

Standard Oil Will Distribute Full-Color Pictures Of Crater Lake

TOURIST TRAFFIC BOOST SEEN FROM PUBLICITY EFFORT

Hathaway Announces Pictures Ready For Distribution Beginning Monday — Thousands To Be Given.

"For the purpose of stimulating interest in travel to Oregon's many famous beauty spots, hundreds of thousands of exquisite full-color reproductions of the state's most famous scenes will be distributed free within the next few weeks by Standard Oil Company of California," H. L. Hathaway, the company's district sales manager in this area, announced today.

All motorists may obtain these pictures by asking for them at any Standard station or Standard Oil dealer in the state of Oregon.

The pictures themselves are entirely new and taken especially for this distribution. Each picture was made on a special trip by a crew, including an expert cameraman to handle the technical side, and an art director to select the finest possible view, and its natural and artistic values thus obtained have been preserved by the most modern process of photo-lithographic reproduction. Each picture is contained in a large envelope, protecting it from any possible handling, and is suitable for framing.

"We expect that many of these pictures will find their permanent places in Oregon homes, popular meeting places, community centers, lodge halls, and wherever decoration of this kind is in order and appreciated," said Mr. Hathaway. "Our company has spared no effort or expense to make them worthy representatives of Oregon's most beautiful localities. The first picture, which will be distributed beginning Monday, is a new, full-color view of Crater Lake, showing not only the lake itself, but the distant snow-capped peaks and a magnificent cloud effect. It will be followed by others at regular intervals. "While the total number of pictures goes into hundreds of thousands, the supply of each issue is necessarily limited, and they will, therefore, be given out to those who first apply for them."

The Crater Lake pictures, to be distributed to the public free by all Standard stations and all Standard Oil dealers, will be available Monday morning in Medford and throughout the territory.

ART INVENTORY IN SPAIN LISTS 53 NEW GOYAS

All Works Are Catalogued By Loyalists In Territory Now Held — Aim Is To Keep Treasures Home

By Jan H. Yndrich

LONDON—(UP)—Amid the rain of bombs and shells on Madrid, the last edition of Goya's famous engravings has been published. Don Timoteo Rubio, director of the Junta Nacional del Tesoro Artistico, told the United Press when he arrived in London to arrange an exhibition of them. The edition comprises "Los Desastres de la Guerra" (The Disasters of the War), "La Tauromaquia" (The Art of Bullfighting), "Los Caprichos" (The Caprices) and 100 hitherto unpublished examples of the famous engraver's art.

Don Timoteo said the government had decided that after the completion of this edition the plates would be returned to the archives and no further edition will be published. The reason, he explained, was that the original plates were used and the issue of an edition meant a certain amount of wear.

Art Inventory Made

The Spanish government is making an inventory of all the works of art in loyalist Spain. Don Timoteo said. Included in this catalogue will be paintings and artistic objects which for years have been hidden from public view in private houses. He declared that 53 new Goyas already had been discovered.

Timoteo said, "It is to prevent Spain's works of art from leaving the country. The government does not take over the artistic projects, but merely sees that they are not sold for export."

Asked what has happened to the priceless art treasures of Toledo, particularly the famous Greco painting "The Burial of the Count of Orgaz," he said the work was taken from the church wall on which it was hanging and laid on the floor. Then it was covered with boards and sandbags to protect it from aerial bombs or shell-fire. The art treasures of Toledo, however, fell into the hands of the Nationalists when General Franco's troops captured the city.

Owners Refuse Protection

"What has happened to them since, I do not know," Don Timoteo said. "I should like to hear that Franco has appointed some board similar to ours for the protection of art treasures in his territory. In the early days of the war when we could have taken valuable paintings and works of art out of threatened towns and villages and transported them to Madrid, we had to overcome the opposition of the owners and local authorities, who refused to allow them out of their care even though it meant taking them to a safe place."

"Here is a case in point. When Franco was marching on Illiescas, we found several works of art there which we wished to take to Madrid. The mayor opposed this, but finally consented to pack them up and take them to Madrid himself."

"He deposited them in a strong box in the Bank of Spain and went off with the key. We could not find him, so had to force the strong box. We did so only just in time. The paintings were all but ruined, but we managed to restore them."

Restored paintings which have deteriorated through neglect is an important part of the Junta's work. Don Timoteo displayed several photographs of numerous paintings before and after restoration.

EUREKA, Calif., July 23.—(AP)—Adam Ziegler, 35, seeking to supplant a 10-year-old record for hiking between San Francisco and Grants Pass, Ore., arrived here at 1:30 p. m. today. He rested briefly and continued his marathon journey.

Lance Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce, said that Ziegler declared he had already run the 17 miles extra added to make up for shortening of the redwood highway since Flying Cloud, an Indian, set the record.

Ziegler stopped here two hours before heading on north.

He is averaging 60 miles a day walking and running. To match the Indian's time to Grants Pass, he will have to speed up to nearly 90 miles a day.

Ziegler was showing the effect of his five days on the road under blistering heat. Twice he almost fainted.

DECATUR, Ga., July 23.—(AP)—Sergeant George Jackson of the Dekalb county police, said a 16-year-old girl was shot to death and her soldier sweetheart critically wounded early today in a "lover's suicide pact."

