

BLAZE DESTROYS CANNON HOME ON SUNSET AVENUE

Flames Have Good Start When Alarm Sounded at 1:37 A. M. Sunday — Neighbors Save Furniture

Fire destroyed the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cannon and family at 1122 Sunset avenue early yesterday morning.

Origin was traced by Chief Roy Elliott to the water pump house situated a few feet from the porch.

When the fire department received the alarm at 1:37 a. m., the house was already enveloped in flames and too far gone to be saved.

Neighbors and spectators saved much of the furniture from the first floor.

When the fire alarm was sounded, the fire department's chemical crew had just been called to put out a grass fire on Spring street near the George Barnum residence.

Because of increased hazards, no more permits to burn grass or rubbish will be issued for a time, Chief Elliott announced today.

CARPENTERS AND PAINTERS ENJOY ALL-DAY PICNIC

By R. C. Chappell

The Painters and Carpenters picnic on the upper Applegate Sunday was a colorful affair.

Nature and the CCC boys have provided beauty and comfort on the grounds with a lavish hand.

At lunch time the huge tables craked beneath stacks and heaps of delicacies from the four corners of the valley.

The athletic highlight of the day was the baseball game between Hansen's Daubers and the major league club.

LONDON WIDENS EXODUS PLANS FOR AIR RAIDS

LONDON (UP)—More than 1,000,000 London school children probably will be evacuated from the metropolis in the event of air raids in a future war.

The London county council in conjunction with the government is working out plans for evacuation of school children and closing of all schools in the London area.

More than 325,000 children under the age of 14 attend the 1,125 elementary (public) schools under the London county council's charge.

There are also another 190,000 older children in the 246 secondary schools (high schools) in the London area.

According to the London county council plans, the evacuation would be carried out as an integral part of any scheme for general evacuation of city populations if air raids made London uninhabitable.

The speed of modern bombing planes makes London probably the most vulnerable big target in Europe.

however, that a series of devastating raids might make evacuation necessary.

One idea is that children in schools in danger zones should be transferred to schools in less exposed districts.

A London county council committee which worked out these air raid plans suggested it probably would be necessary to close all London schools for a limited period during an emergency.

The problem of evacuating children and closing schools would be made even more difficult by the fact that London probably would have at most 10 to 15 minutes warning of the approach of air raiders.

With the half an hour or more warning during the World war.

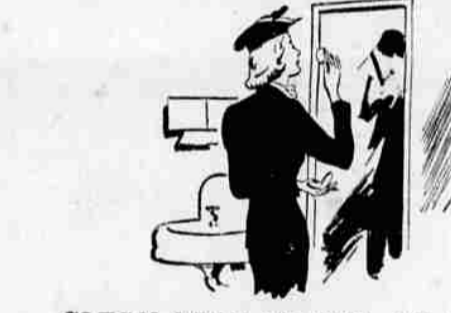

The speed of modern bombing planes makes London probably the most vulnerable big target in Europe.

Even Paris is less vulnerable, since it is at least a half hour's flight from the nearest frontier while enemy planes could fly almost undetected until they reached the English coast.
