RATTLESNAKES ARE THICK NOW
During the past week two people, of whom we have knowledge, have been bitten by rattlesnakes. This is not a common occurrence here and we do not like to be calamity howlers, but every person who fishes, picnics or hunts in our hills should carry a first aid kit for rattlesnake bite.
They are inexpensive. The best one we know of costs only $1.50 and it may save someone a lot of suffering and possibly the loss of life.
If you see a rattlesnake, call a physician. Don't try to attack medicine.

HEATH'S DRUG STORE

At Full Gospel Church

Featuring a variety of musical instrumentation the "C.B.I. Ambassador Quintette" of Springfield, Mo., will be at the Full Gospel church, Newton street near West Main, tonight at 8:00 o'clock. They will present a service composed of spiritual music, testimonies and a gospel message. Among the various musical combinations will be a trombone trio, brass trio, vocal trio, brass quartet, accordion, saw, violin and piano. There will be instrumental and vocal solos as well as the group numbers.
The quintette, on a four-month tour in the north, western and southern states, Canada and Mexico, will return to Springfield where four of the party will conclude their course at Central Bible Institute. Purpose of the tour is "to bring encouragement to young people who are following Christ also to present the benefit from living an experimental Christian life in contrast to only a professing life."
A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the special musical treat. A free will offering will be received during the service.

lands vicinity of the Pacific the president will proceed through the Panama canal and back toward Pensacola, Fla., where he will disembark August 9.
Mr. Roosevelt appeared tanned and healthy after his cross-country tour, which started July 7.
The trip gave the president an opportunity to hint his wishes in some primary races and to tell the people about New Deal legislation.
Before his Los Angeles talk commanding Senator McAdoo, Mr. Roosevelt's closest-cut endorsement of primary candidates were given in Kentucky and Oklahoma, where he had a good word to say for Sen. Alben W. Barkley, the majority leader, and Senator Elmer Thomas, an administration supporter.
Numerous times Mr. Roosevelt indicated cordially toward candidates by words and gestures. He used often the term "my old friend" in referring to administration supporters seeking reelection.
The president's trip continued the theme of his recent Washington radio chat in which he asserted the right to step into primaries in behalf of "liberal" candidates.
Despite its predominantly political character, the journey also gave the chief executive time for visiting an sights. He spent a week-end with his son, Elliott, in Fort Worth, Tex., reviewed the fleet in San Francisco and toured yesterday through Yosemite park.
The president's secretaries said today he would make a goodwill visit to Canada, leaving either Washington or Hyde Park on August 18 to meet Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada, for a "hand-across-the-sea" celebration in connection with the dedication of the Port Huron, Mich., international bridge.

BRITISH PONDER 100 NEW TOWNS
LONDON.—(UP)—A plan to move approximately 3,000,000 people from large British cities to new self-contained towns is being considered by a royal commission.
The towns would be the center of six square miles of land on which factories would be erected, enough to produce to feed the inhabitants. Each town would house about 50,000 people in two-story houses with individual gardens and sun-rooms.
Sites for the towns already have been chosen. Seventy-six are in England, 12 in Scotland and 9 in Wales.
It is planned to relieve London of 2,000,000 inhabitants, 1,500,000 from other large cities, and 1,500,000 from ribbon development estates.
The plan has been drawn up by the Hundred New Towns association, and is being backed by Lord Escher, Admiral Sir William Goodenough, Sir Edwin Lutyens, famous architect, and others. The plan would cost $10,000,000, half of which would be used over a period of 10 years.
"Existing industrial expansion is now proceeding without any kind of national plan; workers are living in inconvenient places and the country is being disfigured," an official of the association said.
"Our plan will save this by collecting scattered people into compact areas."

Rev. Clemmer To Speak Today At Christian Church
The Rev. William B. Clemmer of St. Louis, Missouri, will fill the pulpit of the First Christian church at Ninth and Oakdale at 11 o'clock today. Mr. Clemmer is circulation manager for the "Christian Evangelist," national weekly of Disciples of Christ.
According to Rev. James M. Hamilton, pastor of the local church, the guest speaker is an interesting proclaimer of the gospel who has traveled widely. His present visit to Oregon, as the representative of the Christian Board of Publication to the state convention of Christian churches, marks his eighteenth year to be in attendance at the Oregon convention.
Mrs. Clemmer is accompanying her husband to Medford, and they plan a visit to Crater Lake national park on Monday.

Dr. Bray To Speak At Park Services
Dr. J. P. Bray, pastor of the Main Street Methodist church, will preach tonight at the 5:30 o'clock union church services in the city park. Dr. Bray's topic for the meeting, the third in the week series, will be "Conservation in Spiritual Resources."

