The hilarious happenings of a madcap American movie star on the loose in Paris where she meets a handsome baron traveling incognito, brings Carole Lombard and Fernand Gravet to the Rialto theater in "Fools for Scandal," opening a three day run today. Allen Jenkins, Marie Wilson and Isabel Jeans are also featured.
"Woman Against Woman," with Virginia Bruce and Mary Astor each trying to claim the affections of Herbert Marshall, is the companion feature.

No one can play the part of a hard-boiled, fast-talking, wise-cracking newspaper man like Pat O'Brien and no one can give and take like Joan Blondell. Teamed together, as in "Back in Circulation," playing today and tomorrow at the Rialto Theater, they furnish plenty of action and fun.
The rapid-fire story of an editor who has high regard for the news-scooping value of his ace reporter—but believes in staying single in spite of the many chances she throws in his direction, "Back in Circulation" is the type of story that appeals to everyone. A neat murder complicates matters during the course of events, with Margaret Lindsay as the accused.
I wish to extend my sincere thanks to friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness during the illness and passing of my wife, especially to members of the City Council, City Employees, Creameries, Milk Distributors and Producers for their expressions of sympathy; also for the beautiful floral offerings.

"Oregon" Origin Deep Riddle For Ethnology Bureau
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Smithsonian institution's bureau of American ethnology admits it can't fathom the origin of the name "Oregon."
Smithsonian's Dr. John P. Harrington said Saturday the name, which has baffled American ethnologists for years, had three meanings none of which are pertinent.
One was "big-eared person," a second "to yank by the ear," a third referred to "aliced, dried fruit."
He said he thought the name was of Indian origin and got into English more than 180 years ago.
