Pioneer Ashland Couple Celebrate Golden Wedding

On Sunday, July 31, 1938, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Lowe of East Oak Street Ashland are celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary with a family reunion and dinner.

At a table centered with a three tiered wedding cake decorated in gold, a gift of the son Don, covers will be laid for Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Lowe and young daughter Jacqueline Lowe.

Among the other relatives arriving will be a sister, Mrs. Isophene Beasley of Cloverdale, California, who celebrated her golden wedding anniversary a few years ago and Mrs. Beasley's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McMillin and three daughters, the Misses Idell, Margaret and Elizabeth of Alameda, California.

Three nieces from the East are touring the west stopping for the happy gathering. They are Miss Belle Love of Ames, Iowa, and her two sisters, Mrs. Harriet Sparling and Mrs. Harvey Sparling of Chillicothe, Missouri.

Miss Marie Martin and David M. Lowe were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Martin, Trenton, Missouri, July 29th, 1938, before a large group of friends and relatives.

For almost twenty-five years Mr. and Mrs. Lowe have been very active in promoting the interests of Southern Oregon through their agricultural displays and exhibits at many county and state fairs as well as in various national and international exhibitions.

The skill and hard work which made these displays of value to the community is amply shown by the great variety of trophies and awards that they possess and prove that the products of Southern Oregon are very superior.

Having given up their work at the fairs, Mr. and Mrs. Lowe in spite of advancing years have developed a nice home from land which three years ago was almost totally unimproved.

They are a generous, fine, hard working couple and their host of friends throughout the valley join in wishing them many more years of happy married life.

Designers Defy Color Accent On Fall Styles

Colored winter coats—fashion orphans for the last few years—will come back to Fifth Avenue and Main Street this fall if the coat and suit division of the Fashion Originators' Guild of America has its way.

The 12 designer-manufacturers of the division defied midseason emphasis on black by staging an entire coat and suit fashion show in one color—"rural autumn"—a rich red rust.

Although all of the models shown were in one shade, the division pointed out that this particular hue was not to be regarded as one of outstanding significance. The point of the display was not the importance of this particular color—but the accent on color—in coats.

The show was part of a concerted effort on the part of American designer-manufacturers to put "pep" in fall fashions and give laggard business a shove. Business in coats reached its peak in the days when women wore colored coats, the division spokesman said. In the past few years smart women by the thousands have chosen black or somber coats which can be worn over dresses of many different shades.

The coats shown in the display included both fitted and straight box models, ranging all the way from luxurious afternoon wraps to sport clothes. They were designed with both large and small collars and furred in a great variety of pelts including kolinsky, beaver, blue fox, gray and black Persian lamb. They reflected both sparing and lavish use of fur. A number of them were worn over frocks of the same hue.

Their diversity emphasized the fact that designers are concentrating on color instead of design in this display which preceded regular fashion showings. Stylists watched the show with interest, but none hazarded even a guess as to how strong its influence might be in stimulating a vogue for color which might jar the fashion supremacy of black.

Two colors which are receiving much consideration in the fashion world this fall are wine and grape. Purple plum is regarded as a likely "high style" hue. Deep laurel green, slate blue and brown are also discussed as colors of some importance.

Antoine Advises Frequent Hair Style Changes

PARIS.—(UP)—Some observations of Antoine, among the foremost hair stylists of the world:

Movie stars always have stereotyped hairdresses.

The Duchess of Windsor has changed her coiffure often in 14 years.

Marlene Dietrich is not hair-styles conscious.

"Platinum or other unnatural tints are definitely unbecoming," Antoine has decided, although there was a time when he prided himself on his "wigs" of colored evening coiffures.

His paste is uncolored. Every woman has natural hair that can be made beautiful with the proper care.

What is elegance? "It cannot yet be found in America, for America is still too satisfied with its machines and the work they do," says Antoine. "Nor can it ever be found in public places. Its chief quality is exclusiveness."

The only two women he could name as being always elegant and individual in every detail of appearance never being banal are Princess Faugny Lucinge and Madame Reginald Fellows, formerly Princess de Breuil.

The up coiffure is only one way of achieving elegance. Other elegantizing methods—Antoine is very fond of the word—which cost anywhere from $6 to $50 a head, include the sculpturing method. This, of course, consists in molding the hair into the lines conforming with the lines of the head on which it grows.