OREGON'S FOREST FIRE SITUATION CONTINUES ACUTE

a survey flight over most of the forest areas in this district late yesterday afternoon and reported that practically all of the fires set by lightning in our successive days of storms were out. Those still burning were under control, they stated.
Lightning yesterday afternoon set two new fires in the Union Creek area and one in the north end of the Butte Falls district. The latter was put out by rain, forest headquarters announced. These brought the total in the Rogue River national forest to about 80 fires for the four-day storm period.
One new lightning fire was reported at Round Top in the Egan's creek area of the state forest last night. Eighty men were still on the state fires yesterday afternoon, the district fire warden's office here said.
Warden Hunt
William Moore of Rogue River, fire warden in a cliff fall at a fire near Kerry post Thursday, suffered severe bruises in the pelvic region, the attending physician said yesterday. Moore was brought to Sacred Heart hospital here. While the injuries were described as not serious, Moore will be incapacitated for two weeks or longer, the doctor stated.
Dozens of small fires were set in Crater Lake national park in the past few days, it was reported by Charles E. Chrysler, chief clerk who came to Medford yesterday.
Contrary to a rumor here yesterday, the recreational areas of the Rogue River national forest will be open as usual today to campers and picnickers, executives said. All of the lightning fires have been small and no restrictions have been placed on public use of the forests, they asserted. Recreationists, however, were counseled to use extreme caution to prevent fires as hazards have increased in the past few days.
The Associated Press reported 130 lightning fires in the forests of Siskiyou county, Ore. Portions of food were dropped by parachute from a government plane yesterday to firefighters on Red Cap, Siskiyou county.

Money Trust Committee May Consider Pujio Findings
Review of 1912 Money Disclosures By Monopoly Investigating Committee Is Hinted As Part Of Probe.
By Frank McNaughton
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, July 15.—(UP)—Disclosures of economic power concentration, made a quarter of a century ago by a congressional investigating committee, may be re-examined by a new committee studying modern trusts.
The earlier investigation was conducted by the famous Pujio committee of the house, headed by Rep. Arseno P. Pujio, (D.-La.). In the house, Rep. Robert L. Doughton, (D. N. C.), alone remains of the committee. Sen. James P. Byrne, (D. S. C.), is the only one in the senate who served on the investigating group.
They found, after hearing hundreds of witnesses questioned by Samuel Untermyer, famous lawyer, that a money trust clearly existed in 1912, and warned against its practices. Rep. Henry McCran, (R. Mich.), alone submitted a minority report contending that no concentration of wealth into a trust had been disclosed.
Banking Houses Named
The money trust committee named six famous banking houses as the primary agents of concentration of wealth and power. They were J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National City Bank of New York, National City Bank of New York, Lee Higginson & Co., of Boston and New York, Kidder, Peabody & Co., of Boston and New York, and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., investment bankers, who worked Morgan firm as the "inner group."
The elder Morgan's contention that deposits would be drawn from his banks if they abused their powers was rejected by the committee.
"At best it would require open, reckless and long-continued abuse to cripple power thus entrenched," the committee said. "It could withstand many missteps even if they became known, which is quite unlikely. If in the end the power should be destroyed, what is likely to happen to the credit and prosperity of the country while the edifice is crumbling."
"This power standing between the trusts and the economic forces is the factor most to be dreaded and guarded against by the advocates of reserved competition," it warned.
Competition Held Throttled
"The men who established our great industries have added to the prosperity of the country during the period of the upbuilding of these industries; but they none-the-less violated the law when they reversed the processes under which the country had grown and prospered by combining to throttle the competition upon which they thrived."
"While they were struggling against one another for supremacy they were a valuable asset to the country; since they have pursued the opposite policy they have become a menace."
This finding opposes new economic theories which regard unbridled competition as a menace to prosperity, and brought passage of the WPA, the bituminous coal commission act, the Walsh-Healey act and other measures.
Money Control Charged
The committee said it was satisfied that "there is an established and well-defined identity and community of interest between a few leaders of finance, created and held together through stock ownership, interlocking directorate, partnership and other forms of domination over banks, trust companies, railroads, and public service and industrial corporations, which has resulted in great and rapidly growing concentration of the control of money and credit in the hands of these few men."

The Pujio committee said that United States Steel—tentatively scheduled to be the first company brought before the new deal monopoly inquiry—was formed through work of Morgan & Co. and was "directed and absolutely dominated by Morgan & Co."
It turned in a four-volume picture of the money trust alone, accelerating the legislative processes of the Woodrow Wilson era of "the new freedom," progenitor of the new deal. The Pujio committee confined itself to the money angle alone. It traced banker control of scores of railroads, steel companies, and a vast range of other companies.
