

PARTNER SEEKS DISSOLUTION OF DAVIS TRANSFER

In a suit filed in circuit court Tuesday by D. E. Warren against J. T. Davis, dissolution of the partnership in the Davis Transfer and Storage company is sought by Warren.

In an answer and cross-complaint filed by Davis, appointment of Frank Edwards as a receiver, is asked to handle the business during the period of accounting.

Warren, in his complaint, alleges that Davis "surreptitiously entered into a contract with the teamsters union of Medford, over his objections and further asserts the union 'interfered with the conduct of the business, and would not permit him to drive the equipment.' It is also alleged there was a controversy over finances and bookkeeping.

Davis, in his cross-complaint, admits a contract with the teamsters union, but declares Warren failed to comply with the partnership agreement relative to payments. The partnership was formed in April, 1937. Davis further alleges he was threatened with "bodily injury."

The cross-complaint further cites that over a period of years, a large and profitable business in southern Oregon and northern California has been built up, and the appointment of a receiver is necessary for its continuation.

Attorney Allison Moulton represents Warren and attorneys George M. Roberts and W. M. McAllister the defendant.

Judd-Kelly Rites Beautiful Event In Roseburg Church

At a beautiful ceremony held in Roseburg Sunday, July 31 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the Episcopal church, Miss Edith Virginia Judd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Judd of Roseburg, became the bride of Robert Emmett Kelly, son of Col. and Mrs. E. E. Kelly of this city.

Amid decorations of ivy vines, white gladioli and white tapers, the couple took their vows with the Rev. Perry Smith officiating in the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in traditional white satin gown of princess style, the sleeves and yoke of which were delicately inserted with lace, an Elizabethan collar and full length train completed the dress. Attached to her orange blossomed Juliet cap was a circular veil. The bridal bouquet was of havyard and white gladioli.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Frederick Chapman, who was gowned in turquoise chiffon, she wore a coronet of fresh flowers around her head and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of pastel shades.

The groom's sister, Miss Marjorie Kelly, was bridesmaid. She wore a princess style gown of georgian rust color with insets of white tulle. She also wore a coronet of fresh flowers about her head and carried a nosegay.

The bridegroom's little niece, Norreen Anne Kelly, was pretty as the flower girl. A "Snow White" dress of yellow taffeta and a coronet of matching flowers in her hair was her quaint ensemble.

Edward C. Kelly of Portland acted as his brother's best man. Ushers were James Judd, brother of the bride, and Keith Green.

Mrs. Kelly, mother of the bridegroom, was becoming in a flowered chiffon dress of varying blue shades and a blue hat. The bride's mother was gowned in a wine and green colored chiffon dress and matching hat.

Following the wedding ceremony, 100 guests were bidden to the Judd home for a reception.

The bride is a graduate of University of Oregon, where she was a member of Delta Zeta, social sorority. She has resided in Roseburg most of her life. She was instructor of physical education in Roseburg high school and the past two years has taught in St. Helens Hall in Portland.

FOREST FIRE FIGHTING TECHNIQUE EXPLAINED TO ROTARY BY CHIEF

S. E. Jarvi, fire chief for the Rogue River national forest, discussed the methods of combatting forest fires in an interesting address before the Medford Rotary club Tuesday noon at the Hotel Medford. Various types of forest and brush fires were described by Mr. Jarvi and the methods employed by the forest service to suppress them were outlined.

The creditable record of the forest service here for the 1938 season to date was pointed out by the speaker. In the Rogue River national forest there have been 97 fires, the largest burning an area of but 50 acres and the second largest an area of only 15 acres. A total of but 180 acres of brush have burned and no standing timber, he said.

Mr. Jarvi explained the working plan of the forest service in determining weather conditions, through 23 weather stations and classifying weather conditions in relation to fire hazards.

The forest service here is not in favor of closing the woods to logging operations, Jarvi said. Timber crews actually in the woods during extreme weather conditions provide additional man power for fire fighting activities in cases of necessity. The recent clothing of the Rogue River national forest for logging operations was due to a general order, he said, and not in line with the desire of the local forestry officials.
