

'JIMMY' DENIES USING POLITICS IN POLICY SALES

President's Son Answers Saturday Evening Post In Biting Interview With Collier's Representative

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(AP)—"Jimmy" Roosevelt threw the long-discussed matter of his income before the American public today and declared in inclusive terms it was much smaller than a lot of people thought.

Income Revealed Young Roosevelt produced income tax records showing that from 1933 to 1937, inclusive, his income ranged from $21,714 to $49,167 annually.

Not All Easy Selling During his insurance selling days, he acknowledged, "I got into places I never would have if I wasn't the son of the president.

He named several large corporations whose insurance business he had failed to get because he was underbid, including Paramount Pictures, Stone and Webster, and the Ford Motor company.

The appearance of the interview was precluded by a National Radio (NBC) interview with Davenport from Eastport, Me., last night, in which Roosevelt went over much of the material covered in the article.

Johnson issued a statement in rebuttal which said in part: "The statement of James Roosevelt is a plea in practically every respect except as to the size of his income.

CARSON WILL PRESIDE AT MINERS' JUBILEE

Mayor Joseph O. Carson of Portland will act as toastmaster at the second annual Miners' Jubilee at Cave City, Sept. 3, 4 and 5, it was announced today by Homer White and Elwood Hussey, visiting in Medford in the interests of the celebration.

Among features of the jubilee, staged to call attention to the excellent mining possibilities of the Cave

City district, will be gold-panning contests, dances, mining exhibits and contests and games of all sorts. Every male citizen of the community will be forced to grow whiskers or pay a fine, the two men reported.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The stock market suffered an attack of war "nerves" today but late buying stimulants were administered and early losses running to more than 3 points were reduced.

As in the preceding session, brokers said, traders ran to cover on the fear of a military outbreak at the Czechoslovak border over the week-end. Tangible basis for this uneasiness, however, apparently was lacking.

The pace slowed after noon and the volume was comparatively small on the related recovery shift. Transfers were around 1,600,000 shares.

Today's closing prices for 32 selected stocks follow:

FORMER SEATTLE MAYOR WILL LEAD AVIATION SESSION

Charles L. Smith, former mayor of Seattle, Wash., will lead one of the discussions at the private fliers' round-table session of the Pacific Northwest Aviation Planning Council conference here September 16 and 17, it was announced today by A. H. Banwell, program chairman.

Mr. Smith and his wife are both pilots and are prominent in aviation circles. Mr. Smith will discuss recommendations for the simplification of regulations governing private flying. Mr. Banwell said.

Frank E. Caldwell, assistant to the United Air Lines vice-president in charge of operations, will come from Chicago to lead a discussion on the location and construction of airports. Mr. Caldwell is a former pilot and is now regarded as an authority on airport developments.

Congressman Clarence F. Lea of Santa Rosa, Cal., co-sponsor of the McCarran-Lea bill, has tentatively accepted an invitation to attend the luncheon September 16, Mr. Banwell stated.

Notice was received by Mr. Banwell today that a delegation from the Northwest Air Defense association would attend the Medford conference. The notice came from Adria Gutmann of Seattle, association vice-president.

Mr. Banwell is to go to Portland early Sunday morning by plane to confer with general committee members on perfecting the conference program. He plans to return by plane the same day.
