FLAMES DESTROY VANCOUVER ISLE FISHING RESORT
thunderstorms for the Siskiyou and the middle and southern Cascade mountains, where hundreds of men battled to prevent the spread of flames from the thousands of acres already charred. Forest officials feared the possible showers would be accompanied by lightning which would set more fires than the rain would extinguish.
A brick mason collapsed and died at his job in Corvallis yesterday where the temperature blistered the countryside at 103 degrees. A farmer near Silverton suffered a fatal heat prostration last week and a firefighter lost his life in Clatsop county earlier this month.
Scottsburg, haze-hidden community on the beautiful Umpqua river, appeared out of immediate danger from the Smith river fire. Highway authorities reopened the Drain-Reedsport route after they learned the blaze was nearly two miles away. The Smith river inferno, fought by 1300 men, has consumed 8000 acres. Scottsburg was safe as long as the wind did not shift and send the flames crowling through the trees.
An uncontrolled fire swept within four miles of Oak Flat on the Willamette river of southern Oregon and forced abandonment of plans to establish a women's vacation camp. The Chetco fire, still defying efforts to control it, spread to 8000 acres. The fire-fighting crew has been increased to approximately one man for every nine acres afire.
The Nome creek fire, near the scene of the proposed women's camp, soared over 2500 acres today and officials in charge of the control work said a "backfire is our only prayer."
Three specialists in fire-fighting tactics were dispatched by airplane from Seattle to the Redwood ranger station in the Siskiyou national forest.
A gasoline explosion destroyed about $15,000 in equipment at the Hidden Treasure mine near Baker and injured one man.
The forest service quenched two lightning-set fires in the Diamond lake region.
Incendiaries, taking advantage of poor visibility, were giving fire warden trouble in several districts.
Suffering Oregon residents had little opportunity to cool off during the night from yesterday's withering temperatures. The minimum, in many instances, failed to drop below 75 degrees.
A Weyerhaeuser Timber company fire on Hayden mountain, between Medford and Klamath Falls, was controlled yesterday by crews rushed from the Deschutes national forest.
A fire of 1500 acres of slashings, down logs and standing fir timber, 20 miles east of Marshfield, was believed controlled after a 24-hour battle by 350 men.
Three fires continued to burn out of control in the Siskiyou forest. Three hundred and fifty additional recruits went on the fire line yesterday, bringing the total to more than 1700 men. The Chetco river fire was reported to have covered 4000 acres, with spot fires spreading ahead of the main blaze.
Grants Pass farm houses, threatened yesterday by a 1500-acre blaze, were safe today. The fire was checked.
Twelve incendiary fires in the Bland mountain district of Douglas county, one fire in the Kelsey valley and one north of Diamond lake on the Umpqua forest were under control.
Omar Khayyam, author of the Rubaiyat, was a mathematician and astronomer as well as a poet. He died in 1122.

HERO BY MISTAKE SECURES PASSAGE FOR RETURN TRIP
Corrigan Will Sail July 30 - Still Holding Off On Film Contracts - Says Nix for Night Clubs
DUBLIN, July 21.—(AP)—"The pride of the Corrigan's," as the Irish call the young American flying hero, booked passage home today on the American liner Manhattan, sailing next week.
That done, Douglas Corrigan went shopping as any tourist. For his uncle he bought a shillelagh (typical gudge) and for the rest of the family, postcards.
Then he saw his beloved plane dismantled at the Baldonno airport to be sent home aboard the United States maritime commission's steamship Lehigh.
To See London
He planned a two-day visit to London before sailing from Cobh July 30.
"I am still battling with the task of answering hundreds of cablegrams people keep sending me," the aviator said.
"I am still holding off on offers on contracts from Hollywood until I get home, but it's nix on night club appearances. I'm no crooner."
Asked about the possibility of a flight across the United States for the Golden Gate exposition, he said, "my uncle must have fixed that up—it depends on United States authorities whether they release my plane. I am very doubtful if they will."
Corrigan is worried about what the home folk may do to him.
Does Well in Ireland
He has been getting along nicely in Ireland, chatting informally with the highest of the land, but the thought of a big welcome in America is something else again.
"I certainly hope they have stopped being Corrigan-mad when I get back to America," is how he puts it.
"A hero by mistake"—that "compass error" that took him to Ireland instead of California, you know—Corrigan apparently is willing to call off the rest of the show.
Today he turned down a five-year film contract with a guarantee of three pictures yearly—although yesterday he thought he might be interested in the movies—and refused a $20,000 vaudeville contract.

Bob Burns, Dorothy Lamour, Martha Raye At Craterian
All the gaiety and glamor of a live Mexican fiesta filled the Craterian theater last night when "Tropic Holiday" in the musical romance of life below the Rio Grande, opened its local showing to a capacity crowd.
With a star cast headed by Bob Burns, Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Binnie Barnes and some of Mexico's most popular entertainers—most of whom are now seen and heard on the American screen for the first time—the picture not only is filled with fun and romance, but its grand music makes it one of the most enjoyable film musicals of the year.
Set to the rhythm of clinking castanets and merry marimbas, "Tropic Holiday" is the disturbing adventure of a restless young Hollywood writer in unpopulated rural Mexico. The author, played by Milland, and his secretary, Miss Raye, find the land of the Aztecs far more romantic than they expect when he sits under the palm trees with a native daughter, Miss Lamour, and she listens to the sweet nothings of a local serenader, Tito Guizar.
The story reaches a merry climax with the arrival of Milland's Hollywood fiancée, Binnie Barnes and Miss Raye's sweetheart, Burns, an Oklahoma Senatorial candidate. Burns' frantic efforts to win Martha land him in the local jail, from which he is released only after his lady turns matador and fights a bull to appease the populace.
