REAMES AT HOME, GLAD TO DEPART CAPITAL STRAIN

Senator in Good Health—Made Leisurely Return to Recuperate From Pneumonia Attack in East

United States Senator A. Evan Reames was back home today after several arduous months at Washington, D. C. Accompanied by Mrs. Reames, he arrived by train yesterday morning from Portland where he attended a state Democratic committee meeting Saturday.

Senator Reames appeared to be in unusually good health, today and showed no signs of the pneumonia with which he was stricken while in Washington. To recuperate from his illness, the senator made a leisurely trip home, stopping for a few days at various places en route, including Banff, Alberta, Canada, and Sunrise Beach on Puget Sound.

Special committee studies in two states loom for Senator Reames during the summer months. The life of a national legislator is an arduous one, the senators and congressmen being under a severe physical strain all while the two houses are in session. Senator Reames said. Committee work particularly is exceedingly strenuous, he said.

While most of the major committee work had been completed when he was appointed by Gov. Charles H. Martin to fill the unexpired term of Senator Frederick Steiwer, principal legislation came before the senate after Senator Reames' appointment. Through intensive study he became familiar with the pending legislation, sometimes being required to absorb lengthy majority and minority committee reports within a day.

Senator Reames said he was delighted to be back home again. He left here about six months ago. His tenure expires with the general election in November.

Medford Callers—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bierma of Portland arrived in Medford unexpectedly early Sunday morning to spend the day visiting with Mr. Bierma's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bierma at their home at 38 Myrtle street. The visiting couple started out Saturday evening in Portland for a drive across the city and their Medford trip was the result. They will come here the last of this month for a week's vacation.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP)—Stocks overrode bill selling handicaps in today's market and selected issues, led by steel and motor, climbed fractions to around 3 points, with a few up 5 or 20.

The list loafed at moderately higher levels during the morning. After noon, activity began to broaden on the advance and, in the final hour, the ticker tape fell behind several minutes as buyers bid up favorites. Transfers were in the neighborhood of 1,500,000 shares. In the forward swing numerous new highs for the past year or longer were registered.

Piel for the speculative engine was found in the official estimate for the current week's steel mill operations up 4 1/2 points from last week at 38.4 percent of capacity, the highest mark since November 16.

News generally was on the side of recovery contingents and many traders who had been hanging back waiting for more definite clues as to the next market move, climbed aboard when the list refused to give much ground as offerings appeared.

Today's closing prices for 32 selected stocks follow: Al. Chem. & Dye 178, Am. Can 100, Am. & Pan. 100, A. T. & T. 102, Anaconda 36, Atch. T. & S. F. 38 1/2, Bendix Avia 18 1/2, Beth. Mice—the lovely Loretta's newest romancing portrayal of a modern American girl—makes an inauspicious beginning on a Kansas chicken ranch. There are three sisters, Marjorie Weaver and Pauline Moore competing the trio. When a departed relative leaves a bequest to the three girls, they set forth on a gay adventure in search of millionaire husbands.

"You can fall in love with a millionaire just as easily as with a plumber," opines Loretta and establishes her coterie at a fashionable hotel. They've drawn lots and Loretta becomes the "lucky," Marjorie her maid, and Pauline the secretary.

In a kaleidoscopic array of dancing parties, beach scenes, fiestas and such barbaresco-Loretta meets Joel McCrea. Marjorie finds a romance with Stuart Erwin and Pauline meets her man in the person of David Niven—but not before there has been some exciting mixups in which Niven provides a third of a diverting triangle with Loretta and Joel.

Basil Barnes makes a radical departure from his usual screen vamp role. In "Three Blind Mice" she is a giddy, hair-brained playgirl and so well does she play the part that she practically steals the honors. Seeing her in a comedy part is almost as much a surprise as seeing her really "going to town" with her neat portrayal.

"Men of Medicine: 1938" is a complete, comprehensive survey of a doctor's life, his work and his hopes. Aply portrayed, forcibly presented, it deserves the attention of every man, woman and child. One of the outstanding issues of the March of Time has ever produced. "Men of Medicine" reveals some interesting information that the layman seldom hears.

Funeral services for John Allen Hemstreet will be held in the Perl chapel at 2 p. m. Tuesday, the Rev. James Hamilton, pastor of the First Christian church, officiating. Interment will take place in the Medford I.O.O.F. cemetery.

Mr. Hemstreet died suddenly Saturday evening in his home at 511 Pennsylvania avenue. He had shoped with his wife in downtown Medford in the morning and his sudden passing came as a great shock. Known popularly as Jack, Mr. Hemstreet was a familiar figure on the city streets. His friends were numbered by the score.

Mr. Hemstreet was born at Maybrook, Ontario, Canada, July 30, 1866. He enlisted in the Spanish-American war at Superior, Wis., April 19, 1898, and served for the full duration of the conflict at Porto Rico.

In his earlier years he was a professional hypnotist and had stage engagements throughout the country. He continued to be generous with his talents after he retired from the stage and frequently put on entertainments for lodges and friends.

Mr. Hemstreet came to Medford from Superior in 1914. For a time he was a member of the city police force. He had joined the Elks lodge in Nashville, Tenn., and had been a member of other lodges here. He was active in Colonel Sargent's camp of the United Spanish War Veterans.

The camp will have charge of services at the cemetery. Pauline Weaver will be James H. Ping, Thomas M. Kurtz, Merritt S. Cobb, Col. W. H. Pains, Dan Connor and John B. Eichelberger, all Spanish war veterans.

Mr. Hemstreet's first wife, Annetta, died on August 19, 1918. On October 17, 1923, he was married to Miss Jane Wilson here.

Survivors are his wife, a sister, Mrs. Anna Scott of Eau Claire, Wis., four half brothers in Wisconsin, an uncle, Charles Hemstreet of Portland and an aunt, Mrs. Mary C. Hemstreet of Medford.

Campaign plans were outlined at a meeting last night of the sponsoring membership committee of the Oregon Shakespearean Festival association in the home of Mrs. H. Chandler Egan on Roxy Ann road. Mrs. Egan is chairman of the committee.

The committee decided to conduct a sponsoring membership ticket sale for a week beginning July 25. This year's festival will be held early in August. Five hundred memberships were set as the committee's goal and the entire city will be canvassed.

Committee members attending last night's meeting were Mrs. George Coddling, Mrs. William M. McAllister, Mrs. Weldon H. McCre, Mrs. Alma Pruitt, Mrs. D. R. Wood, Mrs. Thomas J. Fuson, Mrs. Gertrude Butler and Miss Nancy Clark. Other members are Mrs. Edith Stevens, Mrs. R. J. Henry and Mrs. Darrell Huson.

LONG DRY SPELL CAUSES HEAVY IRRIGATION USE

Heavy use of irrigation water on the orchards and farms of the upper and central Rogue River valley is now underway, and will be a continuous operation until September, according to Glen Ansplicher, general irrigation district manager. Ample water is available.

Hardboiled

Victor McLaglen—hardboiled as his dress shirt—comes to the Blue liberte tomorrow in the starring role of "The Devil's Party." McLaglen is seen as a "grown up" product of the slums—a devil fighting for the things he missed in childhood. Other players in support of the brawny star are William Gargan, Beatrice Roberts and Paul Kelly.

"The Wife of General Ling," a story of war-torn China, plays as the added feature with the McLaglen film. Griffith Jones and Inkijhoff, the Peter Lore of Oriental actors, have the leading roles.
