Step up, Folks - Billions, nice cool Billions!

TRAVELING is fun. It has become by all odds the favorite pastime of the nation. And no wonder! Along the highways lies a freedom such as the people of no other land ever knew.

And freedom rings—the cash register. It rings up close to five billion dollars. The money—cash—is spread through every artery, every vein and capillary of the country's business system.

Squarer meals mean $900,000,000 to the hotel and restaurant man. Merchants pick up a nice billion for supplies, souvenirs, and what not.

For gas and oil, the oil industry receives less than the merchant, less than the restaurant man—maybe $850,000,000. Yet without the oil industry's 13 billion dollar investment, without its 325,000 stations with their ever-present, ever-ready service, none of this would be possible.

PWA AUTHORIZES AID FOR SCHOOL AT ROGUE RIVER

Authorization of a grant of $24,156 for construction of a new high school building in Rogue River was announced today by the regional Public Works Administration office in Portland.

The estimated total cost of the building is $32,500, according to William Laing of Medford, architect, with the PWA grant amounting to 45 percent of the total. The school district has been bonded for $28,000 to make up the difference.

Application for the grant had been on file in the regional office only since June 18, and with its approval yesterday a near record for speed in authorization was set.

Bids for the building will be called in about two months, Mr. Laing said, with actual construction to start about November 1, depending on the speed of PWA acceptance of plans and specifications.

The one-story building will be located across the road from the present high school, and will be 138 by 121 feet in dimension, with six class rooms and domestic science and manual training rooms. The exterior will be of red brick and hollow tile and the interior wood frame with maple floors throughout. The roof will be of asbestos shingle.

A combination gymnasium and assembly will be 84 by 80 feet in dimension and will have full stage equipment. The study hall and library will be separated by folding doors, permitting the two rooms to be thrown into one.

The manual training room will be located in the basement, at will the central heating plant, which will also serve the grade school and its gymnasium, in addition to the new building.