NO JOBLESS PAY TO COOS STRIKERS

SALEM, July 23.—(AP)—Unemployment compensation benefits were refused 70 employees of the Smith Wood Products company at Coquille today in a decision of an unemployment compensation commission referee.

The referee held that stoppage of work at the Southern Oregon sawmill plant was due to a labor dispute existing from the time the men went out on strike last September until May 19, when the mill was ordered to take the men back to work by the national labor relations board.

Claimant workers contended that since operations of the company were resumed with a new crew in October, there was no stoppage of work from then on, which covered the benefit paying period from January 2 to May 19, under the state unemployment compensation law. The period subsequent to May 19 was not under consideration, due to the labor board's order.

CALL STEEL CZAR FOR SENATE QUIZ

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Chairman LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) said today the senate civil liberties committee had subpoenaed Tom Girdler, chairman of the Republic Steel corporation in connection with its inquiry into the 1937 "little steel" strike.

T. F. Patton, Republic attorney, said that Girdler desired an opportunity to appear before the committee and that his testimony would be as "strong and picturesque" as that of labor leaders.

The committee was in recess until next Wednesday to permit attaches to study financial records of Hill and Knowlton, Cleveland public relations firm, concerning a survey of labor relations made for six steel companies.

SUNBURN IS DANGEROUS

In this heat and bright sunshine sunburn is very prevalent. Don't think that sunburn is something to be laughed at or treated lightly. A severe sunburn can cause almost irreparable damage to the human system. It always brings a terrific strain on the kidneys and it should be treated immediately.

We recommend Tannicol. It is one of the newer ideas for the treatment of burns of all kinds. Our sincere advice is, don't get sunburned, but if you do, use Tannicol.

If you see a physician, don't trust in patent medicines.

DAKOTA KIWANIS IRK OPERA STAR WITH SLIM HOUSE

PIERRE, S. D., July 23.—(AP)—Mary McCormic, operatic soprano, is through "singing for ham sandwiches," she said emphatically here after someone—it wasn't quite clear who—tricked her into an unwilling performance in South Dakota's capital city.

Here for a Kiwanis club sponsored concert, she balked at financial arrangements and flatly refused to sing. Shortly afterward, it was learned today, a bell boy at her hotel handed her a legal-appearing paper. Unless she went on with the concert, it said, her property would be attached.

Miss McCormic's expensive automobile stood out front. She took a look at it. Then went to the concert hall and sang.

Most important fact, Fisher believes, is that both skulls were adorned with the same headdress, which was composed of fresh water snail shells which dangled ribbon-like over the head. Fisher's discovery bore 624 shells, while that of Dr. Stillwell was made up of 714 shells.

Another of Fisher's discoveries is that the prehistoric men who wandered around what is now western Pennsylvania spoke the same language as those who lived in Europe during the same period. Picture writing unearthed by Fisher corresponds with the writing found by Dr. Stillwell.

This particular form of writing has resisted efforts of scientists to decipher it. Fisher believes that when this is accomplished, the vast unknown history of America's earliest men will be recorded.

The Finleyville archeologist is associated with the University of Michigan in his work.

During his life, Fisher has excavated more than 200 mounds and earthworks. A few years ago he sold his collection of 25,882 pieces for $40,000. Since then, it has amassed a sizeable collection of pottery, tools and crude weapons. He believes that western Pennsylvania is one of the richest fields for archeology in America.

KLAMATH BOY DIES OF CRASH INJURIES

KLAMATH FALLS, July 23.—(AP)—Claude Chester Hunter, 15, died last night of internal injuries suffered earlier in the week when the car in which he was riding with six other youths crashed into a tree at Moore park.

Andrew Bell, one of the other passengers, sustained a broken hip and the rest minor injuries.

William Coffman, 24, the driver, is held at the county jail on a reckless driving charge. Dr. George H. Adler, coroner, said an inquest will be held Monday to determine if manslaughter charges should be filed against Coffman.

Pre - Historic Picture Writing Same on Both Sides of Ocean

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A boyish penchant for collecting old Indian relics has resulted in a discovery which may ultimately prove that prehistoric men who may have lived 15,000 years ago in America and Europe were brothers under the skin.

G. S. Fisher, Finleyville, Pa., archeologist, dressed in short trousers when he first began poking around old Indian mounds for flint knives, beads and other odd objects peculiar to early Indian civilization.

Although he has collected thousands of relics through the years, he considers his discovery of the skull of a crowned king of the Fort Ancient period his most important disclosure.

The reason for this belief is that the skull of a prehistoric man excavated by Prof. R. J. Stillwell of Princeton in Greece last year was similar in many respects to the one found by Fisher in an ancient earth at it. Then went to the concert hall and sang.

Most important fact, Fisher believes, is that both skulls were adorned with the same headdress, which was composed of fresh water snail shells which dangled ribbon-like over the head. Fisher's discovery bore 624 shells, while that of Dr. Stillwell was made up of 714 shells.

Another of Fisher's discoveries is that the prehistoric men who wandered around what is now western Pennsylvania spoke the same language as those who lived in Europe during the same period. Picture writing unearthed by Fisher corresponds with the writing found by Dr. Stillwell.
