At a beautiful outdoor ceremony last Sunday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Niedermeyer, Miss Emma Louise Niedermeyer was united in marriage to Mr. Ray Maust, of Portland, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Maust of Central Point.

The rites were solemnized at 4 o'clock under the large trees bordering the lawn and before a background of flower bedecked evergreens. The service was read by the Rev. W. H. Eaton, former pastor of the local Baptist church. The bridal procession started from the front door of the residence and, to the strains of Lohengrin wedding march played by Mrs. Mabel Sims, continued up the aisle formed by the guests seated on the lawn, to the tower of flowers where the couple spoke their vows.

The bride was lovely in a white silk dress with silk lace insertions. She wore a finger-tip veil flowing from a white halo crown and carried a shower bouquet of tallman roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride's cousin, Miss Leona Conger, was her bridesmaid. She wore a dress of tea-rose tulle and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Mr. Lewis Conger, also a cousin of the bride, acted as best man for Mr. Maust.

LITTLE GIRL INJURED WHEN HIT BY TRUCK ON NO. CENTRAL AVE.

Betty Lou Parker, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parker, 1025 Court street, was reported resting comfortably at her home this afternoon, after suffering bruises about the body and a head injury when struck this morning by a truck driven by George R. McClung of 627 North Central avenue.

The little girl apparently escaped a skull fracture, according to the attending physician, and sustained no broken bones.

McClung, employed by Snider's Dairy and Produce company, was arrested by city police on a charge of reckless driving and cited to appear in city court Wednesday at 10 a. m.

The accident happened on North Central avenue in front of the Pierce Auto Freight Lines company office. McClung was quoted by city police as saying that he was driving north on North Central avenue at about 25 miles an hour when he saw three children, about 75 feet ahead of him, start across the street, from the east to the west side. Two of the children stopped and started back. McClung told police, and he braked his truck and swung to the left side of the street to avoid hitting them. Betty Lou, however, continued across the street, police explained.

The Parker girl was struck by the right front fender of the truck and carried for some distance, after which she fell off and landed against the curb on the west side of the street, city police said their investigation disclosed. One wheel of the truck jumped the curb, the police said, and the vehicle crashed head-on into a elm tree near the street. The entire front end of the truck was caved in, police said, with the radiator wrapped completely around the tree.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dierks and their two and one-half year old son, Paul, are making their home at 206 West Jackson boulevard. Ben Dierks is also living there.
