Sparkling Cast In Sunday Show

Light, gay, breezy comedy-romance comes to the Craterian theater Sunday with the opening of the three-day showing of "Three Blind Mice," featuring among others, Loreta Young, Joel McCrea and David Niven. Stuart Erwin, Marjorie Weaver, Pauline Moore, Binnie Barnes, Jane Darwell and Spencer Charters are also in principal roles. It tells the story of three sisters who leave their small Kansas farm in quest of romance, love and rich husbands. The surprising adventures

"Blockade" Opens Craterian Screen; Henry Fonda Stars

"Blockade," the motion picture that has created more discussion than possibly any other film play in recent years, opens a four-day run today at the Craterian theater with a cast of thousands headed by Henry Fonda, Madeleine Carroll, Leo Carrillo and John Halliday. Depicting as it does, the duplicities of so-called patriots who are active in fomenting war and class hatred, "Blockade" had much pressure brought to bear to keep it from being released for general showing. Powerful interests, both here and abroad, registered protests against its showing, with reports circulating appeals to the Czar of the film industry, Will Hays, for strong censorship. A non-partisan treatment of a dramatic subject against the background of the Spanish Civil War, "Blockade" is replete with thrilling action and high adventure as its characters live, love, find joy and sorrow in the midst of war's chaos. The boundaries between Manchoukuo and Russia and Korea and Russia averaged almost one "border incident" a day in 1937.

WILLIAM L. MILLER, LONG A RESIDENT, CALLED BY DEATH

William Leonard Miller, well-known resident of Medford, where he had lived for the past 33 years, passed away at the family home, 21 Vancouver avenue, Wednesday at 1 a. m., after three weeks' illness from a heart affliction.

"Bill," as he was commonly known to his many friends, was born in Lyons, Clinton county, Iowa, November 23, 1879. He spent his early life in Iowa, and was united in marriage to Miss Ava Leedham at Clinton, Iowa, September 24, 1902. They lived in Clinton for a year, going to California in 1903 where they resided before coming to southern Oregon in 1904.

Mr. Miller was a fine builder and contractor, having built many of Medford's finest residences and buildings. He leaves a host of friends to mourn his departure. His wife passed away in 1921. Later he remarried.

JUVENILE IS HELD IN CENTRAL PT. BURGLARY

After allegedly burglarizing the E. P. Stone drug store in Central Point Monday night, obtaining about $5 from the cash register, and stealing the bicycle of Mr. Stone's son, Neil, a 15-year-old local youth started out for Marshfield and progressed as far as Canyonville before being overtaken by state police and returned to the juvenile detention ward in the county jail. The boy will appear in juvenile court either tomorrow or Friday, state police said.

Mr. Stone said that the boy, an acquaintance of Neil, came to their home Sunday, and that he slept and ate there until Monday night. He obtained a key to the drug store from the Stone home, Mr. Stone said.

MEDFORD PEOPLE HAVE CLOSE CALL ON COAST CRUISE

Mrs. Susan D. Nason and her daughter, Margaret, of the Old Stage Road, are now on an adventurous cruise which will take them within 850 miles of the north pole and which will probably provide a number of thrills. It is doubtful, however, if the polar cruise will provide anything so dangerously thrilling as an experience they had close to home on the first leg of their long, leisurely journey.

Mrs. Nason and her daughter sailed from San Francisco on May 22 and the second day out their ship collided with a Japanese steamer loaded with ammunition for the invading Japanese armies in China. Mrs. Nason recounted in a letter written in Montreal, Canada, July 6, "We were fortunate to escape without serious consequences." Mrs. Nason wrote to a friend here.

The American ship had to be laid up for repairs and an official inquiry at San Pedro, Mrs. Nason wrote. In time, however, the ship was resumed to New York via the Panama Canal. Going through the canal, Mrs. Nason and Miss Nason were privileged to stand on the ship's bridge from which they procured a good view of the canal, its locks and surrounding country. Mrs. Nason said she was greatly impressed with the languorous tropic beauty of Panama.

New York was found to be too hot for comfort and so after a fortnight's visit the travelers continued to Montreal, a city Mrs. Nason described as exceedingly beautiful.

The Medford travelers were to leave Montreal on their cruise toward the north pole last Saturday. They were to be the only women on the ship, the captain making a concession to accommodate them as only a few male passengers had ever before been booked for the voyage. The ship goes north once a year to convey supplies and equipment to fur trappers in the distant and remote northlands.

ILLEGAL TO PARK DOG IN CLOSED AUTOMOBILE

It is unlawful in every state of the union to leave a dog in a parked car with the windows closed during the summer months, the public was reminded today by the Southern Oregon Humane society. "It is an act of cruelty to leave a dog in a closed parked car in summer, all the worse if the car is standing in the sun," the society said. "Every man and woman motorist knows what it is to sit in a stationary car five minutes in the broiling sun, yet many will leave a dog for an hour or more, with the suffering growing in severity by the minute. We plead with every dog-owner to treat the pet humanely."
