

CORRIGAN TO TAKE BEST JOB OFFERED ON RETURN HOME

Wrong Way Flier Changes Mind About Money-Making — Plans Two Weeks Tour Before Business

LONDON, July 25.—(AP)—Douglas C. Corrigan apparently has changed his mind about money-making offers from the United States.

"When I get back," the young transatlantic flier said today, "I am going to take the best job offered—movies, vaudeville, newspapers, anything."

But he is planning a two weeks' tour first.

"There will be a couple of days in New York," he said. "Two days, because the boys in Brooklyn seem to want to have a parade as well as the guys in New York; then Boston, then down south to Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington."

He plans also to visit Fort Worth, San Antonio ("where I was stationed six years"), Norfolk, Virginia ("if I can make it"), Olathe ("where I was born"), the Los Angeles, San Francisco and "on my way back" St. Louis ("where my plane was built").

Corrigan said he would attend the Cleveland air races, but not as a competitor.

"No, sir," he maintained, "I might aim at the equator and hit the pole." This he said with a grin and a reference to his flight last week from New York to Dublin which, he asserted, started out to be a journey from New York to California.

Corrigan was entertained at luncheon by the London Airplane club. During the afternoon Col. M. F. Scanlon, air attaché at the United States embassy, took him on a tour of British airplane plants.

Tomorrow Corrigan will go to Kensington museum to see the plane which the Wright brothers first flew at Kittyhawk, N. C. He will return to Dublin tomorrow afternoon.

U. S. WILL BUILD MANILA OFFICES

MANILA—(UP)—Construction of a $441,000 residence-office building for the U. S. high commissioner of the Philippines will begin soon.

A call has also been issued for bids on construction of a commissioner's residence in Baguio, the Philippine "mountain capital" in north central Luzon island. This building is expected to cost $230,000.

The Manila building, three stories high, will be constructed on 17 acres of land reclaimed from Manila bay alongside the city's most beautiful thoroughfare, palm-lined Dewey Boulevard.

High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt has been living in rented houses and working in a rented office in the Elks club. One of his successors will probably be the first to use the new buildings.

Congressional appropriation of $750,000 for the two buildings brought cries of "extravagance" from foes of Commissioner McNutt and the administration in spite of Sen. Sherman Minton's explanations McNutt neither proposed nor will use the buildings.

Congressmen supporting the construction pointed out the Manila building will include 20 residential rooms and 27 rooms in which the commissioner and his staff will work.

When the Philippines become independent, presumably July 4, 1946, the building will become a legation for use by the United States minister to the insular republic.

It is expected to be completed about Jan. 1, 1940.

Barber Resents Argument
ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UP)—Fahmy Mohamed Ibrahim has just learned that it is better not to argue with a barber. He went to one for a haircut and argued over the way his hair had been cut. Fahmy is now in the hospital with half a dozen razor wounds in the stomach and the barber is in prison.

Trails Down Flea

Festival Secretary

In charge of the Medford office of the Oregon Shakespearean Festival association is Gordon Davis of Boston, Mass. He is one of the many out-of-state players taking part in this year's series of plays scheduled for August 5 to 13 in the Elizabethan theater, Ashland, Davis is seen here in his role of Horatio in Hamlet. The festival office here is room 212 in the Medford Center building and information regarding the Shakespearean fete may be obtained there. The telephone is 438.

Corrigan was entertained at luncheon by the London Airplane club. During the afternoon Col. M. F. Scanlon, air attaché at the United States embassy, took him on a tour of British airplane plants.

Tomorrow Corrigan will go to Kensington museum to see the plane which the Wright brothers first flew at Kittyhawk, N. C. He will return to Dublin tomorrow afternoon.

PARKER DEVELOPS NEW STRAWBERRY

By crossing the New Oregon one-pot strawberry with the improved everlasting Mastodon, Archie Parker of Central Point claims he has developed a rapid-growing, heavy-bearing berry plant. Mr. Parker said he would name the strawberry "Oregon's Magic Wand."

"I crossed the two plants by hand pollination," Mr. Parker stated. "I have about 100 plants which will produce many berries and sturdy runners. The runner plants are producing fine, large berries even before the plant has time to take root. On one mother plant, not including the runners, I counted 141 berries."

One of the plants may be seen by anyone interested, at the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce.

Carroll Volume Priced
AUSTIN, Tex.—(UP)—One of the most prized volumes in the Stark library at the University of Texas is the work of a celebrated English mathematician, but it doesn't deal with figures. It is a facsimile of the manuscript of "Alice Underground," first version of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland."

Army Clubs Sports
LONDON—(UP)—The British army has decided to curtail sporting events in the future in order to abolish the "regimental gladiator" and prevent games from becoming semi-professionalized. The idea, according to the war office, is to encourage all soldiers to take an interest in sport.

SHAKESPEARE FETE SALES CAMPAIGN GETS GOOD START

That the Oregon Shakespearean Festival membership campaign this year will top last year's drive by a wide margin was indicated today when first reports from committee workers showed that in the first day of the campaign more than half as many memberships were sold as in the entire week's drive last season.

Mrs. H. Chandler Egan, chairman of the Medford membership committee, and Mrs. H. M. Schilling, chairman of the Ashland group, were enthusiastic today over the prospect. Ashland's drive got under way last week while Medford's started Monday, but both groups were confident of the success of the campaign.