Antoine believes that the hair-dress should change with every costume. Florentine page-boys, Watteau paintings, Egyptian mummies, Greek goddesses are other sources of his inspiration.

Pink Dominating Pastel Tints For Evening Wear

By Audrey Ames UNITED PRESS Staff Correspondent PARIS.—(UP)—Pale pink and all its rose relatives take the evening spotlight at Paris society dinners and dances in a moonlit Bois de Boulogne, in the gardens of Versailles or at smartly appointed night clubs.

Dominating all other pastel tints, pink even threatens to dethrone mauve and cerise shades as color queen. It is found on an almost equal par with black and white at all important evening affairs. Mme. Perret-Gentil chose pale rose chiffon to wear to the Night of the Rose at Bagatelle. Her fitted bodice gave way to a full skirt all of panels. And at the same ball the house of Molyneux was represented officially by a mannequin wearing a sensational dress of finely pleated light pink tulle, bouffant Winterhalter style, with a bunch of roses at the décolleté.

The Duchesse de Chaulnes chose a pale pink crepe dress for the "Grand Prix" dinner at the Cercle Interallié. The dress' draped bodice fastened in back with knots made in the dress material. The pleating of the skirt began at a low waistline. A let-necklace of pink carnations and long black suede gloves gave the pale pink more zest than it would have had without any effect of contrast.

Soft pink organza is printed with a delicate black design for one of Chanel's outstanding pink exploitations. A black satin ribbon belt ties in a big bow. Garlands of sweet peas form the shoulder straps for another Chanel creation, this time a cloud-like pink chiffon with immense circular skirt sweeping the floor.

Even when pink does not literally make the dress, it makes the dress because of its accessory importance. Such is the case with the Molyneux gown of black chiffon whose only trimming is a magnificent "necklace" of pink, white and red roses. Look also at the long pink silk jersey gloves which Schiaparelli advises for wear with a wine crepe dinner dress.

Hints for Housewives Picnic Hints: Don't peel potatoes for use in salads until you have cooked and chilled them. Then dice or cut them into thin slices, using a sharp knife. Don't prepare salads with too much dressing. Carry an extra supply in a jar to be passed at the picnic.

Want a seasoning to pour over campfire-cooked meats when they are served? Mix half a cup of butter, one teaspoon each of dry mustard, salt, paprika, horseradish and chili sauce. Heat and serve.

Wrap cantaloupe, pine apple and other fruits with pronounced flavors in waxed papers. Doing so will help prevent their flavors from penetrating other foods in the box. Use rubber bands to hold the papers in place.

In preparing toast to serve with poached eggs, spread it with highly-seasoned minced ham mixed with a little butter, then reheat it before putting the eggs on top of the slices.

Leaves Are In Season PARIS.—(AP)—Leaves are sprouting for evening. Large leaves of jet embroidery mass at the hips of an evening dress in black tulle. An evening model in navy blue georgette has the bodice top cut in leaf forms against a background of white pique. Wide pique shoulder straps supporting rollers for this. Both models are Patou's.

Berlin To Paris PARIS.—(AP)—Mrs. Hugh Wilson, wife of the American ambassador to Germany, has been ordering summer clothes in Paris. Among models chosen is a navy woolen ensemble trimmed with white pique, and a linen outfit consisting of a beige jacket and a black skirt, the jacket fastened with black buttons and stitched in black.

Cupp's Furniture Exchange Finishes Expansion Program John Cupp's Furniture Exchange, located at 409 East Main street, has just completed an expansion which will substantially increase the floor space of this concern, according to an announcement Saturday by John Cupp. The room formerly occupied by Vito's restaurant, 25 feet wide and 80 feet deep, has been added, providing ample space for a large department specializing in moderate priced new furniture. A separate department will also handle both used and repossessed furniture while provision is made for a window shade repair section.

"The success of our furniture exchange has convinced us of the need for a store exclusively dealing in low priced home furnishings," John Cupp said. "This new expansion marks the second time we have been forced to remodel to accommodate increasing business."

C. M. Hon, well known Medford furniture man, is manager of the Cupp Furniture Exchange.
