer benefits derived from newspaper advertising and particularly the far-reaching effects of the Gilmore-Yosemite Economy run.

"There are more than twice as many automobiles as telephones in the United States," McLeod said, "and the independent service station dealer has by far the greatest potential business available of any line of endeavor."

Scientific demonstrations, showing just how the record-breaking efficiency of an automobile is reduced by weak battery, improper cables, faulty wiring, or a clogged cooling system, were conducted by the merchandising manager.

A luncheon concluded the last of McLeod's meetings scheduled for the present tour of the northwest.

TWO BRITISH SHIPS SUNK BY REBELS IN VALENCIA HARBOR

Lone Sky Raider Torpedoes More Vessels in Drive to Hamper Government — All Crew Members Saved

VALENCIA, Spain, June 22.—(AP) Two British ships were sunk just outside Valencia harbor today by a lone sky raider in a continuation of the long series of warplane attacks on foreign shipping in ports of government Spain.

The 3,054-ton Sunion, British ship formerly of Greek registry, struck by incendiary and explosive bombs, burned furiously for six hours and then settled to the bottom.

Previously the 4,789-ton freighter Thorpes, shattered by an aerial torpedo, had gone down with 7,000 tons of grain.

All the Sunion's crew of 92, including a German observer for the nonintervention committee, were taken off safely.

Flames from the Sunion's burning cargo lit the whole roads. After torpedoing the Thorpes, the plane returned and machine-gunned her.

54 Attacks. Today's attacks brought to 54 the total of airplane attacks on British ships since the Spanish war started nearly half in the last three months.

The Thorpes was pierced amidships and sank within five minutes in sixty feet of water.

Chief Officer Norman Coater of Southampton, a son-in-law of Alexander Baillie, Seattle, managed to get away in one boat with 25 members of the crew. The captain, William Kennedy, and eight others, jumped into the sea.

Captain Kermode swam a mile in his lifebelt to the Sunion which put out a boat to help rescue some of the Thorpes' crew.

The Thorpes' nonintervention observer, Jean De Meruay of Paris, said the raider barely cleared the British vessel's masts before loosing the torpedo which crashed into the engine room and tore a huge hole in the side of the ship.

Ship Bombed Before. It was the second attack on the Thorpes during the Spanish civil war. She was bombed January 20 in Tarragona harbor and four members of her crew killed.

The attack by the lone raider was similar to others in the recent series of attacks on British ships.

The captain declared it was a deliberate and premeditated attack to sink a British ship anchored at sea.

He was unable to identify the plane.

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier) June 22.—(AP)—Insurgent forces indicated today Generalissimo Franco was preparing a fresh offensive against Barcelona in the belief a successful drive through Catalonia now would clinch the Spanish civil war.

Running into impenetrable government defenses in the Villarreal sector and forced to retire from the municipal cemetery there, insurgents slackened their drive on Valencia.

In the event judgment had been awarded in a damage action.

The petitions are sponsored by the Anti-Liquor League of Oregon.

PLEA IS MADE FOR COUNTY MUSEUM AT COUNCIL MEET

Lot Sale Sanctioned
Council approved sale of a lot on Richmond avenue near Oakwood drive to Richard Phair.

An ordinance was adopted authorizing execution of a contract with Warren Northwest, Inc., for the repair of paved streets. The contract had been approved previously.

Tom Roseberry read a report prepared by City Superintendent Fred W. Scheffel, which showed that since the previous council meeting 12 additional property owners had had sidewalks repaired in accordance with an ordinance adopted last February. The report also stated that a new sidewalk survey had been completed and that notices were being sent to 194 property owners asking them to have their walks repaired.

Flood Control Progresses
Upon inquiry from Mayor Furnas, Mr. Scheffel said that the preliminary groundwork on the Stewart avenue flood control project was progressing satisfactorily. The mayor said he would like to see the project completed before another winter sets in.

Larry Schade read a letter from the Oregon Fire Chief's association urging the city to authorize the attendance of Medford's fire chief at the annual state convention and school in Pendleton September 12-14. The mayor and councilmen were invited to the convention. The matter was referred to the public safety committee.

In pleading for aid for a museum, Mr. McClure stated that valuable museum pieces are being drained from Oregon and if this trend continues there soon will not be anything left for a museum here. He said travelers had informed him there are more Oregon exhibits in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco museums than in Oregon.

Mr. McClure told the council that a county survey revealed valuable museum articles stored in private attics, cellars, barns and garages and asserted that if these are not collected soon in a central museum they are liable to be lost to posterity. Mayor Furnas said the council would help if it could find a way to do so.

Councilman H. A. Deuel was absent.

State police arrested Larson last night on the Pacific highway north of Medford on Blackwell hill. Arresting officer said Larson was driving on the wrong side of the highway.

"Guess Who" Contest Starts Thursday for Mail Tribune Readers

first "cut" represents John Doe, write down on a slip of paper: No. 1, John Doe. Do this each day until you have guessed the names for all of the 25 "cuts."

On the final day of the contest the Mail Tribune will publish a blank with the 25 numbers listed. After each number write in the name of the person you have chosen, being especially careful to record the name in accordance with the corresponding number. When you have filled out the blank, sign your name and address plainly.

The Mail Tribune staff will check the blanks and select the winners. The person guessing the largest number of correct names will receive $8. Second prize will be $5 and third prize $2. In case of ties lots will be drawn for the prize money.

Everyone is eligible to enter the contest excepting Mail Tribune employees and members of their families. Some of the "cuts" to be published are several years old and the person they picture have changed somewhat in appearance. Some are pictures of Medford students who have since grown up. Some are childhood pictures of present grown-ups. All the pictures are of persons still living in Medford.

This all sounds easy but it is not so easy as it sounds. The first picture to be published, for example, is of a man whom practically everyone in Medford knows at least by sight. The picture, however, was taken some years ago and if you can identify the subject you will be off to a flying start.

Ambers Gets Dull Win From Vaughn
LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP)—Easy victor in his final bout here last night, lightweight titleholder Lou Ambers was ready to return to New York today to prepare for his championship engagement July 26 with Henry Armstrong.

Ambers whacked out an unimpressive decision over Jimmy Vaughn of Cleveland last night. He carried nine rounds but was never able to put Vaughn on the floor.

Armstrong, the Los Angeles Negro who holds the featherweight and welterweight titles, witnessed the bout. It was a non-title match, Ambers coming in at 137, Vaughn at 136 1/2.
