RELICS IN UTAH TRACE DIM ERA

RELICS IN UTAH TRACE DIM ERA - SALT LAKE CITY-(UP)-Relics of an early civilization, hidden for generations in a mountain cave in central Utah, have been unearthed and added to the Brigham Young university museum. Indian fighting weapons, scraping implements and the bones of animals extinct for many years in this section were included in the cavern find, which university officials said was the most important discovery of its kind in Utah in many years. Fearing that others would descend and carry away the relics, university officials kept the secret of the cave's location until the cavern had been emptied of its contents. The cave was discovered a year ago by Thomas Walker, a forest ranger. Following the tracks of animals leading from the main canyon road, he found the mouth of the cavern and then discovered its contents. Realizing the extent of his find, Walker summoned Prof. George T. Hansen, professor of geology, Hansen, with a COG crew, began excavation operations. On the top were skeletons of deer, deposited in recent years by predatory animals. Then workers uncovered bones of Rocky mountain sheep and goats which bore unmistakable signs of having been scraped with sharp instruments. A wisp fashioned from bone and several hundred arrow heads also were found. Prof. Hansen expressed belief the cave had been used by Indians as a room in which to dress their kills. Brides Avoid Old Church NORTHWOOD, N. H. (UP)-The wedding of Ruth Mary Doe and William George Stergios was the second solemnized at the First Baptist church here since 1772, so far as can be learned from town records.

Wagner Creek

Wagner Creek - WAGNER CREEK, July 28-(Sp)-Mr. and Mrs. Gene Mestel of Los Angeles are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Mestel. Charlie Skeeters' logging crew has shut down until the fire hazard is over. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brown of Portland and Mrs. Brown's daughters, Misses Lois and LeDeila Andrews of Sunnyvale, Wash., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sawyer on July 16 and 17, returning to their homes on July 18. Mrs. Brown is Mrs. Sawyer's daughter. Sometimes Saturday night someone drove off the road and into Mrs. Letta Lynch's fence, doing considerable damage. The driver drove away not reporting the accident. It happened north of Andrew Briner's place. Mrs. Glen Johnson, with the aid of Mr. Fraley, organized a Christian Endeavor Sunday evening and elected officers for the coming meetings. Mrs. Clayton, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lindstrom, returned to her home in Pasadena, Cal.

The Grange

The Grange - Upper Applegate Grange. A very nice time was enjoyed by Grangers July 28 when Pomona met for the first time in our history. In the evening our regular Grange meeting was held. The meeting was cut short due to Pomona. The lecture hour was omitted. Grange purchased new covering for the dining-room table. By popular demand the Grange will continue with the dances. The next dance will be given August 6. Silva's orchestra will play. Griffin Creek Grange. Griffin Creek Grange will convene promptly at 8 p. m. August 2, for a brief business session at the hall, then adjourn to the lawn at the Clyde Sturgill home for a lawn party in charge of the recreational committee. "Griffinella" was chosen last meeting as a name for the Grange pig being raised jointly by members of the Grange. Ways and means committee had been delegated to choose a name from the hundreds submitted by Grangers all over southern Oregon but asked the Grange to help them choose the winner. Three names favored by the committee, "Ocarrette," "Charity" and "Griffinella" were voted upon. The winning "Griffinella" was suggested by Ruth Williams of Gold Hill Grange. She will receive two tickets to the Halloween feed when the pig will make her last public appearance as the favorite accompaniment for waffles-sausage. Cod Landed With Hands TORI, Me.-(UP)-Though without hook, line or sinker, James J. Sobes, a chef, plunged in after a large cod he saw chalking smelter fish into shallow water at a bathing beach here. And he landed his prey—a four-foot, 34-pound cod.
