Burning of slashings last night at the new site for bureau of air commerce vertical radiating towers attracted several hundred persons who thought a big fire had occurred.

The burning created a vast reflection which appeared near to town and many thought the administration building at the municipal airport was on fire. The radio tower site is three miles north of the airport and about three-quarters of a mile off the Midway or Table Rock road.

For weeks R. I. Stuart & Sons has been clearing the site but the burning of slashings was not permitted because of hazardous weather. A permit was granted for the burning last night.

The vertical radiating towers are used in the bureau's radio beam and broadcasting system, controlled here at the airport. With erection of the new towers an improvement will be utilized whereby the direction range and the oral broadcasting of weather and instructions may be done simultaneously without one interrupting the other as at present.

The four corner towers will radiate the radio beam which gives pilots their bearings while the inside tower will broadcast the weather and other announcements. It was explained by Mr. Pascoe. If a pilot is more interested in the beam, he can filter out the broadcast and thus procure his bearings without interruption. Mr. Pascoe said. On the other hand a pilot who is more concerned with information contained in the broadcast can filter out the beam. At present the beam and broadcasts alternate, one being off when the other is on.

GLADIOLUS FESTIVAL. FRIDAY, SATURDAY TO ATTRACT G. P. THROUGH

Third annual glad festival of the Grants Pass Gladiolus society will be held Friday and Saturday of this week, and officials are expecting the largest attendance of outside flower-lovers yet to visit the Climate city for the show.

Thousands of gladiolus will be on display at the Winstrout Ford show-room, and every establishment in the city will decorate their windows with banks of the flowers.

The festival will officially open at 11:30 a. m. Friday with a children's bicycle race, and close at 10 p. m. Saturday. Also on the program Friday will be the crowning of the festival queen in the morning and a concert by the city band in the evening. Saturday noon at the Del Rogue hotel, a luncheon will be held for all Pacific coast gladiolus growers, of which there are expected to be a hundred or more.

A feature of the gladiolus display at Winstrout's will be a showing by several coast growers of many new varieties of the flower. Each year the festival attracts many out-of-town visitors and Medford is expected to be well represented by growers and those interested.
