"Diamond Jim" couldn't hold a candle

DIAMOND JIM BRADY did more than wear sparklers by the pound—eat terrapin by the ton. He sold equipment to railroads by the millions of dollars. Actually he was the greatest salesman of his day—the master of his craft in an era when drummers put on personality to match their marvelous whiskers and watch-chains. The way to make a sale, then, was to overwhelm the customer.

How times have changed! The modern rest room does not twirl a mustache or provide a banquet at Delmonico's. Yet it has become—in the years since it was pioneered by Standard—a greater salesman than any giant of yesterday.

This modest salesman has never asked anybody to buy anything. No one need feel its use involves any obligation to buy. In fact, the rest room was not originated as a salesman at all. If there was any commercial purpose—other than a normal betterment of service—it was to increase motoring by adding to its comfort.

Yet the unsolicited appreciation of the motoring public for clean, thoroughly equipped rest rooms—told us constantly in thousands of letters—has turned out to be something money can't buy—or words—or personality—or all Jim Brady's diamonds.

STEWART AVENUE FLOOD CONTROL WORK ADVANCING

Rights-of-Way for Project Are Being Procured, City Council Told — Expect to Finish Job by Winter

The preliminary work of procuring rights-of-way for the Stewart avenue flood control project is progressing, the city council was informed by a report submitted at last night's regular semi-monthly meeting by Fred W. Scheffel, city superintendent.

Right-of-way easements had been procured up to July 1 on 5,888.26 footage of the 9,003.44 required, 65 percent now being deeded, the report stated.

It is expected that the flood control project will be completed before next winter's rains set in. Mr. Scheffel told the Mail Tribune after the meeting.

Sidewalks Repaired

Mr. Scheffel's report showed that the sidewalks of 13 properties had been repaired since the previous meeting.

The council adopted a resolution directing that notices be served on 288 additional property owners for the repair of their sidewalks in accordance with an ordinance adopted last February. Purpose of the ordinance is to eliminate hazards due to defective sidewalks. Since adoption of the ordinance property owners have been cooperative in removing the hazards. It was brought out.

A letter from the Jackson County Medical society urged the council to take additional steps to reduce traffic accidents. The letter stated that the physicians, more than anyone else, see the tragic side of the accidents as they are called upon to treat the victims. Frequently the accidents result in death or partial disability as well as in long confinement for treatment of brain injuries and fractured bones, the letter said.

"The general public is not aware of the time spent in the care of these cases," the physicians asserted.

Advises More Signs

The medical society recommended the placing of more signs on the highways and city streets calling attention to traffic ordinances and the dangers that might result from non-observance of them. Special training and instruction in traffic laws for primary school pupils also were advised. The society suggested stricter enforcement of traffic regulations "even if it becomes necessary to employ an additional traffic officer."

Mayor C. G. Furnas referred the letter to the safety committee for study and recommendation.

When no one appeared to protest, the council adopted an ordinance vacating an alley on South Holly street between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets.

Parsons Praised Road

Councilman Larry Schrade read a letter from Reginald H. Parsons, owner of the Hillcrest orchard, who complimented the city and county for the recent East Main street and Hillcrest road improvement.

"It is the best form of city-county road building I have ever seen anywhere for the price," Mr. Parsons wrote. Mayor Furnas expressed the council's gratitude for Mr. Parsons' letter.

Councilmen W. P. Stewart and M. N. Hogan were absent.

NOTABLE SUCCESS FOR SHAKESPEARE SERIES PREDICTED BY WILEY

ASHLAND, July 20.—(SpI)—More than 50 persons attended the picnic given in Lithia park last night by the Oregon Shakespearean Festival association for the troupe and committee workers engaged in the presentation of this year's series of plays early in August. Several special guests also were present.

After grace was said by the Rev. C. E. Dunham, pastor of the First Baptist church, Mayor T. S. Wiley welcomed the visiting actors to Ashland, praised the Shakespearean productions as a civic enterprise of great value and predicted that this year's festival would be the most notable success since the Elizabethan theater was established here four years ago.

Angus Moore of Shawnee, Okla., responding for the actors, thanked Mayor Wiley for Ashland's hospitality and expressed gratitude for the city's cordial welcome to festival patrons.

Other speakers included Dr. Walter Redford, president of the Southern Oregon Normal school and of the festival association, Frank J. Van Dyke, member of the executive board, and Prof. Angus L. Bowmer, vice president and director.

Mrs. H. Chandler Egan, chairman of the Medford sponsoring membership committee, introduced her co-workers and Mrs. H. M. Schilling, head of the Ashland committee, presented her colleagues.

BLAZE DESTROYS H. CARTER'S BARN

ASHLAND, July 20.—(SpI)—Fire last evening destroyed a large barn and a season's harvest of hay on the Henry Carter farm here. Mr. Carter suffered burns of the right arm and shoulder in saving a cow and a calf from the flaming barn. Origin was not determined, the blaze apparently starting in the hay loft.

Mr. Carter, brother of George Carter, county clerk, was milking when he saw flames shooting from the hay mow between 6 and 6:30 p. m.

The barn burned too fast to be saved, but Mr. Carter got all the livestock out safely. The milk shed, residence and other buildings were saved by firemen.

It was only at noon that Mr. Carter completed storing the latest cutting of hay. Sixty tons were lost in the fire. The big barn was built only a little more than a year ago.

PROFESSOR LAUDS POWER PROJECTS

BONNEVILLE.—(SpI)—Prof. James C. Bonbright of Columbia university, vice-chairman of the New York state power authority, recently completed a visit to the new public power projects of Oregon and Washington, including Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Skagit, in the company of J. D. Ross, Bonneville administrator.

He reports that they will be one of the greatest and most significant of all public projects in the country's history. If continued under their present management and policies, he says, they are likely, in conjunction with the Tennessee valley project, to lead the national development of electrical power and its distribution during the next 20 years.

Professor Bonbright expressed the hope that, in the near future "the wasteful duplication of private and public plants will be avoided through the purchase, at a fair price, of private systems by public agencies."