An imposing list of members was placed on the Medford roster yesterday. The list included Mr. and Mrs. Mark A. Goldy, Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Leavary, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Newman, Health's Drug store, Seth M. Bullis, Jr., Miss Eleanor Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Porter J. Neff, Miss Gertrude Butler, Mr. and Mrs. D. Ford McCormick, Reinhardt & Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin N. Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. Eino Hemmilla, Mrs. H. D. McCaskey, Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon D. Brophy, Mrs. Elizabeth Bowerman, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald H. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. David Rosenberg, A. S. Rosenbaum, Mrs. Halston W. Sleeter, Capt. and Mrs. C. L. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Fry, Glen Huber, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thorndike, Mrs. H. Chandler Egan, Gordon Voorhes, Roland Merrifield, Miss Louis Lee and Miss Dorothy Lee.

A number of other Medford memberships had not been turned in by the committee workers and will be announced later.

Additions to the Ashland list were announced today by Mrs. Schilling. The new list includes:

Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. Putney, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Orson F. Carson, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Redford, Mrs. Roberta Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buchling, Miss Madge Marean, Mr. William B. Allen.

Mrs. Mary A. Harkins, Dr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Woods, Dr. and Mrs. Marcus B. Woods, Dr. and Mrs. Harvey A. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Dyke, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Badger, Hardy's Cash Hardware, Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Knox, Plaza Cafe, Fortmiller's Department Store, and Jackson's Cafe.

Oregon Teacher Victim Of Cupid While Traveling

DULUTH, Minn., July 25.—(AP)—A Pacific coast school teacher and a young physician from Detroit culminated an acquaintance yesterday with their marriage—in a tourist bureau.

Miss Eda Mae Reese, teacher in the Seaside, Ore., public schools, was the bride, and Dr. Alexander Bradford, who recently completed post-graduate study at the University of Pennsylvania medical school, the groom.

The ceremony was performed at the chamber of commerce visitors information bureau by Dr. Newton E. Mata, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Truck on 3d Floor
STILLWATER, Okla.—(UP)—A two-ton truck atop the third floor of a partly completed engineering building on Oklahoma A. & M. college campus proved so many inquiries that explanation of its presence was published. The truck was placed on the building to power derricks, pulleys and cables—used to put steel girders weighing as much as eight tons in place.

STOCK EXCHANGE HEAD SAYS BABS HURTS CAPITALISM

Martin Views Five And Ten Heiress As Bad Influence On Economic System—Rich Girls Given Panning

By LINDA GRAY SHAW (A. P. Feature Writer.)
NEW YORK.—William McChesney Martin, Jr., the 31-year-old president of the New York stock exchange, sat down in his guarded, air-conditioned office, hunched his knees against the desk, and confessed to a weakness for the simple life.

"I haven't any expensive habits," he said. "He neither smokes nor drinks; doesn't keep a car in New York." "I like to go to the theater, but I go by myself and usually sit in the balcony. I used to play tennis three or four times a week at Forest Hills. Lately I've been too busy."

Martin, the first paid president of the exchange, gets $48,000 a year. A friend for work, he doesn't act like a go-getter. He moves slowly, speaks slowly, smiles often—but slowly. His clothes are commonplace.

A "Regretful" Bachelor
Social life doesn't interest him. He's being asked around quite a bit, now that he's in the limelight. Says he's a "regretful" bachelor. He doesn't look regretful.

He did say, "I'd like to travel every day of my life."

At that, he's done a pretty good job of touring the United States—has been in every state but Florida. Last March he went on a Mediterranean cruise. He had been putting in 20-hour work days helping draft the exchange's new constitution, he said; so after it was over, he went aboard ship and spent the first three days sleeping.

Kept to Himself
"I didn't speak to anybody for seven days," he reflected. "I ate at a table myself. I was pretty sick of talking to people by then. One night toward the end of the cruise, I asked a girl to dance, then couldn't get away until 1:30. I was completely worn down."

It was his second trip abroad. In 1927, after his junior year at Yale, he went on a European tour.

Mr. Martin has never come to consider New York home, though he's been here seven years now—ever since he purchased a membership in the stock exchange. He lives at the Yale club, because he likes to think he's here only temporarily. St. Louis is home, but he doesn't get out there more than once a month.

The son of well-to-do parents—his father is president of the Federal Reserve bank of St. Louis—Mr. Martin says he gives most of his money away. Sometimes the very rich disturb Mr. Martin.

Rich Girls Disturb Him
"Barbara Hutton," he says, "has done more to destroy American capitalism than any other individual." That's pretty heated for an individual as gentle as Mr. Martin. He gets cross, too, about rich girls who take jobs just so they can say they're earning money.

Mr. Martin won't be labeled a liberal. Says he's an independent. He gets annoyed with people who accuse him of straddling the fence. Though he tries to be unemotional in his analysis of economic trends, he says that doesn't prevent him from having convictions of his own.

The government, he says, must lay down the broad general policies by which the exchange is to function, but the exchange should do its own policing job, and see that those policies are carried out. Only half the age of most of the past leaders of the exchange, Martin's in office "as long as the board wants me."
